BONDS OF ALLIES TO PUBLIC AT 96¼

But Only to Investors Who Participate in Underwriting the Big Loan.

ONE MAN TO GET $30,000,000

John D. or Wm. Rockefeller or H. C. Frick May Be the Buyer of the Allies' Notes.

$5,000,000 TO GUGGENHEIMS

City Bank Has a $5,000,000 and a $3,000,000 Order—First May Be for James Stillman.

J. P. Morgan & Co. were deluged yesterday with applications from banks and individuals eager to participate in underwriting the Anglo-French $500,000,000 loan. At the close of the day Mr. Morgan said the aggregate had not been computed, and he was not prepared to say when the syndicate would be closed.

The flood of applications confirmed members of the syndicate in the belief that the underwriting of the huge credit would be found to be oversubscribed when all the applications were in. The London Times says that this is the largest exterior loan ever floated in any country.

Under rules adopted by the syndicate managers yesterday investors may obtain the 5 per cent. joint notes of Great Britain and France on a basis that will yield about 5.85 per cent., and a large demand from the investing public is expected.

One Investor Wants $30,000,000.

It was learned that a single subscription from one of the richest men in the United States had been received for more than $30,000,000 of the issue. Members of the Morgan firm, beyond admitting the fact, would not discuss this subscription or give any hint as to the identity of the man making it. One banker reported on Wednesday that he knew of investors who had pledged themselves to take more than $100,000,000.

Wall Street had a number of guesses as to the lone investor who could put $30,000,000 into a single class of paper. The three names heard most often were those of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., William Rockefeller, and Henry C. Frick. There are many other millionaires whose wealth would permit them to take that much of the new loan if it were not for the disturbance it would cause their other investments. In this class are J. P. Morgan, George F. Baker, Andrew Carnegie, Vincent Astor, Otto H. Kahn, Hetty Green, William A. Clark, and Charles M. Schwab. The latter was picked by a number of persons as the most likely purchaser of such a huge block. Samuel Untermyer could pay for $30,000,000 worth of bonds if he were to realize on all of his holdings at the present market values.

The Guggenheims Want $5,000,000.

M. Guggenheim's Sons, consisting of five of the Guggenheim brothers, have agreed to take $5,000,000 of the loan. It is understood that their application for this amount was made several days ago and was in fact one of the first received.

Two other large individual subscriptions were reported from the National City Bank. One of these is for $5,000,000, and the other for $3,000,000. There was a rumor in Wall Street that the $5,000,000 application was made in the name of James Stillman, but this could not be verified.

All of the banks taking part in the offering and many bond houses received a large number of applications yesterday, although few persons had had an opportunity to study the syndicate agreement.

Concession to Investors.

It developed yesterday that while individuals desiring to take small blocks in the offerings cannot become syndicate members direct, they can get the new bonds at the syndicate price, even though subscribing for a single $100 bond, by placing their subscription with one of the syndicate banks to be grouped with other applications and forwarded to the syndicate managers.

Purchases by investors in this way are to be handled as follows: Having subscribed for the underwriting, they can withdraw their bonds from the syndicate by payment of 98, the public offering price, and after the expiration of the syndicate agreement in sixty days, they will receive as a "commission" at least 1¾ per cent., making the net cost to them 96¼ or less. This ¼ above the price of 96 which Great Britain and France receive for the bonds is to cover the cost of the extensive advertising and circularizing of the loan and other minor expenses of the syndicate, the total of which will be below one-quarter of 1 per cent. on the full amount.

Terms of the Syndicate.

(1) Participations to be given to all classes of institutions, investors, dealers, &c., without restrictions;
(2) Syndicate to have right to repurchase up to 10 per cent. of total underwriting;
(3) Selling commission to be ¾ per cent. from which (a) ½ per cent. will be allowed other dealers and institutions with bond departments not in syndicate and (b) commissions not to be paid until syndicate is closed;
(4) Withdrawals to be allowed at 98 and interest, and not less than 1¾ per cent. will be rebated on bonds withdrawn after the syndicate is closed. Not to exceed ¼ per cent. of 1 per cent. reserved to cover expenses;
(5) Temporary receipts will be delivered at once in the form of direct obligation of the two Governments;
(6) Duration of syndicate sixty days;
(7) Withdrawn bonds shall not be resold during the life of syndicate and withdrawing participants shall be responsible for their numbers;
(8) Any incorporated bank gets a deposit equal to its participation on which it allows interest at the rate of 2 per cent. per annum, and
(9) Any participant withdrawing his full participation is relieved from any further syndicate liability.

More New York Underwriters.

In addition to the list of institutions in the New York group participating in the loan, as made public yesterday, J. P. Morgan & Co. announced the following yesterday:

Bank of Manhattan, Hanover National Bank, Columbia Trust Company, United States Mortgage and Trust Company,

LONDON ANNOUNCES HOLD-UP ON CABLES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Postmaster General announced today that, pending further notice, telegrams for all neutral countries in Europe, for Russia via Great Northern Lines, and for Siberia will be subject to forty-eight hours' delay.

A Berne dispatch says telegraph communications between Switzerland and Italy are interrupted.

Private telegrams sent from France to Swiss destinations are momentarily held up. Private telegrams passing through France, destined for Albania, Bulgaria, Denmark, Spain, Greece, Montenegro, Norway, Holland, Portugal, Rumania, Serbia, Sweden, North, South and Central America, will be subject to forty-eight hours' delay.

These restrictions do not apply to official telegrams and telegrams destined for newspapers and telegraphic agencies.

Western Union Telegraph Company officials announced yesterday that the French Government had notified them that on account of military necessities the acceptance of private messages destined to Switzerland had been provisionally suspended and that messages for the Continent via France would be subject to a delay of forty-eight hours.

BRITISH NEAR BAGDAD; MANY TURKS CAPTURED

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 1.—J. Austen Chamberlain, Secretary of State for India, last evening gave out additional details of the British success against the Turks in Mesopotamia. The previous report said that the Ottoman forces were in full retreat toward Bagdad, with the British in hot pursuit.

Last night's statement says the British cavalry entered Kut-el-Amara (ninety miles southeast of Bagdad) on Wednesday. The town was found to be deserted and the Turks in flight toward Bagdad by road and river. Along the river gunboats and steamers with an Indian brigade aboard started in pursuit. An aeroplane dropped bombs on one of the Turkish steamers.

"The total prisoners captured aggregate 1,650," says the statement, "but more are coming in. The Turkish force, which is commanded by Nureddin Pasha, is estimated at some 8,000 regular troops, who are assisted by a considerable number of tribesmen.

"The captured positions showed that the trenches had been constructed with remarkable thoroughness, having communication trenches extending for miles and a system of contact mines."

CAN'T GIVE NUMBER OF U-BOATS SUNK

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A desire for absolute precision was advanced by Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Admiralty, in the House of Commons this afternoon as the reason for not making public figures on German submarine losses. Mr. Balfour expressed great sympathy with the desire for such information, but said that the difficulty of satisfying curiosity on the subject was from "the inevitable margin of doubt which attached to any attempt to estimate the number of enemy submarines destroyed, and the consequent impossibility of giving accurate statistics.

"We have every graduation," he added, "from absolute certainty, through practical assurance, down to faint possibility. Facts like these are not fitted for statistical statements. Should the Admiralty confine itself to cases of absolute certainty we undoubtedly would be understating the truth. If we included all cases of reasonable possibility we might be exaggerating, and no defensible line can be drawn between these two degrees."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 30, (Dispatch to The London Daily Mail.)—I learn from Berlin that in well-informed naval circles no news has been received during the last few months from forty-seven German submarines. These are, therefore, supposed to be lost. The Admiralty has hitherto announced only seven losses in order not to disquiet the people, but the real number is said to be fifty-four.

Two German submarines were discovered in Portsmouth Harbor, England's chief naval depot, on Sept. 6, according to a correspondent at Southsea, a nearby watering place.

Destroyers succeeded in sinking one of the submarines and capturing the other, which turned out to be one of the latest and largest of the German U-boats. After placing the officers and crew ashore under guard, the submarine was docked and inspected. While the machinery was entirely different from that of England's undersea boats, the difficulties were overcome. The giant submarine is now fully manned by British, according to the correspondent, and has set out from Portsmouth on duty against the Germans.

ASKS BERNSTORFF'S AID TO PREVENT MASSACRES

State Department Makes Informal Request to Ambassador in Behalf of Armenians.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The State Department has placed an informal request before Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, asking that he use his influence with the German Government to interfere in behalf of the Armenians in Turkey.

The request, it became known today, was made some time ago, and as yet has not been directly answered by the Ambassador except with the text of a German consular dispatch, which stated that conditions among the Armenians had been exaggerated. Officials here stated that no formal representations on the subject had been directed to the Berlin Foreign Office and no such steps were now contemplated by the Government.

State Department advices have shown that, while so far there has been no violation of American rights which would make a basis for formal protest, evidence from unofficial sources indicate that American lives and property have been threatened.

Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople today sent a telegram to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, urging that contributions toward the fund for Armenian relief work be increased.

WIRELESS WAFTS VOICE 4,600 MILES

WILL CHANGE TELEPHONY

SCIENTISTS ARE IN DISPUTE

T. N. Vail Says His Engineers Worked Out the Problem—Nally Tells of Marconi's Tests.

While over all the world was being flashed the news yesterday morning that the human voice had been sent by wireless telephony 2,500 miles through the air—from Washington to California—a lone operator in a frame hut at the foot of a towering mast on the shore of Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, knew that the human voice had been heard almost twice that distance, for he had listened to words spoken in Washington 4,600 miles away.

That man was Lloyd Espenchied, an engineer for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, who had been sent to the far-off Pacific island by President Theodore N. Vail to await the test, which came as a climax of more than a year's preparation. Espenchied carried with him only a receiving instrument and was therefore unable to talk back to the United States naval wireless station at Arlington, Va. It was hours before he could get wireless telegraph connection with Mare Island, Cal., and tell J. J. Carty, chief engineer of the telephone company, that a miracle had been wrought. The news was relayed to Mr. Vail and the announcement of the accomplishment was made from the offices of the telephone company at 15 Dey Street at noon yesterday.

Exceeds Distance to North Pole.

The distance over which Espenchied heard naval officers at Arlington talk is greater than the distance from New York to the North Pole, which is 3,435 miles.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company yesterday made the following announcement:

"Wireless telephone communication from the Atlantic seaboard to Hawaii, a distance of 4,600 miles, is an accomplished fact. A message from the navy wireless station at Arlington, just outside of Washington, was sent last night to the United States naval station at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, near Honolulu. The special wireless developments which resulted in this feat were made by engineers of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Western Electric Company.

"The distance over which this wireless communication was held is greater than the distance from New York to London, New York to Paris, or from New York to many other important points such as Rome, Vienna, and Berlin.

"That transatlantic wireless communication is assured as soon as the disturbed conditions in Europe will permit of tests from this country is obvious when it is remembered that it is much more difficult to send wireless telephone communication across land than across water. This wonderful wireless message from Washington to Hawaii had to pass over the width of the entire United States before it encountered the more simple wireless conditions of sending over water. For the purpose of this test the sending was done from Arlington and the receiving was done on small special antennae erected by engineers of the telephone company by special permission of the United States Navy, at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

"The message at Honolulu was received by Lloyd Espenchied, an engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, who had been sent there by J. J. Carty, its chief engineer, to take charge of the observations, the successful results of which we are now able to report."

Following the receipt of Mr. Carty's telegram announcing the feat of talking through 4,600 miles of air, President Vail sent this telegram to his chief engineer at Mare Island:

> Carty, I want to congratulate you on yesterday's climax in the way of achievements, the greatest in intercommunication that the world has ever seen. To you and the wonderful staff created by you the world owes a debt.
>
> To throw your voice directly, without the aid of wires, from Washington to Hawaii—nearly 5,000 miles—a greater distance than from New York to Paris, Berlin, Vienna, or Petrograd, and greater than that between Seattle and Tokio or Yokohama, was wonderful, but to send the recognized voice part way over wire and part through the air was still more wonderful and was the demonstration of the chiefest use that probably will attach to the wireless as amplifying and supplementing, not substituting, the wire system and bring into conversational communication ships, islands, and places which cannot be reached.
>
> Your work has indeed brought us one long step nearer our "ideal"—a "universal system." THEO. N. VAIL.

Worked a Year Before Test.

Bancroft Gherardi, engineer of plant of the telephone company, who assisted Mr. Carty in the development of the wireless telephone, told last night of the painstaking work of more than a year preceding the achievement of talking 4,600 miles through air. Early in the Spring of this year, as a result of work already done, the engineers of the company talked over a distance of about 250 miles, using an experimental tower erected at Montauk Point, L. I., and a small tower in Wilmington, Del. Soon after this they talked 1,000 miles, from Montauk Point to St. Simon's Island, Ga.

Then Mr. Vail approached Secretary of the Navy Daniels and obtained permission to try experiments by the use of navy wireless stations. Mr. Daniels readily consented, and tests were started looking to transatlantic, and even transpacific, telephony.

"Another interesting feature of the tests yesterday," said Mr. Gherardi, "was that in a practical way the ability to connect wireless telephone systems with wire telephones was shown. Mr.

Russian Mine Destroys American Ship; Captain of Vincent and Three Others Hurt

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The American sailing ship Vincent was blown up by a mine off Cape Orloff, on the White Sea coast of Russia, near Archangel, on Sept. 27, and is a total loss, according to messages received at the State Department today from American Ambassador Marye at Petrograd and the Consul General at Archangel. Captain Amberman and three other men were injured and were taken to the naval hospital at Archangel; the rest of the crew were uninjured. The messages did not state whether the Vincent struck a mine that had become detached or ran too close to one of the Russian mine fields.

The Vincent was a freighter of 1,904 gross and 1,776 net tons, and was built in 1894. Until recently she flew the British flag and was owned by Charles Edgar Kelley. Under the act of Congress of Aug. 18, 1914, which admits foreign-built vessels to American registry under certain conditions, the Vincent was sold to Harris, Irby & Vose of New York, and was by them transferred to the American flag.

This is the fourth ship in which Mr. Harris and Mr. Irby were interested that has been lost since the outbreak of the war in Europe. Two others were lost off the Dutch coast by striking mines, and the fourth, the Leelanaw, was struck by a German submarine on July 25 last off the Orkney Islands while bound from Archangel for Belfast with a cargo of flax, listed as contraband by the Germans.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Captain, first mate, second mate, and carpenter were injured in the fire which destroyed the Vincent.

The loss of the Vincent was made known here in a dispatch from London Wednesday, which said the vessel had been burned. No details were given.

William L. Harris of the Harris-Irby Cotton Company of 15 William Street, owner of the Vincent, received a cablegram yesterday from Captain J. C. Amberman giving particulars of the disaster.

"The message was sent Sept. 29," said Mr. Harris, "the Vincent having hit a floating mine Sept. 27. The Captain and two or three of the crew of twenty-two men were struck by pieces of metal, but no one was seriously hurt. After the Vincent struck the mine she caught fire and became a total loss, the Captain stated. The ship was on her way from Archangel to England with 1,200 standards of railroad ties, and must have left port about a week ago."

CITY ASKS TAXES ON $12,000,000,000

Personalty Assessment Is Increased Twelvefold, Realty by $100,000,000.

BOOKS TO BE OPEN TODAY

Land Values Not Raised—Increase Is on New Buildings and Improvements.

When the tax books showing the 1916 assessments on all personal property and real estate in the city are opened at 9 o'clock this morning at the Tax Department in the Hall of Records, the assessment rolls will present a big surprise, it was said last night. It is understood that the personal assessments will aggregate between $3,500,000,000 to $4,000,000,000, and that the increase in the total tentative assessment on real estate will be more than $100,000,000 in the entire city.

This increase, it was said, will all be on new buildings and improvements mostly in the suburban districts, and the land values will remain about the same. While some of the tax officials expected there would be an enormous increase in the assessments on personal property this year, few believed that it would reach anything like the figure indicated a few weeks ago, when the amount was put at $4,000,000,000. The final assessment on personal property for 1915 was $340,295,560.

Realty Increase $100,000,000.

The assessed valuation of real estate in the city in 1915 was $8,049,859,912. It was expected that the amount would remain practically the same for 1916, or if it was decreased, the slump in real estate values in certain parts of Manhattan would be offset by the increase in new buildings, but instead of this being true, the slump in Manhattan values has been very small. It has been greatest in the Twenty-third Street district. In many other parts of Manhattan where a slump in values was expected, there has been a rise in values in new buildings and improvements on old buildings, particularly in the outlying districts, and this rise has jumped the assessment $100,000,000 more than the present amount.

The tax books showing assessments on real estate will be open until Nov. 15. Until then owners of real estate may make application to the department to have their assessments decreased. The personal property tax books will not close until Nov. 30.

The difficulties the city will encounter in the collection of a large tax assessment were outlined yesterday by Henry M. Powell, counsel to the Mills Legislative Tax Committee, which is soon to hold public hearings in this city. Mr. Powell said there are two opposing theories as to the effect this enormous increase in valuations will have. Some people, he said, believe it will result in a large increase in the payment of personal taxes which will lighten the burden on the already overtaxed real estate taxpayer, while others believe that instead of helping the real estate taxpayer, it will add to his troubles by increasing the amount of uncollected taxes.

Uncollected Taxes No Asset.

In this event, instead of there being an increase in the amount of the taxes at the end of the swearing-off period, there will be a decrease which will result in a large amount of uncollected taxes appearing on the State's books as assets of the city, whereas in fact they will be a liability.

Past experience has shown, Mr. Powell said, that whenever the assessment rolls have been increased, notwithstanding the increase in population and increase in wealth, there has been a corresponding decrease in the personal tax list. In 1899 the personal tax valuation was $13,374,239, and in 1914 it was $6,083,311.

The Federal income tax, Mr. Powell said, is based on a person's income for the entire year, but the liability to pay a personal tax is based on a person's wealth for a single day, namely, Oct. 1. No matter what personal property a person may have on Sept. 30, the day before, or Oct. 2, the day after, if the person has no personal taxable property on Oct. 1, that person is not liable to pay a personal tax for that year.

"When a much-heralded increase in the personal tax assessments is announced, the prudent citizen hastens to place his taxable assets on that day in such shape that he escapes liability."

The four largest items of personal property which are exempt or can be made exempt from assessment for local purposes are:

1. Savings bank deposits are not taxable to the savings banks, nor can the deposits be assessed to the depositors.
2. Stock in corporations are not taxable to the owners.
3. Owners of mortgages secured by real estate are not liable to taxation for local purposes if the mortgagees have paid the mortgage registration tax.
4. Owners of bonds secured by property outside of the State are not taxable if they pay the State tax on secured debts nor are owners of debenture bonds liable to a local tax if the secured debts tax is paid.

There is a mass of other property that is not taxable, such as imported goods in original packages, municipal bonds, United States Government bonds, State bonds, patent rights, copyrights, goods outside of the State, stock exchange

SUDDEN FORTUNES MADE IN WALL ST.

Investor Who Put $18,000 Into Bethlehem for His Baby Has $364,000 for Youngster.

Riches are coming so fast in Wall Street that families are being endowed from the profits in war stocks, and one baby, whose parents are very much in society, is wealthy without knowing it, according to stories flying about there.

J. Robinson Duff, who less than a year ago was just about able to buy 50 shares of Electric Boat at 13, has set aside $250,000 for Mrs. Duff and the youngsters, and yesterday he rented a new office at 61 Broadway to take the place of his desk room. How much more he has he doesn't know; but all in all he is worth more than $500,000, according to all accounts, and he admits he has that much and some more.

Considering that it took only $650 to buy his start in Electric Boat, J. Robinson Duff is doing very well, and so are many others. As the cigar stand man remarked looking out in Broad Street: "There are more millionaires than clerks in the Street."

Mr. Duff, who is a curb broker, made his first purchase when the war was well under way. He traded in and out of the market for a few weeks and at the first of this year he was pyramiding his gains and enjoying life. That worn look such as he used to have when he was trying to turn a few dollars with Ford Starters faded from his face. Electric Boat kept speeding up, its revolutions increasing every day the fortunes of J. R. Duff, now J. Robinson Duff. When it reached 500 he felt that the going was so good that he might as well unload ballast. That is why he set the quarter of a million aside for his wife, thus giving her an income of about $17,500 a year.

Mr. Duff, in the offices of James H. Oliphant & Co. at 61 Broadway, where he has been anchoring his electric boat to a mahogany rolltop, said he expected to move very soon into his more commodious quarters. For ten years he was an engineer with the Edison Electric Company, and that is how he got such an insight into the possibilities of what magnetically propelled craft might do. His ancestors came here in the Mayflower, and he expects to go away some time in a yacht. Many of his friends have congratulated him on his good fortune, for in the last four or five years he has had his ups and downs, especially in that era of the blue funk which settled over the Street before the battle of the Marne.

There is another case of sudden wealth which is known to the Street and also to the clubs. It pertains to the considerate fathers who bought for the baby 1,000 shares of Bethlehem Steel at 18 a little more than a year ago. The stock had been even lower than that. He did not need the money, so he just put the stock aside until the youngster should become of age. He had an idea that under the management of Mr. Schwab Bethlehem would improve. Then came the demand for shrapnel and munitions and the general activities of war time.

The stock was quoted yesterday at 364. If it keeps to its record for the next few years, there will be something like a million-dollar melon to hand over to the young person when he reaches his majority.

Everywhere there are signs of exuberant rejoicing down at Broad and Wall, but there was also joy in Haverstraw and Cos Cob, for the general public has shared in the profits in many a transaction in these stocks which the war has boosted.

Only the other day a man who last October was wearing his straw hat and dining at the Cafes des Enfants and glad of the chance, made a $50,000 killing in a week and gave a party at Long Beach that was certainly a function.

It is not unusual to hear of speculators clearing up $10,000 and $25,000 at a time, and some of them, judging by the way they spend money for automobiles, have money in the bank.

TWO DIE IN AUTO WRECK.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Allen H. Seaman of Searsdale Avenue, Yonkers, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Seaman, were instantly killed and Mr. Seaman's wife was probably fatally injured in an automobile accident this morning. Seaman, who was an inexperienced driver, lost control of his car while riding on the State Road and suddenly swerved to one side and rolled down an embankment.

Seaman and the women were buried under the wreckage. They were hurried to the Thrall Hospital, where the older woman died without regaining consciousness. Mrs. Allen Seaman is suffering from internal injuries and lacerations. The automobile was wrecked.

Mr. Seaman, with his wife and mother, left their home in Yonkers early yesterday morning for Milford, Penn., where they were to have spent a few days with friends.

Mr. Seaman, who was about 48 years of age, was well known throughout Westchester County. He was the proprietor of The Eastchester Citizen Bulletin, a weekly newspaper.

Serious Nature of the Allies' Drive Being Impressed Upon the German People

AMSTERDAM, Friday, Oct. 1, (via London.)—The fighting on the western front occupies large space in the German press. The Lokal Anzeiger says:

"It cannot be denied that the new offensive of the enemy is of the greatest importance. The enemy obviously is making repeated efforts to gain at last a decisive success. How long he will be able to maintain his efforts is uncertain, but we must expect that the heavy fighting will continue."

The Vossische Zeitung says:

"The severe fighting has reached the sixth day without slackening. This confirms the opinion already expressed that this time we have to do with extraordinary efforts.

"In view of the bitterness and indefatigable severity of the daily repeated attacks, we must come to the conclusion that this offensive surpasses all previous operations of the kind. It shows methodical and careful preparation, which can only be explained by a firm determination to force a decision."

BERLIN, Sept. 30, (by Wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—"German newspapers all point out the importance of the battle now in progress on the western front," says the Overseas News Agency. "The struggle is being carried on tenaciously, and up to the present time all the violent attacks of the enemy have failed. The losses of the enemy have been gigantic, but the fighting is still under way and a final decision has not been reached.

"The newspapers say it is useless to minimize the importance of the struggle, but they point out that the German Nation can well look into the future with confidence and trust in the bravery of the German Army, which is resisting heroically the enemy's well-organized efforts."

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 30, (via London.)—"News of the offensive on the western front is taken very seriously here," says the Berlin correspondent of the Politiken. "The Tageblatt remarks that nothing would be more foolish than to overlook the terrible seriousness of the recent battles in the west, and that it would be equally wrong for Germans not to have fullest confidence in their troops and leaders.

GENEVA, Sept. 30, (via Paris.)—The Pan-German Strassburger in commenting on the British victory in Northern Frace says:

"We must not underestimate the bravery of this adversary.

"In the Champagne, also, our losses unhappily have been heavy, notably in prisoners. In trench warfare captures are unavoidable when men remain to the end. It is not known if the French figures are exact, but they may be correct. Our losses are painful, but are compensated for by results."

DRIVING GERMANS BACK ON VILNA

Russians Gain 25 Miles in One Attack and 8 Miles in Another.

LOSE BATTLE AT SMORGON

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 1.—While Field Marshal von Hindenburg claims to have made some progress in his operations against Dvinsk and the official German report mentions that his cavalry had the best of engagements in the region of Postawy, it appears from Petrograd advices that the Germans were driven back 25 miles to the station of Postawy from the terminal station at Glubokoi on the Svienteyany-Glubokoi Railroad. This is a military supply vein running east from the Vilna-Dvinsk road and Postawy is about equi-distant from Glubokoi and the Vilna-Dvinsk artery. Its possession would greatly facilitate the attempt to flank the fortress of Dvinsk.

Further south, in the district west and south of Molodechno, the Russians say they have thrown Hindenburg's right wing back eight miles across the Lida-Molodechno Railway beyond the village of Krewo, so that General Ruzsky seems to be driving the invaders upon Vilna again.

West of Molodechno, on the railroad from that junction to Vilna, however, the Berlin official report says that the Germans have broken through the Russian position at Smorgon (which town has changed hands two or three times since the retreat from Vilna) and captured a thousand prisoners.

This drive is believed to be part of a movement southeastward in the direction of Minsk, designed to cut off the Russians retiring from Baranovichi.

South of the Pripet marshes, in which Field Marshal von Mackensen and his troops are stuck, the Russians have been driven back across the Styr River, but along the Galician border they are still hammering heavily at the Austro-German armies.

Russians Driving Germans Back.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 30.—Territorial gains of considerable extent by the Russians are indicated by the latest information received at the War Office. The Germans have been pushed back from the terminal station at Glubokoi, on the Svienteyany-Glubokoi Railway, to a point midway to the Vilna-Dvinsk Railway. The position thus reached is the station of Postawy, representing a gain of twenty-five miles.

In the district west and south of Molodechno the Germans have been forced back eight miles across the Lida-Molodechno Railway, beyond the village of Krewo.

At no part of the northern lines have German gains been announced, although battles of great intensity are being fought on the line from Kozians, on the Disna River, to Krivo, a distance of sixty miles in a straight line. On account of a bend to include the Viliya line to Smorgon, the actual extent of this front is eighty miles.

The Germans have concentrated strong forces along this line, including considerable bodies of troops drawn from the Pripet region.

South of the Pripet the Germans have won a local success at Czartorisk, twenty miles west of the railway junction at Sarny. They appear to have gained control of the Styr to a point south of Lutsk, which lately has been the scene of heavy fighting and now appears to be in the hands of the Germans.

A strong effort also is being made by the Germans in the region of Novo Alexiniec, fifteen miles north of Tarnopol. The Russian authorities believe

CALLS ON BULGARS TO DEMOBILIZE

ALLIES MAY BACK DEMAND

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Sept. 30, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—At an impressive session in the Chamber this afternoon, Premier Venizelos characterized the summons to the colors of Bulgaria's forces a grave menace to peace, and virtually called on that power to demobilize. Former Premier Gounaris, amid great enthusiasm, extended unreserved support to the Government's policy and the House ratified the decree of national mobilization and authorized a war loan of $30,000,000.

As soon as the Chamber had assembled Premier Venizelos mounted the tribune and made the following declaration:

"In September of last year I explained to the House the policy of the Greek Government toward the international situation as created by the European war. In February last we considered that the time had come to change that attitude but, having disagreed with the Crown, the Cabinet resigned.

"After the recent elections, having again been called to power, I considered in view of the great changes that have taken place meanwhile in the international situation that we should return to our original policy; but this normal situation was suddenly disturbed by the Bulgarian general mobilization, to which measure Greece could make but one reply—by ordering mobilization likewise.

"I must inform the House that after these two measures reassuring assurances were given by both sides. M. Radoslavoff, the Bulgarian Premier, declared to our Minister in Sofia that Bulgaria's mobilization had no purpose of attack either against us or our ally, Serbia, but was necessitated by Bulgaria's propinquity to the theatre of war and the object was to enable Bulgaria to maintain a policy of armed neutrality. We replied that so long as such was the significance of the Bulgarian mobilization, our own must not be considered as having any other object than the same armed neutrality.

"Despite these assurances, however, the situation must still be considered grave. Modern mobilization means such a serious dislocation of the country's financial and social life and entails such enormous expenditure that it cannot long be continued without serious danger to peace, and this danger is all the greater when one of the mobilized States does not conceal the fact that territorial statutes established by treaty between her and neighboring States is not considered worth respect.

"I do not say this to depict the situation as being darker than it is in reality, but may not conceal the real state of affairs from the nation, for although everybody in Greece desires peace I know well the incomparable spirit of self-sacrifice with which the Greek nation under arms is ready to defend both the country's territory and the nation's vital interests and oppose any attempt of any one Balkan State to acquire for itself a preponderant position which would put an end to the political and moral independence of the rest. Nevertheless, I should be happy if the quieting assurances given by the Governments of both the mobilized Balkan States should be followed by the simultaneous and prompt recall of mo-

BUT ABANDON HILL NO. 191

LONDON, Sept. 30.—While the Anglo-French troops in Artois apparently are now simply engaged in consolidating the ground won and opposing the German counterattacks, the battle for the German second line of defense in Champagne, the collapse of which would acutely menace the greater part of the German position in the west, is proceeding with the greatest stubbornness.

At several points the French troops have gained a footing in the second line, and some of them even went right through; but, encountering German reserves, were unable to maintain their progress. According to the German account, these latter troops were captured or exterminated.

The Germans, however, admit the loss of Hill 191, to the north of Massiges, where the French are not far from the railway triangle, the possession of which has been the greatest advantage to the Germans, as one of the lines has been used for supplying the Argonne army.

It is believed here that, besides the gain of ground both in Artois and Champagne and the improved position of the Allies generally, the recent successful operations must soon relieve the pressure on Russia and perhaps prevent the Austro-Germans from sending any large force against Serbia.

Already large reinforcements for the Germans are arriving on the western front, and their presence has already had the effect of slackening somewhat the Allies' offensive.

French Continue to Advance.

This official statement was given out by the French War Office tonight:

In Belgium our heavy artillery has supported the action of the British fleet against the batteries along the coast.

No important action occurred in Artois. The enemy has shown some activity near Armancourt. In the environs of Roye a strong reconnoissance was dispersed by our fire.

In Champagne we have gained ground to the north of Mesnil and more to the east, between Hill No. 190, to the north of Massiges, and the road from Ville-sur-Tourbe to Cernay-en-Dormois. At the latter point we have taken additional prisoners.

By a counterattack the enemy succeeded in recovering a footing in the "Ouvrage de la Defaite." A second counterattack, very violent in character, in the same sector was completely repulsed. The enemy has suffered important losses.

The clearing of the former German positions has permitted a more complete computation of the cannon captured. Their number is much greater than was previously announced. The total of field guns and heavy pieces captured from the enemy since Sept. 25 on the Champagne front alone has reached 121.

A flotilla of aeroplanes today dropped seventy-two bombs on the station at Guignicourt. The bombardment appeared to be very efficacious. The aeroplanes, though violently cannonaded, returned in safety to their base.

The Belgian official communication reads:

There has been intermittent cannonading at divers points on the front. Ramscapelle, Caeskerke, and Reninghe were bombarded.

The only resistance of the enemy in the Artois district has been a very violent bombardment of our new positions to the east of Souchez.

In the Champagne district we have secured a footing at several points in the trenches of the German second line of defense, to the west of the Butte de Tahure and to the west of the Navarin farm. At this latter point certain detachments of our troops made their way through and resolutely advanced beyond the German lines, but it was impossible for them to maintain this advance because of a curtain of fire maintained by the German artillery, as well as a very violent flanking rifle fire. Our men, however, hold firmly the points conquered by them on the second line of the enemy.

To the south of Ripont we have enlarged and completed our conquest of the first line German positions by taking possession of a portion of the important supporting works known locally as the " ouvrage de la defaite " (the defeat earthworks).

The night passed quietly along the remainder of the front.

In spite of most unfavorable atmospheric conditions, our air squadrons yesterday bombarded the lines of communication behind the German front. Shells were thrown down on the railroad stations in the valley of the Suippe, Bazancourt, Warnerville, Pont Faverger, and St. Hilaire-le-Petit, as well as upon a German column marching near Somme-Py.

South of the Menin-Ypres road a position occupied by two English companies was blown up.

Southeast of Souchez the French succeeded in penetrating our lines in two small sections. Fighting continues.

A French attack south of Arras easily was repulsed.

Battles between Rheims and the Argonne were very bitter. South of St. Marie-Py an enemy brigade broke through our outer lines of trenches and came in touch with our reserves which, during the counter-attack, captured 800 prisoners and destroyed the others.

All French attacks between the Somme-Py-Souain high road and the Challerange-St. Menehould railway were repulsed partly yesterday after bitter hand-to-hand fighting in which the enemy suffered heavy losses.

Early today a strong enemy attack on the front northwest of Massigas broke down. North of Massiges Hill No. 191, which was very much exposed to the enemy's flanking fire, was lost.

KAISER WILL FIGHT WHILE HE HAS SWORD

Won't Make Peace Till It Is Snatched Away, He Tells a Wounded Sepoy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Three disabled Indian sepoys, a Rajput and two Gurkhas, exchanged prisoners, are now in a Brighton hospital after ten months' captivity in Germany.

They were visited in their camp by the Kaiser. The Rajput describes the German "Padishah" as "a gentleman with a big mustache wearing a uniform covered with crosses and medals." He spent fifteen minutes with the Indians, asking them a number of questions and laughing and smiling all the while.

As the Kaiser left a sepoy's cot he touched the sabre by his side and said: "I will not make peace until this sword is snatched out of my hand."

KITCHENER SENDS HIS CONGRATULATIONS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 1.—The South Wales Daily Echo of Cardiff says an army order issued to the troops in France contained the following telegram from Lord Kitchener to General French:

" My warmest congratulations to you and all serving under you on the substantial success you have achieved, and my best wishes for the progress of your important operations."

SPEED IN ATTACK CUT FRENCH LOSSES

Men Charged So Rapidly That Relatively Few Were Hit, Paris Hears.

PARIS, Friday, Oct. 1.—The French losses in the recent offensive, so costly to the Germans, were relatively very light, according to statements made by persons in a position to know. The soldiers explain this by the speed with which the charges were carried out. In speed, they say, lies not only success for the attack, but safety for those who attack.

Most of the wounded were struck either by bullets or splinters from high explosive shells.

DESCRIBES SOUCHEZ CHARGE.

Frenchman Says His Side Had Personal Affronts to Settle.

PARIS, Friday, Oct. 1.—The French capital is being thrilled by stories of the fighting on the western front related by soldiers wounded in the desperate combats which have resulted in important gains for the Allies.

" For several days the Germans had been getting singularly aggressive and insolent," said one of the men who charged at Souchez. " They shouted insults at us and flung into our trenches notes wrapped around pebbles. One of their favorite taunts was 'You are too cowardly to come over here—come on if you are not too lazy.' This ended by getting on our nerves. It seemed to each one of us that we had not only France to defend, but a personal insult to wipe out.

" Thus when, at 12:45 on the 25th, the order came which sent us up against Hill No. 119, we were filled with joy. I was in the first 'wave.' We made one dash for the German trenches. Fifty yards from the goal machine guns took us, but we put on speed and jumped over the first trench without stopping. We knew the second 'wave' which followed would occupy the trench we passed.

" What struck me about this rush, the force and rapidity of which was incredable, was the smallness of our losses. Personally, I saw no one killed. Things changed, however, when he got between the first and second line of trenches. Until our supporting 'wave' arrived we underwent the united fire of both lines. It was then that a fragment of shell broke my arm and put me out of action."

Another man, wounded in the fighting between Perthes and Tahure, said:

" We took the offensive at 9:30 o'clock. I never shall forget the spectacle of our 'wave' of assault. A seething mass of men, clothed in uniforms hardly two or which were alike, but all animated by the same energy, joined in the charge. I was in a stream which passed four lines of trenches in four jumps. We ran like mad men forward, always forward. At one moment we were confronted at a distance of not more than ten yards by a 77-millimetre gun, still firing. It soon was silenced. Then I was hit in the chest by a bullet and it was all over for me. I was carried off on a stretcher and well looked after."

A resident of the region who has just arrived in Paris says the "great offensive" was expected because the French military authorities had ordered the evacuation of all villages situated within a few miles of the firing line.

" But never," he declared, " could I have imagined the awful havoc caused in the German trenches by our artillery. It was no longer a rumbling gunfire we heard in the distance, but a terrifying continuous roar. Melanite shells were hurled in a steady stream, sending earth, stones, and the trunks of great trees high into the air."

ATTACKS GROW FIERCER.

German Correspondent Reports Fighting of Extraordinary Severity.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 30, (via London.)—The correspondent of the Cologne Gazette at German Headquarters has sent to the papers a report of the fighting east of Aubérive on the French front yesterday morning, which he described as of extraordinary severity. After the preliminary engagements along the centre of this front, he says, the Allies made an attack under protection of an artillery fire which even surpassed in violence that of last Saturday when the allied attack was begun.

The position which the Germans held in the morning, however, he reported, was still maintained when night came, the Allies having been repulsed with severe losses.

BRITISH LOSE TWO GENERALS.

Sir Thompson Capper and G. H. Thesiger Kileld in New Offensive.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The British casualties in the recent offensive action on the western front included Lieut.-Gen. Sir Thompson Capper and Major Gen. G. H. Thesiger, both killed.

AMERICAN KILLED AT LOOS.

W. M. Nicholls, Annapolis Football Player, Among British Dead.

Special to The New York Times.

SPARTANSBURG, S. C., Sept. 30.—William Montague Nicholls, Second Lieutenant in the English Royal Field Artillery, was killed in action during the fighting around Loos on Monday, according to information received here today by his father from the British War Office. He had attended the Naval Academy at Annapolis, and was on the football team of 1913-14.

The cablegram received today reads:

London, Sept. 30.

George W. Nicholls, Spartanburg, S. C.:

Deeply regret to inform you that Second Lieutenant W. M. Nicholls, R. F. A., was killed in action between 26-27 September. Lord Kitchener expresses sympathy.

SECRETARY WAR OFFICE.

Lieutenant Nicholls enlisted in the British Army a year ago after taking the oath of allegiance to that country. He was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Royal Field Artillery and sent to the front in France. On March 21 last he was wounded, being shot through the thigh while taking ranges from a point of observation. After three months in the hospital he returned to the front.

He was 23 years old, is the third son of Judge and Mrs. G. W. Nicholls of this city, and a brother of S. J. Nicholls, member of Congress from the Fourth South Carolina District.

The British War Office has been asked as to the possibility of having his body recovered and sent to his home here for burial.

In a letter written to his mother on Sept. 13, from the headquarters of his detachment in France, Lieutenant Nicholls said that he was determined to fight it out with the country under whose flag he had enlisted, and with the completion of this war he intimated that he would remain in the service and be assigned to duty in India. He said that he was quite as ambitious and enthusiastic as he was the day he entered the service. While any references to his actual fighting were prohibited, Lieutenant Nicholls informed his family that he was with the Forty-third Brigade, Thirtieth Battery, Royal Field Artillery.

"ASPECT OF WAR CHANGED."

British Military Writer Convinced Germans Can Be Beaten.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Daily Chronicle's military correspondent says:

" The last five days have changed the whole aspect of the war—they have brought eventual victory within the region of absolute and calculable certainty. They have shown that the mastery in the west now belongs definitely to the Allies in such a degree that whenever and to whatever point the hammerstroke is now delivered it will go crashing through serried lines of fortifications upon which the enemy has spent twelve months of anxious attention and scientific ingenuity and upon the security of which all his hopes, not of victory but of an honorable peace, as he calls it, are entirely based.

" Each new stroke will bring the inevitable end nearer. After a time it will cease to be a matter of chipping deeply the surface. Suddenly a vital spot will be touched. This may happen any day and then will come the sudden shrinking of the German line and the abandonment of a large part, perhaps all, of the occupied territory.

" Such a point, for example, is the railway junction near Grand Pére, north of the Argonne, upon which the French are directing their efforts from Massiges. The moment that railway is reached the position of the Crown Prince in the Argonne woods becomes threatened and the long and costly German effort to turn the Meuse Heights from the rear will have been brought to nothing. The abandonment of the Argonne would mean in the long run a general German retirement along the whole line, probably to the line of the Sambre and the Meuse. Similarly the British capture of La Bassée and Lens would be followed by the shrinkage of the whole German line before Lille.

" The tale of the booty, gratifying as it is, is nothing like so enheartening as the clear and unquestionable proof that not merely the clearing of France and Belgium, but the definite defeat of the enemy is within our power. That is the lesson of the last five days' offensive."

OTHER DRIVES SUGGESTED.

Hints That These May Not Be Main Operations Planned.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 1.—A Paris dispatch to The Morning Post, dealing with the Champagne fighting, says:

" There is every reason to believe that the communiques err on the side of modesty. The gains so far announced were made some days ago, and the French soldiers are still pushing on in a wave of revived enthusiasm. There has been no check so far to the onward sweep, and the meticulously exact bulletins amply demonstrate the desire of the authorities to avoid awakening any tidal wave of optimism which mikht carry away our supposedly ill-balanced public mentality.

At the same time, although this advance is going on well, and although in the great general advance that is proceeding from here to the North Sea there has been substantial progress at other points, too, it must not be taken as certain that the first point of attack is the only one, or even the main one, though successful it may appear to be. It is just such happy demonstrations that prepare the way for other breaks through."

It is, therefore, worthy of note that it is not only in the Champagne that our tremendous artillery parks have shown their teeth. It is significant of the onward sweep of our advance in Champagne that there has been no word of counterattack at any point, showing that there has been no halt. The counterattack by the Crown Prince in the Argonne would be a skillful move at any other stage in the campaign, but it finds the French too strong now, even though he used at least six divisions for the purpose.

" All these weary months of tussling in the Bois de la Gruerie was for the purpose, not of forcing a way down south through the forest, but of manoeuvring for a break out on one of the two sides. In this counter-attack could the Crown Prince have got out toward the east and so toward Verdun, it might have created an awkward diversion, but by pushing into the Fille Morte corner he was creating simply a salient for himself, constituted by the valuable French positions at Manquois and Bcurenilles, won at great cost some eight months ago.

" The Crown Prince has further been visibly nonplused by the great increase of the French artillery force in the Argonne. It has been found possible to mount heavy guns even in that terribly difficult country, and to such effect that the German artillery has been totally ineffective, and such weighty efforts as this last one has been split up and destroyed our guns. On the other hand, as matters are going up from Viliesurtourbe, the Bois de la Gruerie looks not far from being cut off. It is a significant thing that the sight of cavalry mounted set French infantry in Champagne into transports of enthusiasm. They know what it means.

" Prisoners are in great proportion nervous wrecks. Normally men of best type they are obviously broken up morally. Incidentally they were also very hungry and ravened like wolves upon the wholesome French bread and tinned rations that were generously offered them."

SAYS DRIVE WILL FAIL.

Has Already Been Halted, German Correspondent Affirms.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 30.—The correspondent of the Cologne Gazette in Champagne sends the following to his newspaper:

" It is continually becoming clearer that the enemy's surprise thrust, carried out by a tremendous array of forces, which had been in preparation for several months, will not succeed. The attack has now been brought to a standstill all along the line, and the prospects of a further attack are being awaited with equanimity. The spirits of our men are excellent and their movements are being executed calmly and confidently."

BRITISHER'S STORY OF HOOGE ATTACK

Found German Trenches Could be Taken When Allies Wish, He Says.

MOSTLY A BAYONET FIGHT

British Troops Fell Back, But Not Because They Were Unable to Hold Out.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 1.—Relatives and friends of British soldiers who have taken part in the fierce fighting of the last few days in Northern France have begun to receive letters from the fortunate ones who went unscathed through the attacks, while the casualty lists of those who met with disaster are being collected at the War Office and their relatives notified.

A picturesque story of the fighting at Hooge was told by one of these men, a Territorial, with six wounds in one arm inflicted by a type of bomb known as the "whiz-bang."

" Because we took trenches and didn't hold them," he said, " don't imagine there was anything amiss at Hooge. All is going well, and if there had been no such thing as machine guns we would have gone straight through the whole German line and now be on our way to Berlin.

" Those trenches which we gave up we can take again, and what is more we can hold them when we want to do so. We don't give up ground except on orders from superior officers, who sometimes decide the situation in adjoining parts of the line doesn't justify the retention of certain advanced positions.

" It is ridiculous to hear some people talk about our attack being a surprise to the Germans. It was so far from a surprise that the Germans had already brought up tremendous reinforcements against us on Saturday, including a small army of bomb-throwers. From dawn to evening the fighting was terrific. Our brigade had known for days that we were on the eve of a big movement, and the Germans also were expecting it.

" The only orders I remember were a preliminary 'Get ready,' and then the sharp command, 'Get over.'

" We jumped the parapet without any superfluous motions, and then, like a flash, the whole front moved forward straight across the eighty yards which separated us from the enemy's front trenches. Then it was bayonet work, and after an incredibly short time we were fighting fiercely between the second and third lines of German trenches. Our officers led us splendidly, and the men are enthusiastic over the whole job."

NO PEACE NOW.

Bishop of London Says England Must Fight for Another Year.

Special to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 1.—The Bishop of London has written a letter to his diocese in which he says:

" The one thing to be most dreaded just now is an inconclusive peace at the end of the first year of war.

" It was in these first twelve months that the long preparations of men and munitions and machine guns would be sure to tell, but wait for the next twelve and if we show ourselves worthy of the great cause intrusted to us, Aug. 4, 1916, ought to have a very different story to tell. We must be perfectly ready to take our share of danger."

ANOTHER ZEPPELIN RAID?

Six Airships Were Sighted Yesterday Over Aerschot.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Six Zeppelin dirigible baloons were sighted today over Aerschot, twenty-three miles northeast of Brussels. The airships were bound in a westerly direction.

This information was contained in a dispatch from Amsterdam to the Central News Agency.

ITALY EXPELS AMERICAN.

Henry Fairbanks Montagnier First Arrested and Then Sent Away.

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 30.—The American Alpinist, Henry Fairbanks Montagnier of Terre Haute, Ind., had an unpleasant experience at San Remo, where he was arrested by the Italian authorities last Sunday upon his arrival from Nice by order of the Minister of the Interior at Rome on the ground that his presence "constituted a danger to public safety."

He was taken by two gendarmes to a prison, where he spent two nights and one day, after which he was allowed to communicate with his wife and an attorney. He then was taken before the Chief of Police, who informed him he would be expelled from Italy. He chose to go to Switzerland and was conducted to Chiasso.

Mr. Montagnier asserts that he had lived for five years at San Remo and was greatly surprised at his arrest, the reason for which he has not yet been able to fathom. He intends, he declares, to protest through American diplomatic channels at Berne, Rome and Washington against the order expelling him from Italy, and hopes to have it rescinded.

PASS MOTOR-CAR DUTIES.

Commons Agrees to Proposal by Big Majority—Speech by Asquith.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—By a vote of 174 to 8 the House of Commons this afternoon passed the motor-car import duties proposed in the Budget presented by Reginald McKenna, the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Premier Asquith pleaded with the uncompromising free traders not to force a division on the motor duties proposal, but his plea was futile. In the course of a brief speech, the Premier said the Government regarded the import taxes as an integral part of the Budget, which represented the unanimous judgment of the united Cabinet. He thought his own free trade record above suspicion, and if he considered the Budget prejudiced the cause of free trade he would not subscribe to it, he declared.

These import taxes, the Premier said, were being imposed to regulate foreign exchanges, and anything proposed in these abnormal times could not be taken as an example of the kind of taxation that would be imposed in time of peace. The object of the Budget, he added, was to produce revenue, diminish unnecessary consumption, and check superfluous imports.

Chancellor McKenna withdrew the proposed import duties on hats and plate glass.

TURKS BOMBARD ALLIES.

ALLIES' LOAN ENVOYS GUESTS OF PILGRIMS

Lord Reading Responds to Enthusiastic Greeting of 400 Diners.

TELLS STORY OF CHOATE

Toasts and Cheers for Presidents of United States and France and the King of England.

More than 400 members of the Pilgrims, including many men prominent in banking, business, and politics, cheered themselves hoarse last night at a dinner at Sherry's tendered to the members of the Anglo-French financial mission, who have just completed arrangements for a loan of $500,000,000 to Great Britain and France. Led by George Wilson, a Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, the diners three-cheered the President of the United States, the King of England, and the President of France; greeted with wild outbursts of applause every wish expressed that the Allies might speedily win the European conflict, and agreed with the venerable Joseph H. Choate at every opportunity offered them that they had no wish to be considered neutral onlookers of the great struggle in Europe.

The dinner was made memorable by two of the most eloquent speeches ever delivered at a gathering of the Pilgrims. Mr. Choate presided as toastmaster, and while the orchestra played the national anthems of France, Great Britain, and the United States, he offered a toast to the Presidents of the two republics and to the King of England. Mr. Choate said he had determined to be present at the dinner if he never got out again. He said he was frankly not neutral.

Mr. Choate Not Neutral.

" We are a neutral nation," cried Mr. Choate in a voice that had lost none of its old power," but the units of this nation are guaranteed by the Constitution the right to freedom of speech, freedom of thought, and freedom of the press. So, speaking not for the nation, but for myself, I say that when I see men fighting for their rights, I am with them."

All of the members of the commission excepting Sir Edward Holden, who was worn out by his trip from Chicago, were at the dinner. With them at the speaker's table sat Chauncey M. Depew, who delivered one of his happy speeches; Robert Adamson, George W. Bowring, Dudley Field Malone, Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, William A. Prendergast, Marcus M. Marks, Oscar S. Straus, and others under the intertwined flags of the United States, Great Britain, and France.

Lord Reading received such a thunderous ovation when he rose to speak that he seemed overcome for a moment. His words were chosen with the greatest care, and not one was lost even in the furthest part of the large ballroom. He expressed, more by what he kept from saying than by his words, the depth of his feeling at the introduction pronounced by Mr. Choate and at the warm reception tendered him by the Pilgrims. He said:

Lord Reading's Speech.

" Mr. Choate and Gentlemen: I have not the accomplishment which your eloquent and distinguished Chairman possesses, that is, I am not a neutral, and I cannot, therefore, say to you what I would like to say. I have felt during his speech that the bonds of restraint which I should have to put upon myself when I speak to you were very near bursting.

" It was worth coming to the United States to hear from one of your most distinguished citizens the words that have fallen from him from the very depths of his heart. It was worth far more than that, for my colleagues both from Great Britain and from France linked together as we are in one common interest and in one great affection, to come here and meet you at this banquet, to recognize your sympathy for our countries, and, believe me, if I say no more about it, it is not because I do not feel much; it is rather because in the capacity which I fill at this moment and as your guest at this assembly, I could not trust myself to say even part of my thoughts.

" When I return to England and when my colleagues from England go back with me, and when my colleagues from gallant France return, they will be able to say what they saw tonight; they will be able to tell what they heard, and, above all, it may be given to them to be able to reproduce the sympathetic atmosphere which perhaps no words will ever be able to give to our own people.

" It is a most charming and kindly thought of this club to invite us to dine with you tonight. We had set ourselves rules; I, as presiding judge among us, had received the unanimous consent of my colleagues that above all we should eschew dinners—particularly banquets, because we are not much in the mood for banquets—that we would not make speeches because we could hardly speak of the things which were uppermost in our hearts and thoughts, but there came this invitation from your society.

" You forced us to break our word. I never had any misgivings about it. I searched my mind for a precedent for breaking a rule which had been laid down and I found it—I recollected what had happened to your distinguished Chairman, of which I will tell you in a minute—and I determined that there was no better precedent to be found than that stated by Mr. Joseph Choate. And I said, 'Where Mr. Choate goes, thither will I venture.'

" He reminded me of the evening when we were together at the Honorable Society of the Middle Temple, of which he had been a humble member and had arrived at the position of being elected a bencher. It perhaps conveys nothing to you, or to most of you, but perhaps it will help you a little if I tell you that, instead of dining at the ordinary table, we dined at the high table, and that the best wine was served for us, and the signal was given when we came into the dining hall and another signal was given when we came out, and we retired from there and discussed everything—as Mr. Choate has correctly said — except law. We never discussed law, partly because we had enough to do with it during the day and partly because, there being many Judges there, we felt sure we should never agree. Mr. Choate, some very short time—twenty-four hours, as he so accurately said—after I was elected a bencher — Mr. Choate honored, greatly honored, the Middle Temple by becoming one of our benchers. He is one of our most cherished possessions.

Mr. Choate as a Bencher.

" When we are asked who are the members of this society, why, one of the first we mention is Mr. Choate, and I always add: 'He is twenty-four hours junior to me.' In passing out of this hall, when all the students stayed there, Mr. Choate, being the last elected bencher, had to pass out with me, the junior who had preceded him, and as we arrived and I had his arm, and I was leading him into our parlor, there was a cry from the students in the bar for a speech. Such a thing had never been heard of since the days of Queen Elizabeth—a speech from a newly elected bencher leaving the hall! Well, we of the old world stood aghast.

" He of the new world cast me off and turned and made one of those delightful, high-minded, dignified pronouncements which we in England associate with the name of Joseph Choate. So now we will see how it is and why it is that, being a lawyer, and particularly a Judge, I found the distinguished precedent for breaking a rule which I have followed.

Had Been Invited by the Bar.

" You have spoken tonight to me during the course of the dinner, Mr. Chairman, of the visit of my predecessors in the office which I now hold to this country — two distinguished men, Lord Coleridge, and then, later, Lord Russell. Both of them, when holding their appointment as Lord Chief Justice of England, visited your country upon your invitation. It is a strange irony of fate and yet a strange turn of the wheel of fortune that I should find myself addressing you here tonight, because, but for the war, in all probability I should have been visiting the United States this year as the guest of one of your law associations to which I had made a promise I would attend in 1915 and deliver an address, but at that time no one foretold the war. Evidently the engagement was not to be fulfilled. I am here now in another capacity.

" You may not know what I have come for; at least I think it would be indelicate of me to mention it to you after dinner. It is a most curious thing that so many of the things which I thought and said to myself, 'you must not say,' your Chairman, with that extraordinary genius which he possesses, seemed to think of as exactly the kind of thing that he might say, and I will pass from it with only this observation, that I am here, it is true, as the Lord Chief Justice of England, but not in that capacity. I am here as the Chairman of the mission of the Government of Great Britain and of France, sent to this country for a purpose which is well known to you.

" It has not been a holiday task; it is one full of responsibilities. Had it been a holiday task none of us would have been here. These are not times for holidays for us. But proud as we are, privileged as we think ourselves, honored beyond our merits in being selected by our countries to come here to this great country as missionaries, we feel that we owe you a debt of great gratitude for the reception that you have given us.

" Your generous and even enthusiastic opening of your arms and your hearts to us has touched us deeply. We feel tonight that we are among friends—that we are at home among you. We came as strangers, and we have been received as relatives. We are here tonight in a society which exists for the purpose of promoting good relations between the United States and Great Britain, to which you have felicitously joined for this evening the great Republic of France.

" We thank you and we thank your people and do believe me that I speak in all earnestness and from the bottom of a heart which is fuller, perhaps, than you can gauge who have not had to go through the thirteen months which we in England and France have had to endure. I say to you you have done much to help us by your sympathy and we never, under any circumstances—and I speak for all of us, and Mr. Homberg will speak for the Republic of France himself—never under any conditions can we forget that on this occasion, on this Sept. 30 of the year 1915, after our thirteen months of war, when we came here to you, as we have done, that you of this Pilgrim's Society have clasped us to your hearts and made us feel warmly and more deeply than ever what a great bond humanity is."

Choate's Sympathy for Allies.

Mr. Choate referred to Lord Bryce, former Ambassador to the United States, as the Englishman dearest to the hearts of Americans, and said that there were those in this country who regretted that the United States could not express in an official way the feeling of horror that arose from the report on the Belgian atrocities. He called the war a contest between freedom and slavery, in which this country could be counted on the right side.

" Morals," said he, " like the chameleon, take their color from the country over which they run. To be temperate is to know how much of anything is good for one. Virtue is often the shrinking from a temptation that has no attraction. Nowhere do things happen so inexplicably as in this world. The Church cannot explain this world, and so strongly recommends the next. We learn from history that no warrior statesman ever learns anything from history. There shall always be a balance of power, for of such is the kingdom of England."

There were present at last night's dinner many prominent financiers who have dealt with the members of the commission in arranging the big credit. They hugely enjoyed Chauncey M. Depew's description of the loan, in the course of which he indulged in some good-natured sarcasm at the expense of William J. Bryan.

" Brother Bryan uttered a thought which could never have been conceived in any other brain than his," said Mr. Depew. " In a speech at Atlanta yesterday he denounced this loan, as designed to take $500,000,000 out of this country. Mr. Bryan should approve this transaction, for it takes dollars out of Wall Street, which he loathes and away from the investors whom he despises, to put them into the pockets of Nebraska farmers. We have accomplished what used to be considered the impossible by lifting ourselves with our boot-straps. We make the goods and we pay ourselves for them. That can only be done because we live in an age of science, in an age of aeration."

bilization, and thus avert danger to peace."

The Premier's speech was received with prolonged applause by the whole House and galleries. M. Gounaris, as leader of the major opposition, rose and in a few words stated that his party approved both the mobilization and other measures adopted by the Government, and in such matters Greeks of all parties were entirely as one.

ATHENS, Sept. 30.—In his speech in the Chamber today, in which he explained the reason for the mobilization of the Greek forces, Premier Venizelos declared it to be the purpose of Greece to maintain all her obligations in supporting Serbia. Renewed assurance was given within the present month, he said, that Greece was ready to support Serbia if a casus foederis arose, but he sincerely hoped that a casus foederis would not present itself.

Former Premier Gounaris, leader of the minority which had favored a policy of neutrality, approved the declaration of the Government, and the Opposition joined in the enthusiastic demonstration with which the Premier was received. A bill applying martial law to the Saloniki, Florina, Seres, and Kavala districts, as well as to Athens and Piraeus, was passed at once.

The scene within the Chamber as the Premier announced the Government's policy was a striking one. Numbers of Turks in turbans were notable among the forces opposed to the Minister, while on the Government benches were numerous Cretans in baggy blue bloomers, brilliant red sashes and embroidered jackets. Many held chaplets of amber beads. Here and there rural members appeared in the native costume of plaited skirts and white cloth tights. Every one who entered the galleries, which were filled to repletion, was searched by soldiers for possible concealed weapons.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—The Temps says that the French Government has arrived at a certain decision as to what should be done to avert an attack on Serbia by Bulgaria. The indications are that Russia will assent to this plan, that Italy will not oppose it, and that England probably will give her adherence.

The nature of the plan is not disclosed, but the Temps states that the situation in the Balkans requires that the prospective Bulgarian attack on Serbia shall be prevented by a demand on Bulgaria for immediate demobilization.

This newspaper asserts it has reason to believe that the reports from Saloniki that Bulgaria has definitely agreed to take the field on Oct. 15 are correct, and that delivery of the territory recently ceded by Turkey is contingent on action by Bulgaria against Serbia at that time.

ROME, Sept. 30.—Serbia has offered Greece the districts of Guievgeli and Doiran in Macedonia in exchange for participation in an expedition of the Allies against Bulgaria, according to the Giornale d'Italia.

FOR RUMANIAN NEUTRALITY.

Conservative Leader Says It Must Be the Country's Attitude.

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (via Wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—The Overseas News Agency sends out the following among its dispatches:

" Special reports from Bucharest say that at the opening of the clubhouse of the Conservative Party Alexander Marghiloman, the President, and leader of the Conservatives, in a speech, declared that the only attitude for Rumania was one of neutrality, as decided upon by the Crown Council.

The four members of the Anglo-French commission who had been in Chicago returned to this city yesterday. The commission has about completed its work here, and with the exception of Basil B. Blackett, the members will shortly sail for home. It is expected that Sir Edward Holden, who has not been well, will take passage for Liverpool on the American liner St. Paul, sailing Saturday. Suggestions for other credit arrangements may be taken up with Mr. Blackett by American bankers.

" I am of the opinion that its effect on cotton will come more indirectly through the expansion of other lines of business of export demand. We are already exporting considerable quantities of cotton to Europe, the total shipments since Aug. 1 having been 524,394 bales, compared with 125,725 bales last year in the same period. Liverpool has a stock of 1,034,000 bales, which is 200,000 bales greater than a year ago, and more than double the supply of two years ago."

GERMANS CRITICISE LOAN.

Argue That Allies Must Be in Bad Financial Condition.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—The Anglo-French loan which is being raised in the United States has aroused great interest in Germany.

" Leading financiers of Berlin," says the Overseas News Agency, " agree that, although British dispatches leave some features of the loan in doubt, the conditions are very unfavorable for England and France. A few years ago no one in either country would have thought it possible that such a loan would be issued in the United States at 96 and redeemable in five years. This means that England and France are paying about 6 per cent. interest.

" It is generally believed also that in addition to the bonus of 2 per cent. paid to the syndicate of underwriters other bonuses will be given, particularly, according to the American custom, to the leading house. It is probable that the share accorded to Russia will be small, if any part of the loan goes to that nation, although the Russian Minister of Finance is now in London.

" In some quarters it is remarked that if the loan is offered for public subscription it will be a strange kind of neutrality on the part of a country which also finances sales of war material to Germany's enemies. The general impression is that the financial situation of England and France is such as to leave them no choice. This is indicated by the fact that a 2 per cent. bonus was given to the syndicate."

LONDON VIEWS CONFLICT.

One Financial Expert Says Terms of Loan Are Reasonable.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 1.—The Daily Telegraph's City Editor, in writing of the American loan to the Allies, says:

" The general view in the city was that if the reported terms of the $500,000,000 American loan were correct, the bankers and the public in the United States have secured a unique opportunity for investment. The actual cost to the borrowing government works out at £5 18s. 10d. per cent. This rates seems very high and will undoubtedly cause much rejoicing in German newspapers, which affect the pretense that German credit is better than English, but no one knows better than Dr. Helfferich that Germans could not raise $500,000,000 in the United States on any terms whatever. While Americans understand that it is to their own interest to provide exchange in order that their exports may not be checked, they are also clever enough to realize that we should not buy from them if we did not need the goods."

One of the highest financial experts of London, who is in a position to speak with special authority on the subject of the Franco-British loan, said that certain criticism made here regarding the terms did not reflect the best London opinion. Special conditions necessitated special terms, and those obtained by Lord Reading's commission were not very different from what had been expected when the commission sailed.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 1.—The Daily Telegraph, in its financial article, brands as unpatriotic attempts from this country to invest in the American loan, and says:

" The tendency was observed yesterday on the part of certain people to buy exchange on New York for this purpose, and, although it may be impossible to prevent operations of this kind on the part of cosmopolitan capitalists, who admit that they are only naturalized here for business purposes, it is well they should know that their actions are being carefully observed.'

TO TAX ENGLISH HOLDERS.

War Loan Will Not Escape Income Impost Even if Bonds Are Here.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Reginald McKenna, Chancellor of the Exchequer, made the statement in the House of Commons today that English holders of the Anglo-French loan floated in the United States would be subject to the income tax wherever they hold the bonds, either here or in the United States.

WARNS ENGLISH INVESTORS.

Their Efforts to Participate in Loan Defeat Its Object, Telegraph Says.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 1.—The Daily Telegraph says this morning: " A tendency was observed yesterday on the part of certain people to buy exchange on New York for the purpose of investing in the new dollar loan. It need hardly be pointed out that efforts to participate in the loan by investors in Great Britain tend to defeat the very object of its flotation in the States.

" This object is to curtail payments which we have to make to the United States in the immediate future, and so to redress the adverse trade balance which turned exchange against us. Buying American exchange means sending money out of the country, and to do so for the sake of obtaining a high rate of interest is at the present time most unpatriotic. It may not altogether be easy to prevent the cosmopolitan capitalists, who admit that they are only naturalized here for business purposes, from carrying out operations of this kind, but it is well that they should know that their actions are being carefully observed."

FRENCH PLEASED BY LOAN.

Paris Temps Thinks German Propaganda Helped the Allies.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—The Temps, commenting on the American loan to Great Britain and France, says:

" The conditions of the loan are as favorable as circumstances permit. They show the solidity of French and English credit, and the confidence of America in the ultimate victory of the Allies. The fact that the money is to be used to pay for the Allies' purchases in America and make stable the exchange rates in no way modifies the significance and effect of the operation. The brutality of the German propaganda seems to have accentuated the trend of opinion in the United States, already favorable to the Allies."

GUARDS FOR DAWES, WHO WILL AID LOAN

Banker Has Received Many Threatening Letters and Friends Are Alarmed.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Two guards were on duty tonight outside the suburban residence of Charles G. Dawes, President of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, the first Chicago banker to announce his intention to recommend subscription to the proposed $500,000,000 loan to England and France.

The guards were put there on the insistence of Mr. Dawes's friends after they had learned of the receipt of several threatening letters. One of the letters informed Mr. Dawes that he would be killed if he did not withdraw his support of the loan.

Mr. Dawes ascribed these letters to the work of cranks.

PHILADELPHIA WANTS $20,000,000 OF BONDS

Banks, Insurance Companies and Munition Makers to Swell the Subscriptions.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—Philadelphia's financial institutions quickly responded today with subscriptions to the $500,000,000 Franco-British loan for the purpose of facilitating purchases for the Allies in this country. Two banks alone pledged $1,000,000 each and others $200,000 to $500,000. The Girard Trust took $1,000,000, and the Philadelphia National Bank a like amount. The Fourth Street National and other prominent banks applied for liberal sums, but the officials felt that any announcement as to individual subscriptions should come from the headquarters of the underwriters in New York.

At least $20,000,000 will be taken by Philadelphia's banks and trust companies. Some of the big munition manufacturing companies will join the movement, and large insurance companies will supplement these subscriptions before the close of the week.

As far as could be learned not a single financial institution raised objection to pledging funds for the big loan. Officials were all outspoken in favor of it, and said Philadelphia could be counted upon to render hearty support.

Absorbing Boston's Share.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Subscriptions to the Anglo-French bonds were booked so fast in Boston today that brokerage houses kept their forces on the jump. At one of the leading brokerage offices it was said at noon that there was every prospect that the bonds would be oversubscribed.

Baltimore Takes $5,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 30.—In financial circles today it was stated that the $4,000,000 figure set at the Clearing House meeting yesterday for Baltimore's participation in the Anglo-French loan would be increased a million or more. A number of the munition manufacturing concerns here and others benefited by war orders from the Allies will be indirect subscribers. It is understood that at least two houses with pro-Germans as executives are subscribing on a large scale.

$100,000,000 Allotted to Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—There was a marked increase of interest in the Anglo-French loan in banking and investing circles in Chicago today. Chicagoans applied to various banking institutions for large amounts of the foreign bonds, and many banks displayed a friendly attitude toward the bonds as an investment. Interest was further stimulated by advices from St. Paul that James J. Hill had made arrangements direct with J. P. Morgan & Co. in New York to take $2,500,000 as an individual and as part of the $100,000,000 of the loan allotted to Chicago and the Middle West.

Pittsburgh Seeks $20,000,000.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—That upward of $20,000,000 of the $500,000,000 Anglo-French bonds will be subscribed for by Pittsburgh investors was the statement of a local banker today. He admitted that plans already well under way practically guarantee the raising of at least that amount in this district.

Senator Stone Against Loan.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—United States Senator William J. Stone, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, in a statement on the Anglo-French loan today said: " I am resolutely opposed to anything calculated to convert any part of our people from our national attitude of honest neutrality into an attitude of partisanship in this European struggle."

LOAN AIDS OUR PRODUCERS.

National City Bank Explains Its Need to American Industry.

The National City Bank's October letter, to be issued today, is devoted almost entirely to a discussion of the Anglo-French loan and the conditions that brought it about. Extracts from the letter follow:

" The merchandise imports of the United States from all countries for the fiscal year 1914 were $1,893,925,657, and for the fiscal year 1915, $1,674,169,740, and the trade balances in favor of this country were, respectively, $470,653,491 and $1,094,419,600. It is evident now that unless our exports are curtailed by the inability of would-be buyers to make payment, the trade balance in favor of the United States for the current year will be larger than for the year just closed.

" The situation, therefore, encourages exportation to the United States, and discourages importation from the United States. This is the natural corrective for an unbalanced state of trade, and if nothing is done by organized effort to create an additional supply of credit here against which foreign drafts may be drawn, the disparity between foreign money and United States money will continue to increase, until there is a sufficient reduction of our exports, or increase in our imports, to establish an equilibrium.

BRITISH UNIONS AID RECRUITING

Leaders Will Make Every Effort to Get Men for Army, Navy, and Munitions Works.

KITCHENER WARNED THEM

NEW SYSTEM IN IRELAND

Method of Recruiting to be Changed—Kitchener and Redmond Confer.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 1.—As a result of the conferences that have been held this week between Premier Asquith and War Secretary Kitchener, representing the Government, and the most important labor leaders of the country, the latter have pledged themselves to do everything in their power to encourage recruiting. They are still of the opinion that enough men for the army, navy, and munitions works can be obtained by the voluntary system, despite Lord Kitchener's statement that men are not coming forward in sufficient numbers.

The conferences with Mr. Asquith and Lord Kitchener were followed by a meeting at the Board of Education offices yesterday of the Joint Labor Board, representing the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress, the Management Committee of the General Federation of Trade Unions, and the leaders of the Labor Party in Parliament to consider proposals for stimulating recruiting and increasing the resources for the munitions output.

Arthur Henderson, M. P., in an official statement regarding the meeting at the Board of Education says the conference

"Declared its belief that the number of men required for the navy, army, and munitions works in order to carry out the war successfully can be obtained by voluntary means, pledged itself to assist the Government in every possible way to secure men for service in the navy and army and in munitions works; and, for this purpose, while still co-operating with existing committees, decided to organize a special labor recruiting campaign throughout the country.

"The conference suggested that voluntary recruiting would be more successful if the Government would (a) state frankly, as far as compatible with the public interests, what had already been done by voluntary means for the prosecution of the war and what are the present and future needs in men for the navy, army, and munitions works; and (b) insist that employers shall no longer prevent their men from enlisting."

Kitchener and Redmond Confer.

The Daily Chronicle states that Lord Kitchener has had a long interview with John Redmond, as a result of which a sweeping change in the system of recruiting in Ireland may soon be expected. The same paper says editorially:

"The pledge of the labor organizations, so far as it is definitely accepted by the Government, involves an undertaking from the Government's side that there shall be no toying with compulsion for the present."

One influential member of the Labor Board informed a press representative that yesterday's discussion among the delegates had "knocked the stuffing" out of conscription. "We are going," he said, "to do as we always said we should do. We have been taken into the Government's confidence, and now we are going to have a raging, tearing propaganda for bringing in recruits. We shall pledge ourselves as well as the labor organizations of the country to utilize all our influence to stimulate recruiting, and we believe we shall not fail."

It is regarded as a certainty that the object of the conferences between the Government's representatives and the labor leaders was to make the latter fully acquainted with the military situation, particularly in so far as Great Britain's contribution in men to the allied forces on the Continent is concerned. Lord Kitchener has undoubtedly formed a definite opinion as to the number of men he will require to keep the British strength up to the necessary effective throughout whatever period the war is still likely to continue. Naturally he is sharing this secret with very few persons outside the Cabinet. His object in seeing the labor representatives was to inform them of his requirements and obtain their support for plans by which, he believed, his needs could be met.

Lord Kitchener's Plan.

Lord Kitchener's plan is one which has been widely advocated in circles where out-and-out conscription has been condemned for various reasons, and particularly on two grounds—first, that conscription as understood by Lord Milner, Lord Northcliffe, Captain Frederick Guest, Lord Midleton, and others would divide the nation, and, secondly, that an essential feature of the conscription movement in the minds of certain of its supporters is the desire to introduce compulsory labor under military discipline.

Under the plan evolved by Lord Kitchener compulsory enlistment for service in the army and compulsory labor in munitions workshops would both be kept within the limits defined by the militia ballot system. It is believed by close observers of feeling among the labor classes of the country that this species of national service would arouse no considerable opposition.

"The British workingman is as patriotic as any other class of the community," said a competent judge yesterday, "and he only requires to be shown on authority that he can trust, what he has to do for his country's needs to do it cheerfully. He is not, on the other hand, going to allow himself to be rushed into conscription by a clique of persons whom he deeply distrusts, because, in his view, one of their main objects in urging conscription is to deprive labor of its hard won liberties."

LONDON, Sept. 30.—At one of the meetings at which the Premier and Lord Kitchener addressed the labor leaders the War Secretary expressed a preference for a continuation of the volunteer system, but said that the present rate of recruiting was not equal to the needs.

Lord Kitchener explained that his own plan, which had not yet been authorized by the Government, was to apply the system of the military ballot. Every district would be required to furnish its quota of men. In case this quota could not be obtained by voluntary enlistment, the required number would be selected by ballot among the men of military age, and the enlistment of those thus chosen would be compulsory.

The War Secretary added that there had been no slackening in the pressure to bring out recruits.

The campaign of the labor representatives to secure enlistments will include meetings of workmen in the industrial centres, the systematic circulation through the trades union and other labor organizations of special recruiting literature, and the sending of deputations to the labor councils and other organizations to explain the needs of the country.

DR. DUMBA IS HERE, SAILS NEXT TUESDAY

Hopes He Never Sees Another American Reporter—No Compliments for America.

Dr. Constantin T. Dumba, the recalled Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, arrived in New York last night, with Mme. Dumba, from Lenox, Mass., the Summer Embassy, and went direct to the St. Regis, where Dr. Dumba announced that they would stay until he went on board the Holland-America steamship Nieuw Amsterdam, which sails from Hoboken next Tuesday for Rotterdam. The Ambassador refused to comment on the international consequences of his departure.

"Don't bother me, don't bother me," Dr. Dumba said to the waiting reporters. "Can't you gentlemen see you are wasting your time? I have nothing whatever to say, to anybody."

He was reminded that this might be the last time he would see an American reporter.

"I hope I never see another one," was his comment. "You mix me all up, and don't get what I say right. Good-bye."

At the St. Regis later, Dr. Dumba consented to say a few words.

"The ship sails the 5th of October,' he said, "and I expect we shall remain right here until it is time to go on board. But I may go away over the week-end."

He refused to say where, and made no comment on the identity of his probable successor. He laughed at questions about his dogs.

"Go ahead and write a story about those dogs," he smiled "They're not German, you know. Those black ones are Aberdeen terriers, and they came from Scotland about seven months ago."

HAD GERMAN REPORTS, TOO.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—It was said today by an official that in the mass of documents taken from James F. J. Archibald by British Inspectors, were two reports, one by Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador here, and the other by Captain von Papen, the German military Attaché, to the Foreign Office in Berlin. Count von Bernstorff has denied sending any papers by Mr. Archibald, because, as the Ambassador explained, he did not consider the channel of communication safe.

Both reports, it is said, discussed the possibility of winning over President Wilson to a firmer stand against the British blockade. Efforts in this direction, according to the summary given of the reports, probably would be unsuccessful. It was suggested, however, that there were better prospects of getting Congressional action. A resolution along the desired lines might be passed through the House, said one of the reports, but it probably would die in the Senate.

The State Department today sent to the Department of Justice copies of the papers seized from Archibald. The papers will be considered by the Department of Justice before its policy in the matter is determined. It is probable no attempt will be made to take action against Archibald.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, personally delivered to Acting Secretary of State Polk today a safe conduct under which Dr. Dumba, the Austrian Ambassador, will return to Europe.

ARRESTED ON LINER IN PASSPORT FRAUD

GOT BAIL BY WIRELESS

Once Associate of Notorious Dr. R. C. Flower—Woman Secretary Called as Witness.

When the Holland-America liner Nieuw Amsterdam arrived at Quarantine early yesterday morning from Rotterdam, she was boarded by three officers of the Department of Justice, Dozert, Cantrell, and Underhill, who created a sensation among the 200 first cabin passengers by arresting Andrew D. Meloy, once the associate of the notorious Dr. R. C. Flower, and an American, on the charge of conspiring to defraud the United States Government. The warrant was signed by United States Commissioner Houghton, and the officers told Meloy that he was charged with aiding Franz Rintelen, alias Edward V. Gates, alias Edward V. Gasche, described as a secret agent of the German Government, in obtaining a fraudulent passport from the State Department.

Meloy was described by the Federal authorities as a promoter in Mexican enterprises, with an office at 55 Liberty Street, and living at 640 Riverside Drive. He said that he had expected to be arrested on his arrival on the charge of attempting to start a new revolution in Mexico. He was connected with the building of a short railroad line in Mexico, and went to Europe on Aug. 3 to interest German financiers in his scheme, he explained. Police records show that years ago he was associated with the notorious Dr. Flower.

After arresting Meloy the agents of the Department of Justice served a subpoena on his Secretary, Miss Hetty E. Brophy, to appear as a witness before the Grand Jury. Mrs. Meloy, who was on board, continued on the Nieuw Amsterdam to the pier in Hoboken.

Meloy was brought to the Battery on the revenue cutter, which had conveyed the officials to Quarantine to make the arrest, and was arraigned before Commissioner Houghton in the Federal Building, who held him in $10,000 bail for examination on Oct. 7. He was represented by his counsel, Joseph M. Proskauer of 111 Broadway, and a bond had been arranged for by wireless with the National Surety Company, so that he was released almost immediately and went home.

According to the Federal authorities Meloy went abroad on Aug. 3 last on the Holland-America Noordam. He applied to the State Department for passports for himself, wife and Secretary, and in addition, it is charged, backed an application made by Franz Rintelen, a German agent, for a passport in the name of Edward V. Gates, a mine agent, who was to sail with his party on the Noordam.

The State Department forwarded the passports for Mr. and Mrs. Meloy and Miss Brophy, but declined to issue one in the name of Edward V. Gates. Failing in his attempt to get an American passport, Rintelen sailed on the Noordam with Meloy under the name of Edward V. Gasche, and obtained his passage from the Holland-America Line agents by showing a Swiss passport made out in that name.

When the liner arrived at Falmouth, England, on Aug. 12, British officers boarded the ship and took off Rintelen as an alien enemy and placed him in a detention camp, where he is now. Meloy was arrested by the British authorities and detained a few days, and was afterward released, but was not allowed to proceed to Germany. When the officials searched Miss Brophy's cabin at Falmouth they say they found several papers bearing upon Rintelen's movements in this country and proving his connection with the German Government.

Rintelen came here last Spring, and was supposed to have been sent over to buy supplies for the German Government, but, according to the Federal authorities, he never bought a dollar's worth during his stay in the United States. It was discovered that he was an agent for his Government working independently of the embassy at Washington.

Franz Rintelen is an accomplished, well-educated young man about 30 years old, and brought letters of introduction with him to prominent persons in New York and Washington society. He is also said to have made a tour through Mexico as Fred Hansen, a purchaser of war munitions, and it is believed that he became acquainted with Meloy on that trip. Meloy was in Mexico at the time looking after his railroad project.

In his letter to the State Department recommending Rintelen for a passport Meloy is said to have stated that he had known Edward V. Gates, a Pennsylvanian, for years as a wine agent; that he had met him in various restaurants; that Gates had visited his apartment, and was also known to Mrs. Meloy. It was after Rintelen's departure on the Noordam on Aug. 3 that Supt. William M. Offley of the Department of Justice discovered that in making application for the passport false affidavits had been made. The warrant against Meloy charges that it was he who assisted in making the false statements on which Rintelen sought a passport as Edward V. Gates.

In the complaint made by Special Agent Lewis M. Cantrell of the Department of Justice, Cantrell charges Rintelen as Gates, an American citizen, on July 29 appeared in the Federal District Court, and in applying for a passport to travel in foreign countries took the oath of allegiance to the United States. Cantrell states that Rintelen's voucher was obtained by Meloy and will be produced at the trial.

Later in the day the Federal Grand Jury took up an investigation of the Rintelen-Meloy matter, and it was admitted that the false passport case is but a side issue of the inquiry. Miss Brophy was called as a Government witness, and she will be further interrogated tomorrow by Assistant United States District Attorney Sarfaty.

It was also admitted by the Federal authorities that when Rintelen, under the alias of Edward V. Gates, applied for an American passport, the person who vouched for him was a salesman named Melville C. Barnard. They also say they suspect that Rintelen is the man who, under the name of Hansen, figured in the recent expose of the effort made by a woman to purchase from the United States Government 250,000 discarded Krag-Jorgensen rifles.

Andrew D. Meloy has had a good deal of trouble in financial matters in New York, and was formerly an associate of the notorious Dr. Richard C. Flower. In September, 1911, Andrew D. Meloy, who was at one time known as a Sunday school Superintendent, was charged by the stockholders of the Guanacevi Tunnel Company before Judge Hough in the United States District Court with putting the company into bankruptcy to protect itself from creditors.

Joseph G. Switzer, who brought this action, filed an affidavit in which he alleged Meloy, with Hilario Losoya and Frederico Griese of Durango, Mexico, organized the Guanacevi Tunnel Company in Arizona in 1904, with a capital stock of $10,000, which was afterward increased to $5,000,000 and all but ten five-dollar shares turned over to Losoya for 9,000 acres of property he owned. Then, Mr. Switzer alleged, Meloy issued a prospectus stating the company's property had 300 veins of gold, silver and copper, which could not be exhausted for generations, and assured investors of 10 per cent. The company never shipped an ounce of metal, according to Mr. Switzer's affidavit, and the only money ever received was from the sale of stock.

Meloy came to this city from Naugatuck, Conn., and became identified with Dr. Flower in various mining schemes, being interested in the Terrible Mining Company and the Terranates Mining Company.

this movement represents an attempt to reach the great highway between Kremenetz and Ostrog. Further south, on the Stripa, west of Tarnopol, the Russians have had the best of the fighting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 30, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—There is less marching on the Russian front now, closer clinging to the soil, and much more artillery fighting as distinguished from one-sided firing. In other words, the Russian front is steadier.

A general battle has not come, nor is it apparently likely to come just yet. The German advance has lost the inevitability that at one moment seemed to characterize it. The Russians continue to retreat, but much more slowly than before, and sometimes they advance. The Germans repeatedly lose the thread of their operations. The Russians are able to make awkward holes in the German plans, delaying the enemy when he is hastening to finish the campaign, and holding him tantalizingly short of fulfillment just when he is eager to reap the fruits of his tremendous sacrifices of the Summer.

Dvinsk continues to hold out, though the Germans have been hammering at it for more than a fortnight. At Vileika and south of Osmiana there is very little change in the front. South of the Pripet one German sector, strongly reinforced, has been pushed forward across the Styr at Czartorycska, about thirty-five miles west of Sarny Junction. But at Novo Alexinec, on the Galician frontier, southwest of Kremenetz, violent Austrian attacks have been repulsed, and west of Tarnopol the Russians have again advanced to the Stripa.

Clearly the Germans are aiming to establish themselves on a secure line before the Autumn ends. Their line now is circular, uncertain, and insecure, and unless they are able to take up a position on the Dvina, Beresina, and Dnieper they will have a comfortless and restless Winter.

OFFICIAL WAR BULLETINS.

Russians Victorious in Many Engagements Along the Front.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 30.—The following official communication was issued today:

The Germans have made insignificant attempts at an offensive on the front in the region of Riga. Germans who tried to establish themselves on the eastern bank of the Brock, in the region of Kemmern, were driven back to the other bank. The Germans also attacked the cemetery near the village of Vetroze, northwest of Birshalen, but were hurled back.

Near Dvinsk nothing of importance has occurred. The offensive of enemy infantry south of Lake Drisitiata has been stopped by our cavalry charge.

On the front south of Lake Boguinski several actions have turned to our advantage, and at many points our troops advanced slightly westward.

In the region of the village of Lioubki, south of Lake Narotche, the enemy was thrown back by a vigorous stroke on our part and retired in disorder.

An encounter near the village of Danwuchevo, on the viliya below Smorgon, terminated in our favor, and the enemy unsuccessfully attempted to pass to the offensive.

On the front of Krewo-Krochine, northwest of Baronovichi, the Upper Sczara, and the Oginski Canal, there were numerous local engagements, but no important change in the general situation.

In the middle Stry region, near Ciartorisk and Kolki, fighting continues. The enemy has been dislodged from the village of Koulikovitchy on the Styr, above Ciartorisk.

We have recaptured the village of Kochichtche, east of Kolki, taking as prisoners five officers and a hundred men.

Near Lutsk, which we abandoned two days ago, a very stubborn fight has occurred in the region of the village of Silno. Our troops were obliged to retire in some sectors by the enemy's attack. By repeated counterattacks from the village of Tazuman, south of Silno, we succeeded in making progress and dislodging the enemy from his trenches. An enemy counterattack in the region of the village of Kartolovka, near Tauman, was repulsed.

No greater success attended the enemy's attempts near the village of Tzebrova, (Galicia,) northwest of Tarnopol and southeast of Kozlow. Our cavalry engaged the enemy's advance guards in several actions on the left bank of the Stripa, near the villages of Dobropol and Khmielevka, southwest of Trembowla.

Awaiting precise details of the situation, the Headquarters' Staff, although in possession of many particulars of a favorable character, will abstain from publishing or commenting thereon beyond saying that as a result of a series of engagements successfully terminated, and others still developing, the conditions of our troops are favorable.

The spirit of our troops, who have displayed enthusiasm in innumerable rear-guard fights, has received fresh impulse through the success we have gained in recent days in fierce hand-to-hand struggles and our fortunate passage to the offensive against the Germans. These encouraging features have been particularly frequent on the front east of the line of Svientsiany-Osmiana.

The depression which has been observed in the ranks of the Germans has not been without influence on the morale of our men. This depression manifests itself in increasingly frequent instances of the abandonment by the Germans on the battlefield of slightly wounded soldiers, of wagons on the line of their retreat, of the throwing away of arms and projectiles, and of the disorder and nervousness in their firing.

The well-regulated offensive, broadly conceived and methodically and harmoniously carried out, of our allies on the western front, simultaneously with our above-mentioned successes, has given fresh strength and inspiration to the mutual confidence of the Allies in their power and warlike qualities.

Force Russians Into Swamps.

BERLIN, Sept. 30, (via London.)—The following report of the operations on the Russian front was issued by the War Office today:

Eastern Theatre of War:

South of Dvinsk we forced the enemy back into the marshes and lakes to the east of Wessulowo. Cavalry engagements between Lake Drisitiata and the region of Postawy were successful for us.

East of Smorgon we broke through the enemy position by storm. One thousand prisoners, including seven officers, were taken, and six cannon and four machine guns were captured. South of Smorgon the battle continues.

Army Group of Prince Leopold of Bavaria: Enemy attacks against many sections of the front were repulsed with sanguinary losses.

Army Group of Field Marshal von Mackensen: The situation is unchanged.

Army Group of General von Linsingen: On the upper Kormin the Russians were driven back in an easterly direction. About 800 prisoners were taken. Two Russian aeroplanes were shot down.

VIENNA, Sept. 30, (via London.)—The following official statement from General Headquarters was issued tonight:

In East Galicia the situation along the Ikwa and Pentilowki is unchanged. In Morrland and Kormin the Austro-German troops stormed several vantage points and captured four Russian officers and 1,000 men. Two hostile aeroplanes were shot down.

The Austro-Hungarian forces in Lithuania have repulsed Russian attacks in hand-to-hand fighting. The enemy suffered heavy losses.

JEW IN CZAR'S COUNCIL.

Elected by Representatives of Commerce and Industry.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 30.—Representatives of commerce and industry have elected M. Weinstein a member of the Council of the Empire. He is the first Jew to sit in the Council, and his election is regarded as an indorsement of recent demands for equality of treatment of races and religions.

The Council of the Empire comprises an equal number of elected members and members nominated by the Emperor. It has equal legislative powers with the Duma. Twelve of its forty-eight elective members are chosen by the representatives of the Bourses of Commerce and of Industry in the Empire.

SERBIA HONORS AMERICANS.

Forty-three Doctors and Sanitary Engineers Are Decorated.

NISH, Sept. 30.—Crown Prince Alexander has decorated forty-three American physicians and sanitary engineers, in recognition of their services in stopping the epidemics which broke out in Serbia after the war began.

RAISE SOLDIERS' PAY.

French Deputies Increase It to Five Cents a Day.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—The Chember of Deputies in a five-minute session today voted unanimously to increase the pay of private soldiers from 1 cent to 5 cents per day. The Chamber also voted 70,000,000f. ($14,000,000) to provide for the increase.

ADMITS U-BOAT FAILURE.

Confesses That Britannia Still Rules the Seas.

Confirmation of reports that German naval experts had admitted that Germany had been unable to disturb Great Britain's rule of the seas, and the prophecy that no nation will be able to break such domination by means of a large number of submarines, are contained in an article in the Berliner Tageblatt of Sept. 9, by Captain L. Persius, the naval expert of that paper. Under the caption, "The Freedom of the Seas," he says:

"At the beginning of the war Germany had the second strongest fleet. The British sea power was more than twice as strong. It succeeded in a short time in depriving us practically completely of the freedom of using the oceans, while the British merchant shipping could travel the oceans almost undisturbed. Almost. To be sure, our submarines restrict the British rule on the sea. But no one will assert that the measure of such restriction, if considered in the light of the facts, is so considerable that we may speak with justification of the loss of British rule on the seas.

"The submarine is frequently regarded as an extraordinarily effective weapon in the fight for the freedom of the seas. For instance, the view that even small countries could insure the freedom of the seas for themselves by building submarines does not stand the test of expert judgment. There would be needed a mighty array of submarines in order to fulfill this task completely, and in spite of that submarines, even if they are developed in far more perfect form than now, will hardly suffice of themselves alone. Their supporting bases at least must be safeguarded. It would be premature to express a judgment today concerning the development of shipbuilding after peace. Today we must still exercise restraint. Inasmuch as at present no navy has several hundred submarines at its disposal, no conclusions can be drawn as to the efficacy of such a number. England has placed many hundreds of ships for defense against the submarine danger all around her coasts. In that way she insures at least in the main the passages for imports into her harbors."

REPORTS ITALIAN DEFEATS.

Austrian War Office Says Enemy Was Repeatedly Repulsed.

VIENNA, Sept. 30, (via London.)—The following report of the operations on the Italian frontier was issued today by the Austrian War Office:

"On the western Tyrolean frontier there was fighting last night in the region of Adamello. An attack by the enemy in the defile west of Cima Presena was repulsed by our artillery. Near Oadrouhuette the Italians, after a fight lasting several hours, were compelled to retreat. On the plateau of Vilgeruth they attacked twice during the night without success.

"On the Carinthian front night attacks failed against our fortified line near Pontaeel. Battles near and north of Tolmino continue. Before Mrzli Vrh (Monte Nero) the enemy retreated to his former positions. The Italians repeatedly delivered attacks against Dolje, but were repulsed every time. Early this morning the artillery, which was very active yesterday against the region of Tolmino, resumed firing."

Miss Duer Will Assist Dr. Blake.

Miss Diane DelMonte will sail for England and France on the St. Paul next Sunday. She is making the trip partly on behalf of the Lafayette Fund. She will personally make an inspection of the work of the fund in France. Miss Elsie de Wolfe and Miss Caroline Duer will also sail on the St. Paul on Sunday. Miss de Wolfe will visit her hospital at Versailles, and Miss Duer will assist Dr. Blake at his new hospital in Ris Orgis.

Canada Makes 50,000 Shells a Day.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—Canadian workshops are now producing one million empty shells per month and 17,000 shells per day with fixed ammunition, according to an official statement today. The number of loaded shells will be increased to 50,000 per day in the near future.

Vail in his talk to Mare Island used wire communication from New York to Arlington, and from there the message went by wireless to its destination."

To Try Philippines Next.

The sending of a wireless conversation to Hawaii marks the limit of experiments now ready, but Mr. Vail said last night that as soon as practicable the instruments would be sent to the furthest naval wireless station, in the Philippines, halfway around the world, and that as soon as the war was over worldwide tests would be made

Mr. Vail was asked last night by a reporter for THE TIMES to tell just what new inventions had been used to accomplish the world's greatest feat in intercommunication.

"That all depends on what you mean by invention," he replied. "The whole thing is difficult to explain to a layman. Wireless is so wonderful that indeed no scientist knows all about it.

"So far as the perfection of the wireless telephone goes, there has been no new basic invention, merely a perfection of the sending and receiving instruments. Of course, in the perfection of these delicate machines there have been minor inventions. But the principal is the transmission by waves in the ether of sound. In this the wireless telephone differs from the wireless telegraph. In the latter electric currents pass through the ether to the destination.

"In the wireless telephone nothing, more or less, has been done than to send messages precisely like they are sent over telephone wires, without the wires. By a powerful current, the most important factor, the vibrations at the sending station are greatly magnified. The electric telephone message that left Arlington was strong enough to run an engine; when it was received it was probably so weak that it could be recorded only by the sensitive receiving instrument, which magnified the sound waves precipitated through the ether so that they could make a record at Hawaii. To show that the wireless part of the message was analagous to the wire part, the message I sent to Mare Island was carried to Washington by wire, there thrown out by wireless, and picked up again on a wire at Mare Island before it was heard by Mr. Carty. I can't go into the details further than this."

FUTURE OF WIRELESS PHONE.

Scientists Say It Will Aid, Not Replace, Wire System.

Scientists differ widely on the ultimate commercial possibilities of the wireless telephone. President Theodore N. Vail of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, under whose direction the greatest achievement in wireless telephony has been wrought, said last night that the wireless would never replace the wire telephone. Other scientists, notably Edward J. Nally, Vice President and General Manager of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, thought that the wireless telephone would replace the wire trunk lines in use today.

"Wireless telephones will never substitute or supplant the wire systems but will greatly amplify them and extend their usefulness. It is humanitarian rather than commercial," he said, "but it is useful in that it makes conversation possible between places, and between places and moving objects that could not be connected by wire.

"My engineers have gone deeply into the question of replacing wire lines with the wireless, and they have decided that will not be done. In the first place it is not conceived that the wire system of a city could be replaced by wireless, but the theory has been advanced that the trunk lines could be done away with, and that each city would have a great wireless station connecting with another great wireless station in another city. I do not believe this will be done. In the second place the wireless telephone will not prove reliable, as the wireless telegraph has not always proved reliable.

Phone Messages at Sea.

"But the wireless telephone will render service where wires could never reach. Ships can talk to one another, places which could never be reached by wires for physical reasons will be put within range of easy communication. The wireless telephone adds to the wire telephone but does not take its place."

J. J. Carty, Chief Engineer of the telephone company, in immediate charge of the experiments, was asked last night for his opinion of the commercial use of the wireless telephone, and from Mare Island telephoned:

"As an extension of the regular wire system the field for the wireless telephone is restricted. At certain times of the year, particularly in the Summer, static conditions will make it uncertain. Static interference is one of the things we know very little about, and is one of the big problems to be solved. We are going after it.

"The number of calls that can be handled simultaneously on the wireless telephone is limited, but for emergency use on long distances it will be invaluable and for use in limited areas it should prove a great boon. It will be possible for instance, for fishing smacks and other small boats, unable to afford a wireless operator, to carry a wireless telephone and be in immedate communication with the shore and with each other."

Messages to Europe Next.

Mr. Nally was not so conservative in his estimates of the future of the wireless telephone.

"I feel safe in predicting that by the end of the war," he said, "the Marconi system will be ready with commercial wireless telephones from New York to London, Paris, Rome, and to the other European capitals. I do not predict any great reduction in rates, for there must still be equipment, but the service will be much more effective, for the human voice is much more reliable than mechanical means of the telegraph, either by wire or wireless.

"I do not share the alarm that there may be difficulty in sending a number of messages at the same time. That is a problem that is being solved, just as the other seemingly insurmountable obstacles of wireless communication have been solved. The thing will be worked out to perfection. The time is very near when commercial conversations with Europe will be every day occurrences."

Peter Cooper Hewitt was most enthusiastic over the success of wireless telephony. He said:

"The time is close at hand when it will be possible to talk half around the world. To talk from New York to Peking by wireless is a feat that lies in the near future. The ability to talk by wireless with a low-power current is the chief factor in the realization of this, and I am confident that it will soon be found that the high-power currents are not needed.

"I believe an almost immediate development will be the attachment of a phonograph to the receiver so that if the person to whom a message is sent is not ready to listen it can be 'canned' until he is ready to listen. This is only one of the numerous improvements that suggests itself. I expect great things of the wireless telephone tomorrow."

DISPUTE OVER EXPERIMENT.

Wireless Men Differ Over Who Should Get the Credit.

With scores of inventors working on wireless telephones, the announcement of the success of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, with the assistance of the General Electric Company, has caused already certain differences as to whom the credit is due.

Theodore N. Vail, President of the telephone company, said yesterday that the engineers had worked out the problem from known wireless principles, and owed no debts to anyone, except to the United States Government for the use of its naval wireless stations. He says there is nothing remarkable about their accomplishment except the development of the machinery fashioned upon well-known principles.

The Marconi Companies have been working for years upon wireless telephones. Last Spring Signor Marconi announced he had talked from the Irish coast to Nova Scotia, sending not only a word message, he said, but a cornet solo over the Atlantic. General Manager Nally of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company said last night that his engineers had been experimenting for many months, and that they had talked from California to Hawaii, and were now trying to establish wireless telephonic communication with Japan from the Californian coast. He said wireless telegraphic communication of the best nature had been established, and that wireless telephony over the Pacific lay in the near future. He said that the Marconi Companies had not sought publicity until they were ready to offer commercial service across the Atlantic, which he predicted was almost a reality.

A Success in 1912.

"The development of wireless telephony has occupied the attention of Mr. Marconi and his engineers for a number of years," said Mr. Nally. "Successful communication by wireless telephony was conducted by him as early as 1912. In March, 1914, Mr. Marconi conducted tests on one of the Italian Government's war vessels, and as a result of these tests the Italian Government equipped a number of the vessels of its navy with the Marconi wireless telephone.

"The Marconi Company is naturally interested in the reports of the tests conducted between the naval stations at Arlington, Mare Island, and Pearl Harbor, but, not being in possession of the full particulars concerning these tests, it cannot make any statement as to their value. There are no limits to the possibilities of wireless, and the difficulties that seem to preclude the commercial use of the wireless telephone will all fade away."

Mr. Vail said he had no doubt of the merit of the Marconi experiments and inventions, but repeated his statements that the work of his engineers had been conducted independently.

Purporting to come from the American Defense Society, a communication was sent to THE TIMES last night saying that Dr. Lee De Forest, "under whose patents the Navy Department opened a transcontinental wireless telephone from Arlington to Hawaii," believed the invention "one of the most important steps yet made in the advance of wireless telephoning." It was said that Dr. De Forest had sent a letter of congratulation to Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

Early Tests in Paris.

"I have particular interest in this epoch-making feat," said Dr. De Forest's statement, "on the part of the navy in telephoning across the continent. The longest wireless telephone transmission prior to this from Arlington was made from the Eiffel Tower in Paris in March, 1908, when messages were transmitted from the French Army station and picked up by army stations on the Mediterranean, a distance of 600 miles. Those experiments were conducted by me at the request of the French Government.

"The successful experiments at Arlington were made possible in part by the great height of the towers, the large power available, and, finally, by making use of the principle of the incandescent lamp as a generator of power. I have been devoting the last twelve years to the development of this lamp principle and naturally I have a father's interest by the feat performed by it under the direction of Secretary Daniels."

Mr. Vail was asked to comment upon the claim of Mr. De Forest.

"I will say in the first place that Secretary Daniels conducted no experiments and accomplished no feat in connection with the wireless telephone," replied Mr. Vail. "He allowed us to use the naval stations. That was his rôle in the experiment.

"As far as Mr. De Forest's lamp goes, if it played any part in the wireless telephone conversation with Mare Island and Pearl Harbor, it is news to me. There are lots of wireless inventions, lots of good inventions. Mr. De Forest's inventions may be good. I don't know. But if Mr. Daniels used the De Forest invention to talk to Hawaii, I know nothing of it."

FIGURES AND FACTS

In determining the true economy of a building price, an Owner must employ both ciphers and the calendar, because the completion date obviously affects the amount of the investment.

An Owner must also take into consideration the ability of the Contractor to live up to the completion date, because promises are no good without performance, and figures mean nothing unless supported by facts.

WOMAN SURGEON HOME FROM WAR

Dr. Mary Crawford Says American Hospital in Paris Has Accomplished Wonders.

LAUDS FRENCH FORTITUDE

Tells of Shrapnel Driving Watches, Keys, and Other Objects Into Soldiers' Wounds.

After being abroad a year treating the wounded soldiers in the American Ambulance Hospital in Paris, Dr. Mary M. Crawford of Brooklyn returned yesterday on the French liner Espagne from Bordeaux. Notwithstanding the rough voyage across the Bay of Biscay and the Atlantic, she looked in the best of health and did not appear to have suffered from her experiences near the firing line in France.

"I did not experience any great thrills," Dr. Crawford said, "and did not have any narrow escapes from being struck by flying shrapnel. I have come back enthusiastic over the spirit shown by the French soldiers and confident that the Allies will win in the end. It must be so. It is hard to describe the spirit of the French soldiers. It isn't that they are confident of success, but merely that they are determined to win out and are sticking to their task with bulldog tenacity. If you could see them and hear them talk in the hospital as they are nearing convalescence you would realize that they will never give in.

"Since I went over last October I have seen the most wonderful surgical operations in my life performed by the American and French surgeons. Operations were performed daily that I had never seen before because there was not the opportunity until the war came. The American Hospital has handled about 3,000 patients during the year and has done well, but it is only a small part of the work done by the French Government, which has to deal with men in millions."

Dr. Crawford told of the peculiar effect of shrapnel, which drove watches, knives, keyrings, tobacco boxes, and all kinds of objects into the victims' bodies. From one wound she saw twenty small pieces of wood extracted, and another soldier had several nails taken from a wound in his side.

When asked about the suffocation from the poisonous gases used by the German troops Dr. Crawford said that she had seen several cases of bronchitis brought on by inhaling the fumes, but had not seen any of the very serious ones because the victims died before they reached Paris.

Dr. Crawford said that she had charge of five small wards in the American Hospital outside Paris which were under the chief direction of Dr. Minnot, who came over every morning to make examinations, perform operations, and give directions for the various treatments to be administered during the day. Dr. du Bouchet had another division, Dr. Blake the third, and the fourth was directed by various doctors, who came from Harvard, Johns Hopkins, and other universities in the United States. She said that the resignation of Dr. Blake from the American Hospital had caused great regret, because he had done such very good work and assisted in establishing the reputation of American surgery in France and all over Europe.

"The only times that the automobiles belonging to the American Ambulance Corps have been used for shopping purposes in Paris have been in carrying supplies. The American Hospital is outside the old walls of Paris, near the Porte Maillot, which is a few miles from the centre of the city, and when supplies were needed urgently a nurse was dispatched in an automobile to get them."

Dr. Crawford did not know of the advance of the Allies along the western firing line until the Espagne reached Quarantine yesterday morning, but she said she was glad to hear it, because the soldiers had been expecting it to happen since May and had been so patient over the delay.

WOMAN IN SUIT ASKS ACCOUNTING OF DR. HILL

Says She Gave Peace Forum President Money to Invest and Has Had No Return.

Lucille Covington, one-time business associate of the Rev. John Wesley Hill, former pastor of the Metropolitan Temple and President of the International Peace Forum, who began a suit against him on Tuesday in the Supreme Court, never had the least idea of suing the minister for breach of promise, according to the news that came last night from Alpena, Mich. Miss Covington was found there, working to organize a fraternal order, and she laughed when she heard the story that her suit had started.

"My suit is for an accounting of money I gave Dr. Hill to invest. I haven't been able otherwise to obtain an accounting, so I have applied to the courts. That's all there is to it. The idea of my suing Dr. Hill for breach of promise!"

Miss Covington, the dispatch said, looked at a newspaper portrait of the minister and exclaimed: "I don't like that. He's homely enough as it is without the papers making him appear worse, poor man."

Dr. Hill was not so ready to talk of the $100,000 suit against him. He had started West, but hurried back to this city from Utica yesterday in response to a telegram from his lawyer, Bainbridge Colby. At his home, 131 West 118th Street, he told a TIMES reporter last night:

"My case is in the hands of my lawyer. Any statement must come from him."

Mr. Colby was willing to talk, but was not much more informative. Said he:

"This suit will be fought to a finish, you may rely on that. There will be no compromise. It is unfortunate that a man of Dr. Hill's standing can be attacked in such a manner. I can assure you Dr. Hill will be the plaintiff in an action growing out of this suit."

The lawyer filed yesterday in the County Clerk's office notice of appearance on behalf of Dr. Hill. The complaint in the action has not been filed, but Nathaniel F. Schmidt, counsel for Miss Covington, said yesterday it would be filed today.

GAS KILLS 2 WOMEN BUSY IN DINING ROOM

One Discovered Holding Samples of Cloth, the Other Reaching for Telephone.

MYSTERY PUZZLES CORONER

Finds Water Heater Collapsed—One Victim, Mrs. Marie S. Wiggins, Said to be Wealthy.

Mrs. Maria S. Wiggins, 59 years old, and her seamstress, Miss Anna Mary Good, 45 years old, were found dead in the dining room of Mrs. Wiggins's three-story and basement brownstone house at 316 West 139th Street yesterday morning.

They had been overcome by the gas escaping from a water heater wrecked on Wednesday morning between 8:45 and 9:30 o'clock. Both were fully dressed, and in Miss Good's hand was a paper of pins. Mrs. Wiggins wore a gingham apron over her gown and held samples of cloth in her hands when she was overcome.

Mrs. Peter Keating of 314 West 139th Street telephoned to the Consolidated Gas Company early yesterday morning that there was a gas leak in her home and asked that men be sent to stop it. Inspector George Bridgeworth, after a fruitless search, decided that the leak must be somewhere else. With Policeman Arthur Beatty he went to Mrs. Wiggins's home and found that the gas was coming from under the basement door. They rang the bell, and when there was no answer, broke in the door.

A rush of gas drove them to the sidewalk, but they were able to enter the basement after a few minutes and open the windows. On a lounge near the telephone was Miss Good, who had collapsed as she was reaching for the receiver. Across the room, on the floor near a swing couch, lay Mrs. Wiggins.

Bridgeworth found the gas flowing from the jets of the water heater and that the forty-gallon copper boiler had collapsed flat.

When Deputy Coroner A. S. Weston viewed the premises he advanced the theory that whatever crushed the boiler blew out the gas, which then flowed from the large burner, which was fully turned on. What manner of accident might cave in the boiler without breaking its surface he was unable to say.

After Mrs. Wiggins's death was discovered her friends were notified, and Mrs. Emily N. Pratt of 9 East Forty-third Street came to the house, as did Mrs. R. N. Bruce of Saratoga, with whom Mrs. Wiggins had spent the Summer.

According to the stories told to Dr. Weston, the ice man called at the house at 8:45 Wednesday morning and Mrs. Wiggins met him at the door and said that she would not want ice that day. At 9:30 Frank Criscuola of 2,609 Eighth Avenue, called to get the grocery order. He rang the bell several minutes, but got no answer. It was probably within this forty-five minutes that the accident occurred.

Criscuola called again at 10, and, finally, at 11:30, but received no answer to his rings. Mrs. Pratt telephoned to Mrs. Wiggins five times during Wednesday and received no answer. She finally gave up, thinking the telephone was out of order.

Both Mrs. Pratt and Mrs. Bruce said last night that Mrs. Wiggins was very wealthy and that she owned much property in Bayonne and several houses in this city, including the one in which she lived. Mrs. Bruce said her maiden name was Mary Sheldon, and that her home was in Binghampton, N. Y., where her father had been a bank president and her uncle a Justice of the Supreme Court. Mrs. Wiggins took the house in which she died five years ago, giving for it property in Binghamton.

Mrs. Bruce said she had known Mrs. Wiggins for thirty years, and that her son died in Saratoga from gas poisoning. He was found one morning dead in bed, with the gas turned on.

Mrs. Pratt said Mrs. Wiggins had been married three times, her first husband being named Spencer, the second named Reimer, and the third, who died three years ago, was an officer of the United States Army.

Miss Good will be removed to her home, 22 Hamilton Place, Brooklyn, today, and will be buried in her own plot in Greenwood Cemetery, while it is expected that Mrs. Wiggins will be buried in her family plot at Binghamton.

seats, automobiles paying the registration fee, household goods, furniture, clothing, and personal effects up to the extent of $1,000, and a further exemption of $250 to each household. In addition to all these, a person is allowed, as an offset, all his just debts.

"If a person cannot get away from the assessment in spite of all these exemptions," said Mr. Powell, "and he happens to be a non-resident, he can 'write his own ticket,' in sporting parlance, or make his own assessment, as, under a decision of the Court of Appeals, it has been held that non-residents cannot be made liable in an action to recover a personal tax under the personal tax collection statute in the City of New York, and as the City of New York is the only place in this State where any serious effort is made to collect personal taxes, if he does not pay them here he does not need to pay them anywhere else."

$54,000,000 Not Collected

Mr. Powell said that from a recent statement prepared by the Corporation Counsel, who has charge of the collection of the arrears of personal taxes, it appears that in the past fifteen years there has been transmitted by the Receiver of Taxes for collection, $56,587,758.03, and of this amount the Corporation Counsel has only collected $1,597,731.59. This leaves more than $54,000,000 of uncollected personal taxes on the books as an apparent asset.

EUGENIA KELLY SEEN AGAIN ON BROADWAY

LAWYER McINTYRE TALKS

Hasn't Seen Mrs. Kelly Yet, but Thinks Some Legal Action Will Be Taken by Mother.

The case of Miss Eugenia Kelly, the young heiress to a $1,000,000 estate who was brought into court last May on her mother's charge of incorrigiblity because of her infatuation for Broadway night life, the "trotteries" of the gay white way, and a crowd of professional dancers and other habitues of the "trotteries," has come into the limelight again. This time, according to John F. McIntyre, counsel for the mother, Mrs. Edward Kelly, it is because of the "continued pernicious influence" of the professional dancer, Al Davis, over the young heiress. Davis was said to be the one who had most to do with introducing Miss Kelly to the sort of life that prompted her mother's action.

Mrs. Kelly now plans to take some sort of action against Davis personally to obliterate him from her daughter's life, Mr. McIntyre said yesterday. The method by which this is to be done has not been decided upon definitely, and the lawyer and Mrs. Kelly will hold a conference today to decide this point.

"I haven't seen Mrs. Kelly personally since she returned to the city," Mr. McIntyre said yesterday afternoon, "but I know that she is thinking of taking severe action against this man Davis, as that seems to be the only way to end his influence over her daughter. We will discuss ways and means when I see Mrs. Kelly."

Asked what kind of an action could be brought against the professional dancer, Mr. McIntyre said:

"The most likely action in the present circumstances would be to charge him with enticement and inveiglement and to send him to State prison. He certainly must be sent away somewhere."

The reason that Mr. McIntyre and Mrs. Kelly feel that it is so necessary to get Davis away is that, in spite of her renunciation of him and of the gay night life she had been leading and of the friends she had made, as a result of which renunciation Mrs. Kelly withdrew the incorrigibility charge, Miss Kelly has since permitted Davis to see her on some occisions. With her mother she went to the West for the Summer, after the court proceedings here had been stopped. Val O'Farrell, a private detective, was engaged by Mrs. Kelly to keep a watch on Davis. In the Summer Davis also went West, and was seen in the same resort where the Kellys were stopping. Soon after this, Miss Kelly was quoted in dispatches as saying that she would marry Al Davis despite all opposition.

On returning to New York Mrs. Kelly and her daughter registered at the Hotel Belmont. Al Davis found Miss Kelly there, and night before last he took her to Murray's restaurant. The management ordered him out, and as he hurried out of the crowded dining room Miss Kelly followed after him, smiling.

"Davis got into trouble at Murray's some months ago," Val O'Farrell said yesterday, "and instead of prosecuting him, the management barred him from returning to the restaurant.

"I have had men watching his movements all Summer. He spent most of his time at Atlantic City, Long Beach and Jersey resorts, spending money lavishly. Undoubtedly Mr. Intyre has enough evidence in his hands to prosecute Davis."

Mrs. Kelly, after finding that Davis had discovered that she was at the Belmont with her daughter, returned to her apartment at 116 East Sixty-third Street. She was not at home yesterday afternoon, and Miss Kelly was also out. A maid said that Miss Kelly had not told her where she was going when she went out, but had said not to prepare dinner for her as she would not be back until later. It is considered probable that an effort will be made to take action against Davis quickly, for the divorce his wife procured from him will become final on Nov. 1.

Not Joseph Francolini's Widow.

It was erroneously stated in THE TIMES yesterday that Mrs. Matilda Francolini, against whom the Grand Jury returned three indictments for grand larceny, was the widow of Joseph Francolini, former President of the Italian Savings Bank. Joseph Francolini is living and still President of the Italian Savings Bank. The woman under indictment is the widow of another Francolini who had no connection with the bank, and who died before his wife became involved in the real estate transactions which eventually caused her arrest.

Rofrano Not in Jamaica.

The search for Michael A. Rofrano, former Deputy Street Cleaning Commissioner, who was indicted by the Grand Jury for planning the murder of Mike Gaimari, has developed no new clues as to his whereabouts. Rumors that he was in hiding in Jamaica, according to the police, have no foundation in fact. Rofrano, they say, has not been seen in that locality since his indictment.

MURDER SICK MAN IN BED.

Wife Returns from Errand to Find Husband's Skull Crushed.

Abram van Raalte, an insurance agent of 876 East 181st Street, the Bronx, had reached the third floor of the flat house at 735 East 182d Street last evening, seeking an acquaintance, when a door was flung open and a woman rushed out screaming that her husband had been murdered. Van Raalte ran into the flat with her. On a bed lay a man whose skull was crushed in over the left eye. Beside him lay an improvised weapon made of two heavy files tied together and wrapped in a newspaper.

Van Raalte ran to the street blowing a police whistle and presently several policemen and detectives as well as a doctor from Fordham Hospital were in the flat. The latter said the man was dead and the woman, who said she was the dead man's wife, told the detectives how she believed two men had murdered him.

She said she was Mrs. Frances Gaglio and that her husband, Salvatore, had been a partner in the skirt factory of Brown & Gaglio, 510-512 Sixth Avenue. Recently he had mastoiditis and had returned several days ago from a hospital where he had been told his case was incurable.

Last evening two men, both young, one slender, the other very short, called to see Gaglio and, although he was in bed, the wife admitted them, and they entered the bedroom. Gaglio seemed to know them, said his wife, though she had never seen them, and the three chatted, to all appearances, pleasantly enough until she went to a drug store to have a prescription for her husband filled. When she returned she found him dead in bed and the house ransacked. From her handbag $40 had been taken.

Van Raalte said he had seen two such men leave the house as he entered, and a small boy, Herman Brunner of 2,106 Clinton Avenue, said he had seen them and that one carried a bag. Detectives started to look for them.

Mrs. Gaglio said her husband had received Black Hand letters two years ago and had turned them over to the police. Nothing ever came of them, however, and about eighteen months ago they ceased.

Gaglio was 31 years old and had two children, Pellegrino, 8 years old, and Leonardo, 3½. Both children were with relatives last evening, so no member of the family was in the house when Gaglio was killed.

Perkins Loses Three Assistants.

Three members of District Attorney Perkins's staff resigned yesterday. Assistant District Attorney William A. De Ford resigned to accept the place of general attorney for the Star Publishing Company. Deputy Assistant Frank J. Coleman, Jr., will become secretary to Supreme Court Justice Finch, and Deputy Assistant Joseph O. Skinner of the Homicide Bureau will enter private practice in Jersey City.

JAIL LAWYER SLADE ON BRIBERY CHARGE

BROTHER'S SURETY REFUSED

Police Charge the Accused Offered Money to a Witness to Induce Him Not to Testify.

Maxwell Slade, member of the law firm of Slade & Slade, with offices at 200 Broadway, Manhattan, was indicted yesterday by the Kings County Grand Jury on a charge of attempted bribery and arraigned before Judge Robert H. Roy in the County Court. He pleaded not guilty and bail was fixed at $2,000. Benjamin Slade, a brother of the accused lawyer, offered property in Freeport, L. I., which he said was worth $4,000, as security for the release of Maxwell, but Judge Roy refused it, saying that he would accept only realty in Kings County In default of bail Slade was committed to Raymond Street Jail. The Slades were attorneys for Rae Tanzer in the James W. Osborne case.

According to the indictment against Slade, he is accused of offering $200 as a bribe to William J. Fitzgibbons, a driver, if he refused to testify against James C. McGowan, a driver for the American Smelting and Refining Company, who was accused of receiving stolen goods. Fitzgibbons said he rejected the offer of the lawyer and was a witness against him before the Grand Jury.

The charges against McGowan were dismissed, but the case caused Detectives Priday and Lohman of the Sixth Branch Detective Bureau to make an investigation of the story of the stolen goods. The property consisted of fifteen ingots of copper valued at $60. It was owned by the smelting company, but the detectives learned that while it was supposed to be in transit between Baltimore and a town in Connecticut on July 16, it was found on a truck on its way to Frank P. and William H. Harrison, junk dealers, at 169 South Street, Manhattan.

As a result of the investigation by the detectives a charge of receiving stolen goods was made against the two Harrisons, and they, too, were indicted yesterday by the Kings County Grand Jury. They were arraigned before Judge Roy in the County Court and pleaded not guilty. Each was held in $2,000 bail.

Both the Harrisons and their lawyer went to jail together.

KILLS WIFE IN PARK, THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Couple Had Been Separated for a Month and Husband Had Sued for Divorce.

Persons in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, near the Third Street entrance, heard a man and woman, sitting on a bench, quarreling in loud voices shortly after 8 o'clock last night. One man saw the woman tear a bulky letter into small pieces and throw them to the ground, at the same time exchanging bitter words with her companion.

The witness had gone on about 200 yards when he heard four shots. He ran back toward the bench and arrived there with several National Guardsmen of Troop C, who were on their way through the park, and Policemen Cross and Fitzgerald of the Prospect Park station. They found the woman dead from three wounds, one in the face and two in the body, and the man unconscious and dying from a bullet in the heart.

Beside the man they found a pencil and an envelope on which he had scrawled, evidently as he was dying, the words:

"Please call my brother, Dr. Charles I. Gordon, 1,662 Eastern Parkway, or call C. Y. Gordon. Ask Mr. Dunkise, the druggist of Rochester Avenue, near Eastern Parkway, for Mr. Gordon who lives in that house."

The police reached Cyrus P. Gordon of 266 Rochester Avenue, who went to the Prospect Park Station and identified the dead man as his brother, Murry Gordon, 25 years old, a salesman of 1,662 Eastern Parkway, and the dead woman as Mrs. Bessie Gordon, the dead man's wife.

He then told the police that Murry Gordon and his wife had quarreled frequently, that they had been separated for a month, and that he had started a suit for divorce. How they had come to meet and go to the park together, the brother did not know.

In the pocket of the dead man, the police found several pages torn from a magazine on which were printed, with illustrations, the story of a tragedy due to the unfaithfulness of a wife.

Beginning Today—To Make October the Most Remarkable Month of Merchandising in the History of the GIMBEL Store

Important occasions demand important recognition. This store has completed its first half-decade in serving New York. Its gratification at having won its place in the arduous field of New York retailing, by something more than the mere buying and selling of goods, impels it to celebrate its reaching of the Fifth Milestone by offerings of unusual public benefit.

Our whole store organization has worked with high enthusiasm to make this The Great Event. A long list of manufacturers and dealers have shown their sympathy with our endeavors by providing many fine lots of goods at low prices. The result is a series of wonderful events which will crowd the month with profit for the public and add thousands of new friends to those we already have.

Here is to-day's instalment of the Birthday News. There will be chapter after chapter of intense interest throughout the month—read them day by day. Plan to become a frequent visitor to GIMBELS, in order to share in the Special Offerings and to see each day's displays of the new merchandise.

NINE COMPETITORS IN SUBMARINE BIDS

BOTH COASTS REPRESENTED

New Companies Propose New Types—Bids Range from $510,000 to $550,000, the Legal Limit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Evidence of a probable development of submarine types and building plants in the United States as a result of the lessons of the war in Europe was furnished today, when bids were opened at the Navy Department for the sixteen coast defense submarines for which authorization was made by the Naval Appropriations act of 1915. This was indicated by the keen competition and the offering of plans for new types.

The gallery was as large as that which usually witnesses the opening of bids for battleships. Ordinarily there have been only two companies bidding for the construction of submarines for the American Navy, and only a few persons present. Today there were nine competing companies, and, besides representatives of the bidders, there were agents present representing shipbuilding companies that did not bid, as well as a representative of Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Works.

The bids ranged from $510,000 to $550,000 for a complete submarine. Time of delivery varied from twelve months to twenty-five months. There were also bids only to furnish the propelling power, the submarine to be built by the Government.

The principal competitors in the past for American submarines have been the Lake Torpedo Boat Company of Bridgeport and the Electric Boat Company of New York. Most of the submarines thus far built for the navy have been built by the latter company, or under license from that company, which controls the Holland patents.

Proposals Under M Type.

One of the bids made by this company today was for a duplication of the M-1 type of submarine, built under contract at the Navy Department and now undergoing her preliminary trials at Provincetown, Mass. This vessel is the largest submarine yet built for our navy, and has a tonnage of 550 on the surface and about 800 submerged. The company offers to build eight or more boats of this type for $550,000 each.

This type is 185 feet long and has four torpedo tubes and a three-inch gun mounted on the forward deck. It is designed for a surface speed of fifteen knots, with a maximum cruising radius of 6,000 miles. It is the first example of a new type of submarine thus far built in this country. The company contends that it is the equal of any of the German submarines. Today's proposals for this type called for delivery in sixteen months, whereas the usual time of delivery has been from twenty-two to twenty-eight months.

Design 37-L, submitted by the Electric Boat Company, is for submarines similar to the L type, now undergoing trials. Design 37-M of the same company is an improved L type. The same company also submitted Design 68-A for an entirely new type of submarine.

The Lake Company offered to build any of eight types of submarines at prices ranging from $532,000 to $545,000. It also offered to grant a license to the Navy Department to build a submarine at any Atlantic Coast navy yard on company plans at the rate of $100 a ton for each net ton of submerged displacement.

New types of submarines were proposed by both the Newport News and the New York Shipbuilding Company. It is understood that these companies contemplate building after the Hay-Denny designs, in connection with which the President of the Newport News company was en route to Europe on the Lusitania when he lost his life. The bids of these companies were each for the construction of two boats, and their bids were identical, $550,000 for each boat.

Pacific Coast Bidders.

The Union Iron Works of San Francisco proposes to build submarines of 380 tons each within twelve months for a contract price as low as $510,000 under patent license from the Electric Boat Company.

Another bidder was the California Shipbuilding Company of Long Beach, a $5,000,000 corporation recently organized to buy the John F. Craig Ship Yard at Long Beach, adjoining the Los Angeles harbor, if contracts should be obtained. This company bid for not less than three nor more than five 485-ton submarines at $548,500 each and offered the Government a license to build duplicate boats for a compensation of $100 per net ton. The company has under option a license to build an even-keel submerged type of submarine which, as to general form of construction and principle of operation by lateral hydroplanes, is declared by representatives of the company here to be practically the same as the German submarine type.

The President of the new company is George H. Bixbie, President of the Long Beach Trust Company. The Vice President, W. C. Foley, formerly was Superintendent of Construction at Newport News and later a Director of submarine construction at the Government shipyard of one of the European belligerents. The company's consulting naval architect is Commander R. H. M. Robinson, until recently a naval constructor of the United States Navy, who had charge of the designing of most of the dreadnoughts now in commission. It was announced here tonight that if the Craig yard were turned over to the new company John F. Craig would be identified with it under a ten-year agreement. The company announced that if awarded contracts for any of the submarines it would expand its shipyard and make a specialty of constructing war craft.

Abner R. Neff of Washington, another new bidder, proposes to build and deliver to the Government the Neff system of submarine propulsion for one submarine, the boat itself to be built by the Government. The other new bidders were B. P. Finigan of Washington and Sloan, Danenhower & Co. of New York.

Details of the Bids.

The bids were so complicated as to make comparison at a glance impossible. The complete bids follow:

(1) Lake Torpedo Boat Company, Bridgeport, Conn.:

Bid A—Construct and complete at Bridgeport works and deliver at Navy Yard, New York:

Class 2—485 tons, 4, 5, or 6 even-keel control submarine boats of 14 knots surface speed, 11 knots submerged speed, of one of the following designs: Design 24 M-1, $545,000 each; Design 24 K-1, $543,000 each; Design 24 M, $543,000 each; Design 24 K, $541,000 each.

Time—First boat of Design 24 M or 24 K within 21 months, or first boat of Design 24 M-1 or 24 K-1 within 22 months, and successive boats at intervals of one month thereafter.

Class 2—485 tons, 4, 5 or 6 even-keel control submarine boats of 14 knots surface speed and 10½ knots submerged, of one of the following designs: Design 24 H-1, $535,000 each; Design 24 P-1, $534,000 each; Design 24 H, $534,000 each; Design 24 P, $532,000 each.

Time—First boat of Design 24 H or 24 P within 21 months, or first boat of Design 24 H-1 or 24 P-1 within 22 months, and successive boats at intervals of one month thereafter.

Bid C—License for department to build boat at Atlantic Coast navy yard, company furnishing duplicate plans and specifications of one of foregoing designs, selected by department, $100 a ton of net designed submerged displacement.

(2) B. P. Finnegan, Washington, D. C.:

Proposes to construct under United States supervision at the United States construction yards, &c., sixteen sumbersibles for coast defense purposes at a cost of $125,000 each. Total—$2,000,000. Government to select its employes and its officers to superintend the work. Time of delivery, three months from date of award. Entirely new type of submersible.

(3) Sloan, Danenhower & Co., Inc., 233 Broadway, New York City:

License to Government to construct at a navy yard one submarine of "Davidette" type, furnishing plans, specifications, &c., at a cost of $15,000. Company to furnish engineers to supervise construction of boat and carry out trials. Company submitted letter giving a price of 15 per cent. royalty based on estimated cost of $550,000 a boat. Four submarine torpedo boats of Laurenti type. License to Government to construct at a navy yard, company furnishing plans and specifications, $330,000.

Time—One boat within 20 months and two each month thereafter.

License Department to construct at a navy yard a boat of either design 68-A or 37-M, furnishing plans and specifications, $1,000.

Time—One within 17 months and two each month thereafter; also license Department to construct boat of design 37-L at a navy yard, furnishing plans and specifications, $1,000.

Bid C—Design 39-M, class 2, 487 tons; eight or more boats at Quincy, $550,000 each. Time—One within 16 months and two each month thereafter.

Also license Department to construct boat of design 39-M at a navy yard, furnishing plans, &c., $1,000.

(5) Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, Newport News, Va.:

Bid A—Class 2, construct at Newport News two boats of 490 tons displacement, one within 24 months and other within 25 months, $550,000 each.

(6) New York Shipbuilding Company, Camden, N. J.:

Class 2—Construct at Camden, two boats of 490 tons, one within 24 months, other within 25 months; $550,000 each.

(7) Union Iron Works Company, San Francisco, Cal.:

Bid A—Design 61-C, Class 2; five or more boats, one within 12 months and two each month thereafter; $510,000 each. Same as Electric Company's Design Pan-B with minor exceptions.

Bid B—Design 37-L, Class 2; five or more boats, one within 19 months and two each month thereafter; $544,000 each. Same as Electric Company's Design 37-L.

Bid C—Design 37-M, Class 2, 458 tons; five or more boats, one within 22 months and two each month thereafter; $550,000. Same as Electric Company's Design 37-M.

(8) California Shipbuilding Company, Long Beach, Cal.:

Class 2—485 tons, at Long Beach, Cal.; not less than three nor more than five boats of the Simon Lake even-keel submerged type design, with Busch-Sulzer Brothers' Diesel engines; surface speed, 14 knots; submerged speed, 11 knots or 10½; first boat within 23 months and successive boats at intervals of one month thereafter; $548,500 each.

Boats duplicates of Lake boats and conditioned upon award being made to Lake Company for Bridgeport construction.

(9) Abner R. Neff, Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.:

Class 2—Design 1-A, 400 tons; complete within 16 months at an Atlantic Coast navy yard or ship yard and deliver the Neff system of submarine propulsion for one boat; $262,500.

What Specifications Require.

Under the specifications the sixteen submersibles for which bids were opened are to displace from 450 to 500 tons each, measure less than 200 feet in length, have a speed of fourteen knots on the surface and eleven knots submerged, and carry a three-inch gun battery. The specifications call for quarters for about twenty men on each boat and space for stores to permit the craft to remain away from base for thirty-day periods. The maximum cost of each vessel of this type, exclusive of armament and submarine signaling and radio outfits, was fixed by Congress at $550,000. The act also provides that under certain conditions five of the boats should be built on the Pacific Coast.

SING SING PRISONERS FIGHT WITH KNIVES

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Workers in the clothing shop in Sing Sing Prison here, between 150 and 200 of them, were greatly interested this morning when an argument began between Jack Layden, a short-term prisoner, and Jim Rooney, a "lifer." The men had a grudge against each other from the time when Rooney was a delegate of the Mutual Welfare League in the prison, and the argument quickly grew bitter.

Rooney was handling a pair of cutting shears and Layden had a big knife with which he was cutting cloth. As they talked they gesticulated with these tools, and presently, as the other men gazed at them, too startled to interfere, they sprang at each other. The knife blade and the shears flashed as the men struck at each other, and presently blood poured from the right arm of each.

By now, however, guards and other prisoners had recovered their wits, and the men were grabbed and separated. Layden was found to have such a bad cut through the biceps that he was taken to the hospital. Rooney was led into the yard, where a bandage was put around his arm, his wound being slight.

From the hands of the doctor Rooney stepped into the tailor shop to resume work, and was walking to his place when "Gyp" Layden, brother of Rooney's former antagonist, leaped at the "lifer." He swung a big tailor's knife, and before any one could interfere he had slashed Rooney across the back from shoulder to shoulder and had ripped open his throat.

Rooney dropped senseless and Layden was grabbed and disarmed and hurried off to a cell, while Rooney was carried to the hospital. It was found the knife had missed his jugular vein by a fraction of an inch only, and the doctors said he would recover although his condition was serious.

Layden's case will be taken up by the Welfare League, but it is supposed also that District Attorney Weeks, who is to begin a Grand Jury investigation of the prison on Monday at request of Supt. Riley, Warden Osborne's opponent, will use the occurrence as matter for his inquiry.

Warden Osborne made an address to the men in the mess hall of the prison this morning. He explained to them the new currency system which he has instituted, and under which every worker in the prison will receive $1 a day in "token currency" issued by the Welfare League.

He assured the men that friends had pledged him sufficient financial support to guarantee the redemption of every piece of token currency held by a prisoner at the time of his discharge, the redemption in United States currency being on the basis of dollar for dollar.

HILLSTROM SAVED BY WILSON'S PLEA

Reprieved Until Oct. 16 to Afford Swedish Minister Time to Present Evidence.

AS FAVOR TO PRESIDENT

Special to The New York Times.

SALT LAKE, Sept. 30.—Joseph Hillstrom will not face the firing squad tomorrow.

In response to a request from President Woodrow Wilson, Governor William Spry this afternoon granted a reprieve to the convicted murderer of J. G. Morrison and his son, effective until the regular meeting of the Board of Pardons on Oct. 16.

The message of the President follows:

The White House, Washington, D. C.,
Hon. William Spry, Governor of Utah, Salt Lake, Utah.

Respectfully ask if it would not be possible to postpone execution of Joseph Hillstrom, who, I understand, is a Swedish subject, until the Swedish Minister has had an opportunity to present his view of the case fully to your Excellency?

(Signed) WOODROW WILSON.

The President, Washington, D. C.

The undisputed records of the Hillstrom case show he was convicted of a most revolting murder, that the evidence shows his guilt, and that he had a fair trial. His case has been more thoroughly investigated by the Board of Pardons, consisting of the three Superior Judges, the Attorney General and the Governor, than any similar case in the history of the State. We have found no reason whatever why clemency should be extended.

All these facts have been forwarded through the State Department to the Swedish Minister and the Swedish Minister has been asked to indicate what, if anything, further could be presented by any one on a rehearing of the case which would warrant clemency. Up to the present time the Minister has failed to indicate anything whatever which would throw additional light, and has failed even to assure the board that he could or would furnish anything should a rehearing be granted, and nothing has been made to appear to justify interference with the judgment of the court.

However, on the assumption that you have been convinced that additional facts can and will be presented to the board why clemency should be extended, and upon your request, and your request only, I will grant a respite until the next meeting of the Board of Pardons, which will be held Saturday, Oct. 16, next. The constitution of this State prohibits me from making a further extension.

I must insist, however, that the Swedish Minister shall come here and make a personal investigation prior to the meeting of the Board of Pardons, for the reason that the Swedish Vice Consul for this territory has gone thoroughly into the case, has assured the board and, as I am informed, has advised the Swedish Minister that he knows no reason why the board should change its decision.

(Signed) WILLIAM SPRY,
Governor of Utah.

Announcement by the Governor of issuance of the reprieve was made following a conference between himself and the other members of the State Board of Pardons, held in the Supreme Court Chambers, at which the telegraphic request of President Wilson was considered.

Prior to the action of the Governor in granting a reprieve, the Warden of the penitentiary had established a death watch on Hillstrom at the prison, the watch beginning his duty this morning early.

During the morning Sheriff Corless visited Hillstrom at the penitentiary and asked him whom he desired to have present at the execution. Hillstrom replied that he wanted no one, not even a spiritual adviser; that he did not want anybody there except those who had to be there. "I want to be shot in my good clothes," said Hillstrom.

This was the only request the condemned man had to make, and the Sheriff promised him that it would be granted.

If the Board of Pardons fails to pardon Hillstrom, he will have to be taken before the district court again and a new date for execution set before the death penalty can be carried out.

Among the letters Hillstrom wrote was one addressed to Ben Williams of Cleveland, Ohio, containing greetings to the I. W. W. organization, in which he said:

"I have said time and again that I was going to get a new trial or die trying." He closed the letter with "a last fond farewell to all true rebels."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—President Wilson today, by telegraph, requested Governor Spry of Utah to postpone the execution of Joseph Hillstrom, a Swedish subject, until W. A. F. Ekengren, the Swedish Minister, could lay before the Governor certain information in his possession.

GASOLOGUE No. 1

"What do you mean—'Ignition point?'"

"I mean the temperature at which the gasoline will vaporize so that it can be exploded by a spark plug."

"And you say low ignition point is the real test for gasoline?"

"The only real test."

"But I've always thought it depended on gravity—the higher the gravity the better the gasoline."

"That's a motor-myth. What you want to worry about is the 'boiling point.' The gravity test is not the guide to good gasoline."

"Instead of high gravity, I'm to ask for—"

31 DIE IN STORM ON GULF COAST

Seven Perish in New Orleans and Property Loss There Is $2,000,000.

TWO BLOWN FROM SHIP

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 30.—Unofficial estimates today placed the property damage in New Orleans from yesterday's storm at nearly $2,000,000, and the loss of life at seven in the city proper. It was estimated that at least 150 persons were injured by the collapse of buildings, falling signs, or flying glass.

The maximum velocity of the wind was reported by the Weather Bureau as between 120 and 130 miles an hour. The wind blew at this rate for one minute, between 5:30 and 6 o'clock last night. The highest sustained velocity was 86 miles, about 5:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

For more than seven hours the hurricane swept over the city at a rate of more than 60 miles an hour. The lowest mark registered by the barometer was 28.11, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, which, according to local Weather Bureau officials, is the lowest mark ever registered in the United States.

Of the seven known dead, three were drowned, and four were killed in the ruins of structures which collapsed. Two of those drowned were blown overboard from the steamship Creole, which left yesterday morning for New York, but anchored near the mouth of the river to await better weather.

The Creole reported by wireless early today that a number of bodies were seen floating down the Mississippi, and that houses for miles were demolished.

Communication with Louisiana points on the Gulf Coast was cut off early yesterday, but last reports were that the inhabitants had fled to high ground inland before the storm broke.

Officials of railroad and telegraph companies said today that it would be several days before normal service between New Orleans and the outside world was restored. With the exception of the wireless plant aboard the Southern Pacific steamship Excelsior, in port here, all the radio stations were disabled.

An abatement in the storm came about 7 o'clock last night, when the barometer began to rise, but the wind fell slowly. At 3 o'clock this morning the velocity varied from ten to twenty miles an hour in intermittent gusts.

From every part of the city come reports of property damage. A number of widely known landmarks show the effects of the wind. The Felicity Street Methodist Church, a brick structure at Felicity and Chestnut Streets, was almost demolished. The Masonic Temple, at St. Charles and Perdido Streets, sustained damages estimated at $20,000 through the collapse of ornamental chimneys and gables. The Beauregard public school building and the St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum also were badly damaged.

Fire shortly after midnight destroyed part of the plant of the Sterns-Orleans Acid Company, at Elysian Fields and Florida Avenue, with a loss estimated at $80,000. The fire is believed to have been caused by lightning.

Many passengers on the San Antonio Express of the Southern Pacific Railroad spent the night on the railroad ferry, which grounded in the Mississippi River, two miles above the city. Four tugboats stood by all night, and, although it was said the passengers were in no danger, the heavy sea made it impossible for the tugs to attempt to take them off.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 30.—Seven white persons and seventeen negroes were drowned and a score more injured at Frenier, La., in yesterday's storm, according to reports received by the General Superintendent of the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroad today. The news came from Supt. T. E. Hill at McComb City, Miss., who also said that sixty persons, some of them injured, were marooned on box cars, and assistance was needed.

MINING ENGINEERS NEEDED IN SUBWAYS

The two recent subway cave-ins were caused by a failure of the engineers of the Public Service Commission and of the United States Realty and Improvement Company to meet engineering problems of a very ordinary character, according to the current issue of The Engineering and Mining Journal, which says editorially:

"If there is any blame to be fixed for the two cave-ins, the Journal is of the opinion that it should fall on the responsible heads of the Public Service Commission for not obtaining the assistance of some mining engineer when the subway work was begun. The engineers in actual charge of the work found themselves against problems for which they had no previous experience and simply did not know how to meet.

"In other portions of the subway there may be stretches of ground that also are treacherous, and there may be stretches that would be safe without any timbering. In the meanwhile it is ridiculous for Mayor Mitchel to be giving directions for more braces and having his orders carried out by somebody spiking on a few 3 by 10 diagonals with four 60-penny nails per end."

The editorial is based on an article signed by Percy E. Barbour, a mining engineer on the editorial staff of The Engineering and Mining Journal, who sums up the cause of the two accidents in this way:

"Thus two serious accidents causing much damage and loss of life have occurred through overlooking the precautions taken by the miner in his everyday work when confronted by similar problems.'

Alfred Craven, Chief Engineer to the Public Service Commission, said last night regarding Mr. Barbour's article:

"The man has a misconception of our work. That is all that I have to say for the present. I expect to take up his criticism in detail tomorrow."

PRESIDENT MEETS 5,000 WAR VETERANS

G. A. R. Men Flock to White House Through Misunderstanding, but Are Not Disappointed.

MANY HURT IN BIG CRUSH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The Grand Army of the Republic, which is meeting here today, decided unanimously to hold the 1916 encampment at Kansas City. The election of officers for the coming year will take place tomorrow.

While the business session was in progress thousands of the veterans and their families flocked to the White House. There, through a misunderstanding, what had been planned as a brief reception for a few hundred members of organizations affiliated with the G. A. R. developed into a rush, during which nearly 5,000 old soldiers and their wives shook hands with President Wilson. For two hours they filed through the historic East Room, each receiving a smile and a handclasp from the President.

Arrangements had been made for the President to greet members of the Loyal Legion, the Association of Ex-Prisoners of War, officers of the Union Army, and members of the Women's Relief Corps. A report gained circulation, however, that all G. A. R. visitors were invited. To add to the confusion, many of those in the crowd that appeared when the hour for the reception arrived wore badges, which they said had been sold them at 25 cents, with the understanding that they would admit the wearers to the White House.

Excited men and women clamored for admission at all the gates, where the policemen had instructions to admit only those wearing a certain kind of badge. When the trouble was at its height Secretary Tumulty hurried out and restored quiet by ordering that everybody be permitted to enter.

Already several men and women had fainted, and others were so exhausted that they had to be taken inside the White House and revived.

Colonel Eli Torrance, former Governor of Minnesota and former G. A. R. Commander in Chief, introduced the former officers to the President. In a short address the Colonel assured the President that the members of the G. A. R. stood solidly behind him in his conduct of the foreign affairs of the United States.

After the business meeting tomorrow most of the veterans remaining in town will go to Arlington National Cemetery to attend the services incident to the laying by President Wilson of the cornerstone of the Arlington Memorial Amphitheatre.

The Women's Relief Corps, an auxiliary of the G. A. R., organized thirty-three years ago, held its annual meeting tonight, and elected Mrs. Carrie Alexander-Bahrenberg of Bellville, Ill., President. The corps also voted from its treasury a gift of $1,000, to be used as G. A. R. officials see fit.

Colonel David J. Palmer, Commander in Chief, announced in a speech at the opening of the business session that the organization was to make an effort to obtain "proper" pensions for civil war nurses. Other speakers included Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, who deprecated the fact that many of the veterans were forced to stand for several hours before they took their places in the parade yesterday, which resulted in many exhaustion cases.

Most of the 200 veterans who were taken to hospitals yesterday when they became exhausted in the parade had fully recovered today and were ready for participation in the remainder of the program.

Stating it modestly,

These Saks Suits

for Men and Young Men

¶ Better suits for the money—that is the best way to express it—better workmanship—more individuality in the cut—more elegance in the tailoring—more nicety of detail in the finish—more character and style clean through than is usually identified with a twenty dollar bill. Or, in other words, suits that raise the standard of value without raising the price.

Getting down to the selections

¶ Braided models also included, in Oxfords, stripes of varying widths, checks, and plain blues, the braid laid on as delicately as paint on a canvas.

A "Proposition" for Men and Young Men at $19.75

We have found the finest clothes that human ingenuity can make to sell around $25. And we've put on them a typical Macy price—$19.75. We use the superlative at the risk of appearing extravagant because we know all clothes, and we have not seen the equal of these anywhere under $25. Our proposition to you is to come and see.

Merchant tailors will tell you that "finish" is the soul of a suit of clothes. These garments are hand-finished in a way you'll appreciate. Many of them are silk-lined.

We've "put our heads together" with the great master tailoring concerns of America. Macy cash, Macy leadership, Macy reputation—plus the best brains in the clothing business.

And the result is clothes at $19.75 that we here and now pronounce the best clothes for the money in these United States.

PIPING ROCK AND WESTCHESTER HORSE SHOWS—FOOTBALL PRACTICE

Long Island society's pet horse show opened for a three-day run on the grounds of the Piping Rock Country Club, at Locust Valley, yesterday, favored by perfect weather conditions. The increasing popularity of the Piping Rock Association's exhibition, now in its thirteenth year, was reflected in the large assemblage of society folk.

There was lots of keen competition, ten classes being judged in the afternoon session, and all except one surpassing expectations in the number of contestants. Only the saddle division for horses exceeding 15.2 hands failed to draw a big entry. In the morning the elimination tests were held in the class for hunters, performances over the fences only to count, and of the fifty-four nominations thirteen qualified to compete in the final, which will be contested this afternoon.

The name of some of the most prominent exhibitors of show horses in the East appeared among the winners. The double blue ribbon winners of the session were Mrs. Attmore Robinson and Howard C. Phipps. With her big bay mare, Golden Duck, Mrs. Robinson carried off the principal honors in the ladies' hunters class for horses up to carrying 165 pounds, and in the local section for lightweight hunters up to carrying 165 pounds to hounds. In each class Mrs. Robinson rode the winner. Phipps's entrants were best in the two polo pony events decided.

No class attracted as much attention as that for ponies to be ridden over the jumps by boys or girls under 15 years old who are sons or daughters of members of the Piping Rock Horse Show Association or of any recognized club.

Little Harriet Pratt, daughter of Herbert L. Pratt, was the sensation in this class, although she failed to take the blue ribbon. She displayed all the ability of a horsewoman, and, handling her father's two entries, Bob and Baby, took second and third prizes. The blue went to Howard C. Smith's Pet, mounted by F. R. Coudert, Jr. There was some criticism of Judge E. Victor Loew in this class because of the undoubtedly superior ability with the reins of little Miss Pratt, but there was none who doubted that Pet was the better pony. Prior to capturing the blue for Mr. Smith, young Coudert came a cropper with Tidy, but escaped without a scratch. Tidy jumped high enough before reaching the brush, but refused absolutely to clear the hedges, and went the way of unruly horses—through the gate.

In the local class for middleweight hunters Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock took first honors with Sorrell, which also won for her in the recent Mineola exhibition. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Unmack was the runner-up in this event.

There was little improvement over their form of last year exhibited by the healthy looking Irish hunters which competed in the subscription class. Mortimer L. Schiff's The Irishman, which proved the best of the field, bore few marks of the ideal hunter, though it is big and rugged. Balbriggan, one of the best appearing horses of this lot, became unmanageable while going through his paces, and after hurling his mount to the ground was ruled out of the competition.

Howard C. Phipps came near to making a clean sweep of the class for polo ponies up to carrying 190 pounds, capturing first, second and fourth places. His Cob Web, a 10-year-old bay gelding, scored for the blue over his stablemate, Lancer. Mortimer L. Schiff's Tipperary Maid prevented the Phipps stable from sweeping the division.

W. R. Coe at the last minute entered his 5-year-old chestnut gelding, Golden Echo, in the class for saddle horses exceeding 15.2 hands, and was the winner of the event, Harry C. Peters riding.

Efforts are being made to arrange for a special sweepstakes for hunters, to be decided tomorrow simultaneously with the judging of the Meadow Brook cup competition. The victor would be acclaimed the best hunter in the show. One horse may win both the sweepstakes and the Meadow Brook trophy, for jumping will count largely in the former and appearance in the latter.

Miss Lida Fleitmann was cut on her right hand when Paul D. Cravath's automobile, in which she was riding to the afternoon session, struck a guide rope stretched outside the grounds, shattering the windshield and scattering the glass in all directions. The chauffeur was cut about the face and hands. Miss Fleitmann received medical attention at the Piping Rock clubhouse. She was unable to ride any of her entries in the hunters classes, but probably will be seen in the saddle today.

Among those in the boxes and around the ring yesterday were Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Mrs. Edward L. Tinker, Harvey Ladew, Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Cravath, Mr. and Mrs. J. Parker Kirlin, Miss Kirlin, Miss Eleanor Green, Harry T. Peters, Dorothy Battie, Mrs. Joseph E. Davis, Miss Vera Cravath, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Helen Hite, Mrs. F. L. Richardson, Mrs. H. F. Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. F. H Allen, Miss Vieva Fisher, Mr and Mrs. W. R. Coe, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. B. Pratt, and Mrs. Charles A. Van Rensselaer.

There will be two sessions today, that in the morning starting at 10 o'clock, and the afternoon events at 2.

HARVARD STANDS' TROUBLE.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—An attempt by Councillor J. J. Watson to give Mayor Curley and city department heads blanket authority to "make possible the playing of the Yale-Harvard game at the Stadium," was defeated by the City Council tonight. The resolution was characterized as "undignified," and "irrelevant" by Councillor J. J. Storrow, himself a Harvard graduate.

An order seeking to amend the fire hazard limits to exclude the Stadium was pronounced illegal by Corporation Counsel Sullivan, who told the Council that it was without power to amend the city ordinaces to allow wooden buildings at the Stadium. The extra stands desired for the game, he said, could be erected by authority of the Building Commissioner if he approved of the construction plans.

Mayor Curley said tonight that while Building Commissioner O'Hearn would probably maintain his position that such stands would be illegal, there was every reason to believe that a way would be found to have the game played in the Stadium, as scheduled.

"PICNIC" AT HORSE SHOW.

Motor Parties Spread Tables in Cars Parked at White Plains.

Greater variety of classes marked the second day of the twenty-second annual Westchester County Horse Show, which is being held on the Fair Grounds at White Plains. The warm, sunny weather helped to increase the attendance, which was almost double that of the opening day.

The parking place for motors was crowded to capacity, and there was hardly a vacant seat upon the clubhouse porch. A number of motorist arrived early and brought lunch baskets, the contents of which were spread in the cars upon improvised tables. This picnic idea was followed by two or three coaching parties, who had driven to the show from various sections of the county. There was also a large attendance of society folk who have country homes in that section.

The program opened with a class for jumpers, in which only performance counted, up to carrying a minimum weight of 140 pounds. Besides the ribbons, money prizes of $50 and $25 were offered for the winner and second horse by Mrs. James C. Brady. The event brought out fifteen lightweight hunters. A number of them were qualified, although some were very green and did not take kindly to the fences. The blue went to Charles D. Lanier's Lister, the mare which won the lightweight hunter class on Tuesday. Miss Clemence Craft's The Model, a four-year-old, which gave an almost perfect performance over the jumps, was second. T. L. Chadbourne received a white with Confidence, the gelding with which he took a number of ribbons at the Mineola Horse Show last week.

J. Campbell Thompson's Nestledown Dermod came off with flying colors in the class for harness horses over 15.2 hands, open only to horses belonging to residents of Westchester County, N. Y., and Fairfield County, Conn. William Ziegler, Jr.'s The Pilot was second, the yellow also going to J. Campbell Thompson with Nestledown Rob Roy.

While there were six entries in the event for horses suitable to become hunters, only two appeared in the ring—Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Jasper Red Heart and Little Farm's Veronique. They received ribbons in the order named.

J. Campbell Thompson and Emil Seelig were once more opposed to each other in the harness pairs. This time the latter's entry, Perfect and Perfection, was placed first, while the Nestledown pair was only able to get the yellow, second prize going to F. M. Warburg's Woodland Empress and Woodland Emperor.

The chestnut mare Jessica again won the blue for Miss Ethel May Davis in the class for saddle horses over 14.2 and not exceeding 15 hands. Powelton Farm's Kilkee repeated her performance of Tuesday and took another red. The same owner took the yellow ribbon with Bella. Mrs. Ogden Mills Reid received the white ribbon, which was pinned on Cinderella.

The majority of the ponies under saddle in this event on the opening day were seen yesterday in harness. They were driven by children not over 14 years of age. It was the most picturesque class of the show. Seven youngsters took part. Jesse W. Powers drove the Earl of Shrewsbury, and as the young horseman was in a basket wagon he had no chance to fall out. After the judges had looked the Earl of Shrewsbury over very carefully and put him under the measure, they pinned the blue on the Powers entry. The Earl is a bay stallion, only 13 hands, and is almost a miniature hackney in style and conformation. Miss Beatrice Black, with Master Dick, received second prize. George Gunther Wallen's Jingaboo, who was in the saddle class, was third.

Special prizes were offered by Oliver Harriman for the best horse shown to a gig. As far as quality went, this was one of the best classes of the afternoon. The blue went to J. Campbell Thompson's Nestledown Dermod, a handsome gelding which showed high-class breeding, and also had good conformation and manners. William Ziegler, Jr.'s. The Pilot was second. Mrs. Charles M. Allaire, driving Emil Seelig's Flash, took first honors in the event for harness horses, to be shown before a lady's appropriate vehicle, in which a lady was to drive. Forty per cent. went for the vehicle and appointments. Mrs. Julius S. Walsh, Jr., formerly of St. Louis, who handled Thompson's Nestledown Asthor, came in second.

The class for handy hunters brought together nine timber-toppers, which were required to trot up to a fence and stop while the rider pulled out the top rail, then jump the fence, turn around and jump back, and a number of other such stunts. Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Tip Top fulfilled all the requirements, besides having good manners, and received the blue. The red went to Owenoke Farm's Heartland.

John McE. Bowman's fine old mare Sweetbriar, which has won a large number of prizes, was first in the ponies under saddle class. She was ridden by her owner. Mr. Bowman also took the red with Yellow Jacket. Miss Marjorie Garner West's Cynthia was third.

There were only two entries in the four-in-hand class, which went to J. Campbell Thompson's Nestledown team, driven before the coach. Emil Seelig's span received the red.

Five mounts were entered in the event for polo ponies up to carrying 200 pounds. They were judged by E. L. Crawford of the Post Chester Polo Club. The riders were in polo attire, and carried mallets. The mounts were first tried out to compare their handiness and then raced up and down the ring as a speed test. The blue went to F. M. Warburg's Woodlands Waffles. John I. Downey's Extra Special captured the red.

"BUZZ" LAW JOINS TIGERS.

Princeton Rejoices That Full Back Is Able to Resume His Place.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 30.—There was rejoicing in Tigertown tonight when it became known that "Buzz" Law, who has been the 'Varsity full back for the past two seasons, had reported to Coach Rush today. Law has been sick for some time, and returned to college a few days ago. It had been feared that he would not be on hand at all this season. He is still slightly under weight,, but with regular exercise and practice it is expected that he will soon be the Law of old.

The orange and black team was today put through the lightest practice in some time, Coach Rush deciding to give the men a rest after their recent strenuous work. Most of the work out was devoted to a drill in the rudiments of the game. There was a scrimmage for only half an hour, and many second strong men were used in the 'Varsity line-up. After the tussle the men had signal practice behind closed gates. A defense against the Rutgers mass play and shift formation was worked out.

YOUNG TAFT PLACED ON YALE'S ELEVEN

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 30.—Charles P. Taft, 2d, son of William H. Taft, ex-President of the United States, was placed at right half back on the Yale 'Varsity football eleven today. He is a sophomore and failed to make his freshman team last season. He played half back on the Taft School eleven at Waterbury, Conn., where he prepared for college. He was a member of the Yale basket ball five which last season won the intercollegiate championship. Young Taft has succeeded Mal Scovill, who has been shifted to full back in place of Otis Guernsey, who had played full back since the season opened.

Although Taft has grown powerful his work today did not indicate that he has mastered the finesse of the complicated Yale team game sufficiently to predict that he will start the play against the Virginians on Saturday.

Guernsey allowed a punt to be blocked yesterday, giving victory for the day's play to the scrubs and today's layoff was supposed to be to allow him to rest.

Harry Legore, the backfield star, who has been kept on the scrubs, did not play, finding his shoulder slightly bruised after yesterday's practice. He did not get into Saturday's game against Maine and his injury will probably prevent his facing Virginia, even if the coaches planned to promote him to the regulars.

Clark, the half back who was promoted to quarter back on the 'Varsity, went back to quarter back for the scrubs, Dick Bentley coming from the second team to succeed him.

Because of the warm weather only ten minutes' scrimmaging took place, and neither eleven scored or even threatened the other's goal. Phil Wiser of last season's freshmen starred for the scrubs at half back, but no long runs were pulled off.

Despite reports from Philadelphia that the Yale-Pennsylvania matches will be resumed another season, denials were made by Yale athletic authorities tonight that there is a prospect of such a Yale move. It became known that the Pennsylvania football officials spent two days here during the Winter trying to induce Yale to arrange a game for 1915 with the hope that home-and-home series might eventually be arranged.

NEWS OF OTHER TEAMS.

Football practice for the New York University football team yesterday gave every indication that the Violet is gradually developing a successful offensive machine. Coach Reilley devoted yesterday's work to the 'Varsity line, which came in for a stiff drill in charging and in breaking up interference which the scrub eleven had to offer. Captain Somers and Williams gave evidence of good work in the defense. Because of the temporary absence of McCullough at right end, the coaches have shifted Egan, a halfback on the 'Varsity, to the line position. Another change was Erwig, the former Morris High School player, who played at right halfback. Captain Somers wrenched his knee and stayed out of the practice. The injury is a slight one, and it is not expected that the New York eleven will be crippled on that account in its game with R. P. I. tomorrow.

The 'Varsity backfield gave a good demonstration of offensive tactics in yesterday's scrimmage, and the second eleven was repeatedly obliged to depend upon its secondary defense to avoid a touchdown. Cann showed ability in running with the ball, and made several long gains.

For two hours and ten minutes yesterday Coach Metcalf of Columbia drilled the four elevens, first in tackling the dummy and falling on the ball, and for more than one hour in signal drills. There was no scrimmage because of the hard workout on Wednesday. Coach Metcalf won't admit that he has picked a first and second eleven, but yesterday he continually made new combinations of the back fields and lines, and by Saturday he will have an aggregation of eleven men that will stand several days of hard practice early next week. With the help of Assistant Coaches Telfer, Stimson, and Henderson, Metcalf gave personal attention to each eleven. The men showed considerable improvement over Wednesday's practice, and the fumbles by back field men were noticeably fewer. Columbia still has a problem in the punting. Cochrane, Donoho, Mansbach, and Simonds can average fifty yards and better with their kicks, but they are rather slow in handling the ball after receiving it from the centre. Moreover, there are few men on the Columbia squad who can make sure catches of the punts. Fumbles are frequent and misjudging is a fault with pany. E. V. Littauer, 517, one of Bernie Wefers's track team men, reported yesterday for a back field position. He is big and weighs 198 pounds. Littauer played full back on the Boys' High team of Brooklyn for several years. Other new men are S. Vande Water, A. E. Wilber, S. P. McCabe, W. H. Corbett, and K. F. Chamberlain.

The last hard workout before the opening of the season at Fordham Saturday was held by the Maroon candidates yesterday. Following a brief practice tackling the dummy the first and second teams were lined up for scrimmage. Every play prepared so far came in for several trials, although special attention was devoted to open formations. In all the close formation plays the lineup consisted of Yule and Golden with Dunn at quarter back and Butler at right half.

Although no score was attempted several good gains were made on each side. The scrubs put up a sturdy defense and broke through repeatedly. Delehanty had all he could do to keep centre safe, as Treanor opened several big holes through the 'Varsity main defense. An experiment was tried on the ends and Hall and Cantwell took the places of the two regulars, Conklin and Corriden. Both the newcomers showed up strong.

EASTON, Penn., Sept. 30.—The Lafayette 'Varsity worked its way through the scrub line this afternoon in a reckless fashion and carried the ball from one end of the field to the other for a touchdown. The scrubs, on the offensive, were held at bay in the shadow of their own goal posts, and when the 'Varsity had assumed the attitude of "this is too easy" Frank Martin shot a neat forward pass into the hands of Ralph Mackett, a Trenton High School boy, and the latter cantered away for within a few inches of the goal line.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Sept. 30.—The last practice for the Rutgers 'Varsity before the Princeton game tomorrow was held this afternoon, and the men were put through a hard scrimmage against the scrubs. Talman had a lot of practice in punting, as it is thought that this will be a big help against the Tigers. He averaged forty-five yards. In twenty plays the 'Varsity gained 192 yards on the scrub, which failed to make first down. A special train of two sections will be run from New York to Princeton by the Pennsylvania Railroad on Saturday.

COACH GIANNINI QUITS.

Yale Freshman Rowing Instructor Gives No Reason for Resigning.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 30.—Announcement was made here tonight that Eugene J. Giannini, coach of the Yale freshmen crews for the last two years, had resigned three weeks ago. No reason for the resignation has been made public in official quarters. No action has been taken regarding his successor.

BOXING CHAMPION LOSES.

J. Pilkington, State Amateur Title-Holder, Defeated by Willie Morris.

There were two big surprises in the amateur boxing tournament ot the Crescent Athletic Club last night. The first was the defeat of J. Pilkington of the Union Settlement A. C., New York State and metropolitan champion at 115 pounds, by Willie Morris of the East Side House. The other surprise was the defeat of A. Kaufman of the Trinity Club, runner-up for the 158-pound championship at the Panama-Pacific Exposition by J. Goddi of St. Bartholomew A C., metropolitan champion at that weight.

Pilkington and Morris both came through the preliminaries and boxed in the semi-finals. Morris proved too fast for the State champion and forced the boxing all around the ring. Although Pilkington had a decided advantage in height and reach, Morris waded right in and broke through Pilkington's long-range defense.

M. Perkel of the Educational Alliance A. C. and M. Birdie, unattached, were the contestants in the final of the 108-pound class, and Perkel, who is metropolitan champion at this weight, received the judge's decision.

Your Face May Be Your Fortune

Among the thousands upon thousands who have tried Coco-Cola from our sanitary machine and bottle, we have yet to find the first person who in expressing an opinion does not say "delicious." Before discontinuing the demonstration of Coco-Cola and its thirst-quenching qualities through our sanitary process, we should like to find one person, if possible, who doubts its qualities. The cool weather combined with the war and subway cave-in troubles may produce such a human being.

FIFTEEN CARS QUALIFY FOR ASTOR CUP RACE—RED SOX AMERICAN PENNANT WINNERS

DE PALMA MAY NOT RACE FOR ASTOR CUP

The momentous question as to whether Ralph De Palma will drive his Mercedes car in the Astor Cup race tomorrow at the Sheepshead Bay Speedway is still a matter of conjecture. Around the racing camps at the track there is a strong impression that De Palma will not start.

The only reason given for his not qualifying is that he cannot get his car working satisfactorily. In other quarters, however, it is stated that De Palma is through with automobile racing and is content to rest on his laurels in having defeated Resta in a Peugeot in the Indianapolis 500-mile race on last Memorial Day.

The Publicity Department announced last night that De Palma would start, even if he was unable to drive in his Mercedes. It was stated that if the Mercedes was not repaired in time De Palma would drive a Stutz.

It is now certain that Harry Harkness, President of the Speedway, will not take part in the race. His Delage will be driven by Limberg, and his Baby Peugeot by Hughes if the entries qualify.

A change was made in the Maxwell team. Tom Orr has been succeeded by Ralph Mufford as pilot of one of the Maxwell entries. Grover Bergdoll of Philadelphia arrived at the course yesterday and tuned up his Erwin Special, and hopes to qualify for the race.

Up to the present time fifteen cars have qualified for the race. Twenty-nine were nominated to start, but from the present indications the entry list will probably be under eighteen. In order to give all the cars which have not qualified every chance to get into the race, the management yesterday extended the time for qualifying until Saturday morning, a few hours before the race. It is hoped by that time that De Palma and some of the others who have not met the requirements will be ready for the big event.

There was plenty of speeding and warming up of the cars yesterday, and during the afternoon most of them were whirling about the track at one time or another. There were no officials or timers present, however, so no record of the trials was made.

The two Peugeot cars, driven by Howard Wilcox and Jack Aitken, were let out by their drivers yesterday and showed much speed. Wilcox was on the track with Barney Oldfield in his Delage and trailed him for several laps. Toward the end, however, Wilcox let the Peugeot go and passed Oldfield with little trouble. Bob Burman in another Peugeot also drove several fast laps.

A new car on the track was the Ogren, driven by Tom Alley, who will try to qualify on Saturday morning. Tom Rooney drove one of the Stutz cars several miles at top speed and Eddie Rickenbacker tuned up his Maxwell.

Many of the automobile sharps about the course will watch Jack Aitken in tomorrow's race. His Peugeot finished well up in the Grand Prix in France two years ago and is regarded as one of the fastest machines on the course. Aitken is a conservative driver and may be depended upon not to use up all the power of his car in the first few miles of the journey. Wilcox's Peugeot is also regarded as a very fast car, in fact, many believe that the two cars are faster than the one driven by Dario Resta.

It is not always the speediest car which wins in a long automobile race. It is usually the driver who best conserves the power of his car who is well up at the finish. Resta has an advantage because he is more familiar with the mechanical workings of the Peugeot than the other drivers. Harry Stutz, President of the Stutz company, is confident that his entries will be near the front. The Stutz cars have shown well in several of the season's races and Cooper and Gil Anderson will strive hard for honors tomorrow. Barney Oldfield in the Delage expects to make things interesting for any car which is in front of him, and if Harry Harkness's Delage is driven by Limberg, this entry may be heard from. The Maxwells are running smoothly and Rickenbacker is the type of driver who will take extreme chances to gain an advantage. If De Palma decides at the last moment to enter his Mercedes, this car will have to be reckoned with from the start.

The list of honorary stewards for the race was announced last night and include: Lawrence Waterbury, Harry Payne Whitney, Joseph A. Burden, Harold S. Vanderbilt, Hobart A. H. Baker, W. Averill Harriman, Albert Eugene Gallatin, Arthur Iselin, Senator Ogden Livingston Mills, Francis G. B. Roche, Richard H. Williams, Jr., M. Taylor Pyne, Jr., Hermann Ooelrichs, Buell Hollister, Robert W. Goelet and Robert L. Gerry.

Car and Driver.	Time, Two Miles.	Av. Miles Per Hour.
Peugeot, Resta	1:08.20	106
Peugeot, Aitken	1:08.65	105

How Motorists May Reach Scene of Astor Cup Race.

Automobilists who will drive to Sheepshead Speedway tomorrow may find the following information of value, as it suggests the best routes to be taken in order to avoid the roads which are torn up for subway and other purposes:

ROUTE NO. 1.

Although several miles longer than the more direct routes over the downtown bridges, the route by way of Queensboro Bridge possesses the distinct advantage of avoiding all the congested districts of Brooklyn and for this reason it is highly desirable.

ROUTE NO. 2.

ROUTE NO. 3.

Staten Island motorists, as well as those in central and southern New Jersey, who wish to avoid the traffic congestion of New York will do well to use the ferry which plies between St. George, S. I., and Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn. From the Brooklyn end of the ferry turn sharp left on the Shore Road which follow to Fort Hamilton Parkway; here turn left a short distance to Sixtieth Street, where turn right and continue to Bay Parkway. After turning sharply to the left, pass the Washington Cemetery on the left and proceed to Ocean Parkway. Turn sharp right on this thoroughfare, cross King's Highway and turn left on Neck Road. Keep on a short distance to Ocean Avenue, where turn right to the main entrance of the Speedway.

Information About the Race.

The following information, for the benefit of Astor Cup Race goers tomorrow, was issued by the Sheepshead Bay management: The race will start at noon. The gates of the Speedway will be opened at 8 o'clock A. M. Tickets will be sold at three entrances on the Ocean Avenue front. The main entrance, which will be for foot passengers only, will have twenty-four ticket booths. There will be two entrances for automobiles. The one at the Neck Road corner of the Speedway, the corner first encountered coming from the city, will be for grandstand ticket holders, for whom ample free parking space near the grandstand has been provided; and for holders of reserved parking spaces along the homestretch, and general parking privileges in the inner field, both of which classes will pass through the three tunnels as directed. The other automobile entrance will be at the town corner at Jerome Avenue. This is intended mainly for holders of general admission tickets, which will entitle the holders to free seats on the open field stand up to its 25,000 capacity. It will give access to a spacious free parking space.

The Sheepshead Bay Speedway Corporation's ticket office at 1,696 Broadway will be open up to midnight on Friday, and until 10 o'clock on the morning of the race.

BIG RACE IN ENGLAND.

Jockey Club Stakes of $50,000 Won by Lanius at Newmarket.

NEWMARKET, England, Sept. 30.—The Jockey Club Stakes, the only 10,000-sovereign ($50,000) race of the present English turf season, was run here today and won by Lanius. Dame Prudent finished second and Sir Ernest Cassel's Gadabout was third.

The race was for three years old and upward, and the distance run by the eleven starters was the last mile and three-quarters of the Cesarewitch Course.

GIANTS SHUT OUT DODGERS.

If the season had another month to run the Dodgers might land in the second division. With the pennant out of reach they are crumpling up. Even the Giants, the tail-enders in the league, were able to trounce them yesterday, and for such a result to have been accomplished the strength of the Brooklyn men must have been at particularly low ebb. The Dodgers were shut out by a score of 2 to 0, and it simply emphasizes the disaster to add that at no time were the men from across the bride the least bit formidable. A run never threatened the Giants from the first inning to the last.

There was, however, one good feature of the game at the Polo Grounds. It served to show just what a laughable spectacle a post-season series would be in this city. There were not more than 200 people present, and there wasn't a murmur of enthusiasm from any of them. There will be no game today. It has been put over to make up a double-header for tomorrow.

Pfeffer, who has been Brooklyn's most dependable pitcher, was on the mound for the Dodgers. His skill, however, was far short of what it has been in the past. He was hit freely, but saved himself from greater difficulties by keeping the safeties scattered. Opposed to him was Jeff Tesreau, and he was the one bright light of the game. He pitched masterly ball, allowing only four hits, and in all except two innings retired the Dodgers in one-two-three order.

The Giants won their first tally in the third inning. Chief Meyers scorched a single to centre, and advanced to third on two infield outs. Robertson beat out a hit to Getz, and the Chief scored. In the sixth inning Larry Doyle got a lucky double that just managed to stay in fair territory as it skimmed over third base. Merkle sacrificed, and Doyle scored when Fletcher singled to centre. Reds Win with Aid of Errors.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Erratic fielding by Chicago enabled Cincinnati to win the final game of the series here for the year, 3 to 2. Groh started the eighth inning with a double and Beall struck out. Groh was caught off second base, but Fisher dropped the ball and Groh reached third. McCarthy fumbled K. Williams's grounder when he batted for Herzog, and Groh scored. Each club had scored two runs earlier in the game by bunching hits. Score:

'DOPE' ON INFIELDERS IN WORLD'S SERIES

Two Shortstops Are Closely Matched, Although Bancroft of the Phillies Is Better.

The Shortstops.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

	Value in Offense.	Value in Defense.	Value in Season.	Value in Series.
Bancroft	621	737	706	697

Here are two youngsters, coming stars, who are just beginning to shine brightly, facing each other in a world's series. It is a toss-up between them in every department of the game, and they figure so closely together that it is hard to choose between them. Beyond doubt, Bancroft will be a greater ball player than Scott ever can hope to be. Nature has given him some advantages that are denied the Red Sox shortstop. The fact that the Quaker youngster, fresh from the Coast league, where he was a marvel, does not outshine his rival more in the figures is due to the fact that Scott has a year the advantage in the big show, and that Scott has played with an infield that could teach him more of the inside work than Bancroft knows. Last year Scott got his training down there with Wagner and Gardner and Yerkes to instruct and lead him, which in itself is a liberal education for a youngster, and this year he has had Jack Barry, the wisest of all the infielders and the most patient teacher of youngsters.

Bancroft is a first year man. He is perhaps the most brilliant youngster sent on East from the coast in many a year, and down at Philadelphia he is regarded as the wonder of the season. Naturally, in the enthusiasm of victory, his faults have been overlooked. He is not yet a finished ball player and he makes many blunders in the play around the base, blunders that are hidden to a great extent by the individual brilliancy of his work. Bancroft, a "busher," practically won the pennant for Philadelphia. To him, even more than to G. Cleveland Alexander, belongs the credit of the victory. Of course, neither could have won without the other, but Bancroft "made" that infield, transformed it from an uncertain and ragged defensive proposition into a hard fielding, clean working machine.

Getting down to figures, Bancroft can outhit Scott about thirty points against all kinds of pitching. He is speedier on the bases and clever at getting the jump on the pitchers. I shall have more to say later about the effect of the American League "balk" upon National League base runners who are not accustomed to such liberal interpretations of the balk rule. This is something Moran might advise Bancroft upon, or Boston's adepts at the balk will nip him off first about as often as he gets there. In the field the men figure very closely together, Scott not being quite the equal of his rival in going toward third base or in coming forward and cutting across in front of second base; but he plays the deep field perfectly, and is steady and brilliant in short play, especially with the infield drawn close. He handles a ground ball cleanly and gets it away to the bases quickly, but in that he is not the peer of Bancroft, who shoots from any position.

The players declare that Bancroft, in this respect, is almost the equal of Doolan, who was considered the greatest of all players at that style of defensive work. Bancroft is faster in double plays, but there is one thing I want you to observe in comparing these two fellows: Watch Scott when he passes the ball to Barry and see the difference in the manner in which he handles it from what he did last year. Then watch Bancroft and Niehoff make the same play. This play is, I think, executed better by Evers and Maranville than by any pair. They slip the ball to each other with a scoop motion, merely pitching it toward the bag while the other is sprinting to meet the ball and trying to reach the bag in position to make the throw to first quickly. The danger of an error that will ruin a double play is minimized and the danger of the ball going far enough to make the error more serious is eliminated. Besides that, the ball is at the base, easy to handle, and the other player can move freely and without fear, which lets him cover more ground and still reach the base in time.

Bancroft still has a habit, especially when hurried, of snapping the ball to Niehoff with a quick wrist motion when the play must be made in a hurry. It comes fast to the base, doubles the danger of a muff, and if the muff does happen or the throw is bad, the ball goes on and the runners advance another base. These are small things—but watch Scott and you'll see the fine Italian hand of Jack Barry in every move Scott makes around the base.

It is discouraging to figure on the batting of these two boys in this world's series. Scott is liable to get a foul off Alexander if Alex is right, and if this fellow Rixey has a good day Scott will be lucky to get that much. He tags the left-handed pitchers fairly well and will hit Rixey on an off day, but not if Eppa Jeptha has one of those "big" days that he has at times. Scott probably would hit Mayer well, would hammer Demaree or McQuillan and hold his average against Chalmers; but as these fellows are not likely to cut much figure in this series, Scott's batting average does not look much plumper than Connie Mack in these lean days of the Athletics.

Bancroft is up against the toughest pitching he ever has seen. I think he can be eliminated as a dangerous hitting factor. His best chance to hit, it appears, is against Shore—and that doesn't sound reasonable at all. He stands up pretty well to speed and takes his swings and, of course, any one who does that is liable to connect with one. They seem evenly matched at the waiting game, and on the bases all the advantage is with Bancroft, so that with the exception of the little inside points of the game, a little more finish on his combination playing and a few minor details of play, Bancroft outfigures his Red Sox rival. The difference is not sufficient to make Philadelphia lead and a little luck is likely to turn the tide in the other direction.

Tomorrow we will take up the third basemen and study them before passing again to the outfielders.

Brookfeds Blame Umpire for Defeat.

There was one man who was unpopular in the Brookfed camp last night, and he was Umpire Mullin. Mullin was arbiter at the plate at Washington Park yesterday, and Brooklyn was leading when the ninth inning started by the score of 2 to 1. But after Buffalo and Umpire Mullin finished the ninth inning Buffalo was leading and won the game 3 to 2.

Hofman, the first man up for Buffalo, flied to left field. Then Hal Chase singled and went to second when Louden was out at first base. Engle walked and Chase tallied with the run that tied the score when Roach poked a single to centre. Then Mullin got in wrong. Allen banged the ball to Magee, who threw to Simon to catch Engle at the plate. Mullin called Engle safe, but the Brookfed players and the spectators thought he was out. The score:

PHILLIES EASE UP A BIT.

With Pennant Won, They Don't Try Hard and Lose to Braves.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—The Philadelphias, with the National League championship won, let up a bit today, and the Braves won easily, 8 runs to 2. Hughes held the new champions to three hits, but an error by Maranville in the third inning paved the way to the two runs that were scored on Cravath's triple. Boston sent Rixey from the box by scoring four runs in the first inning. Baumgartner, who followed him, pitched well until the eighth, when the Braves again bunched hits for three runs. The score:

FEDERAL FIGHT NEAR END.

Slight Chance for St. Louis or Chicago to Defeat Pittsburgh.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30. — Chicago tdoay was almost put out of the Federal League pennant race by losing to Pittsburgh, which thereby strengthened its hold on the lead in the close race, while St. Louis resumed second place by defeating Kansas City again. To win the championship Chicago will have to win all of the four remaining games it has to play, as they are all with Pittsburgh.

St. Louis tonight still seemed to its supporters to have the best chance for the flag, as it has only two games to play, and has one more victory to its credit than the leader, which has to play its four remaining games with Chicago. In order to win, however, St. Louis will have to win both its games while Pittsburgh loses half of its four, or take one game while the Rebels lose three.

Pittsburgh Appreciates Clarke.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—A resolution expressing appreciation for the services to the city of Fred C. Clarke, retiring manager of the Pirates, has been drawn up by Councilman Robert Garland, and will be presented to Council at its session next Tuesday. The resolution has been signed by all the members of Council and the City Controller.

DETROIT'S DEFEAT GIVES BOSTON FLAG

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 30.—Boston became the American League champion today, though not playing, through Detroit's loss of the final game with St. Louis, 8 to 2. Wellman won his eighth game of the year from the Tigers, and would not have been scored on but for three errors, bunched in one inning. With a single exception every game won from the local team by St. Louis this season has been pitched by Wellman. He has been beaten by the Tigers only once.

The result was determined in the fifth inning, when five hits, including a double and triple, were bunched with a pass, for five tallies. The score:

RED SOX NOT EXCITED.

They Knew Who Would Win Pennant After They Had Beat Tigers.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—There was only a ripple of interest in this city today when word came of Detroit's defeat, and the consequent clinching of the American League championship by the Red Sox. The outcome of the pennant race had been regarded as a foregone conclusion since the Tigers were routed in the last three games of the sensational series played here two weeks ago.

The Red Sox players learned of the accomplishment of their desires as they boarded a train for Washington, where they play tomorrow. During the afternoon they had watched the Philadelphia Nationals, their rivals in the world's series competition which begins next week, in action against the Braves.

With the exception of Captain Barry, the Red Sox will present full strength in the remaining league games. Barry, whose coming from the Athletics in mid-season has generally been regarded as the deciding factor in Boston's success, was left to maintain a watch on the play of the Phillies. A carbuncle which had troubled him has nearly healed.

PHILLIES PLAN FOR SERIES.

Will Build 2,300 More Seats—Dinner for Champions.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—Plans for the fifth world's series of baseball games in Philadelphia in six years were put in operation today.

With the winning of the National League championship at Boston yesterday by the Philadelphia Club a large number of carpenters began the work of building extra boxes and bleacher seats in National League Park. The plans call for the erection of about 2,300 seats, which will increase the capacity of the grounds to a few more than 20,000 seats.

Applications for tickets for the series, which began to flow into the club's offices some time ago, continue to pour in by every mail, but nothing will be done with them until after the National Commission meets in New York on Saturday and fixes the date for the beginning of the games. Unless the commission shall rule otherwise, the prices of tickets will be $1 to $5. The bleacher seats will be $1, grand stand seats $2 and $3, and box seats $5 each. Purchasers will be compelled to buy tickets for three games, as was the custom in the world's series of 1913 and 1914. It is said the applications for seats already exceed the capacity of the park.

Arrangements are also under way for the first of the inevitable banquets that follow the winning of a pennant. Philadelphia supporters of the Phillies have arranged to tender the team a dinner on Oct. 16. In addition, the players will receive a warm welcome when they arrive home from Boston.

Royal Rooters Turned Down.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—President W. F. Baker of the Philadelphia Nationals tonight refused a request of President J. J. Lannin of the Boston Americans for reservations for the "Royal Rooters," an organization of local "fans," at the world series games to be played in Philadelphia. The Philadelphia executive said that he could not grant to Boston men a privilege refused Philadelphia citizens, namely, reservation of 400 seats in the bleachers. The "Rooters" have occupied such a block of seats at games in which Boston teams have been represented in every important series for many years. President Baker said the best he could do for the Boston band was to reserve for them seats selling at $5 each.

President Lannin said tonight that he was considering an appeal to the National Commission, which has charge of the contests.

Still Hope to Play Ball at Night.

The lighting system which was to have been installed at Washington Park so that the Brookfeds could play ball at night is still in course of construction, and probably will be tried out next week. Five steel poles, each eighty feet high, have been erected in the park, and perched on top of each of these is one of the big lights with which it is expected to light the grounds so that the highest fly ball will be plainly visible. Dick Carroll, business manager of the club, stated yesterday that an exhibition game, at which the new system will be used, will be played some evening next week.

Jim Bluejacket, pitcher, and Grover Land, catcher, of the Brookfeds, have been fined and suspended for the remainder of the season for violating training rules.

Catcher Tom Clark Suspended.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Manager Herzog of the Cincinnati Baseball Club announced today the suspension for the balance of the season of Tom Clark, catcher, for breaking training rules.

MISS BJURSTEDT ADVANCES.

Reaches Finals in Singles and Doubles in Longwood Tennis.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Miss Molla Bjurstedt of Norway today won her way into the finals of the singles and doubles play, and into the semi-finals of the mixed doubles division of the Longwood Cricket Club's annual women's tournament.

The national mixed doubles champions, Mrs. G. W. Wightman and H. C. Johnson, required three sets to defeat Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel W. Niles. The lost set was the first the champions have dropped this season. The summary:

Women's Singles.—Semi-final Round—Miss Molla Bjurstedt, Norway, defeated Miss Eleonora Sears, Boston, 6—2, 6—2; Mrs. G. W. Wightman, Boston, defeated Miss Evelyn Sears, Boston, 6—0, 6—0.

Women's Doubles.—Third Round—Miss Evelyn Sears and Miss Marion Fenno, Boston, defeated Mrs. Clarence Denny and Miss Marion Homans, Boston, 6—3, 7—5; Miss Molla Bjurstedt, Norway, and Miss Anne Sheafe, Boston, defeated Miss Alice Cunningham and Miss Ruth Harrington, Boston, 6—1, 6—4; Mrs. J. O. Bremer and Mrs. Joseph Warren, Boston, defeated Mrs. H. H. Smith, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Samuel Felton, Boston, 6—1, 5—7, 7—5.

Mixed Doubles.—Semi-finals—Miss Molla Bjurstedt, Norway, and Irving C. Wright, Boston, defeated Miss Anne Sheafe and G. P. Gardner, Jr., Boston, 6—2, 4—6, 6—4; Mrs. G. W. Wightman and H. C. Johnson, Boston, defeated Mrs. and Mr. N. W. Niles, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2.

WASHBURN WINS AT TENNIS.

Former College Player in Final Round of West Side Tournament.

Watson M. Washburn, the former college tennis champion, will play Hugh Tallant for the championship of the West Side Tennis Club. Washburn worked his way into the final round yesterday on the club courts at Forest Hills, L. I., when he defeated A. Sweetser in straight sets at 9—7, 6—3. The winner did not appear to take his opponent seriously in the first set, which went to deuce several times, but he showed improved form in the second set, in which he was easily the master of his opponent.

In Class B singles S. E. Davenport, Jr., reached the final round, defeating H. C. Worth, 6—3, 6—2, and will play the winner of the match between E. S. Moore and Seymour Johnson, who are the survivors in the lower section of the draw. A. N. Milne won the only contest played in Class C. He was forced to two extra game sets to win from L. T. Carruthers, at 7—5, 7—5. The summary:

Athletics at Columbia.

Jim Rice, crew coach at Columbia, will start rowing practice on the Hudson next Wednesday afternoon. Candidates will be called together for a talk on Tuesday. The 'Varsity senior and junior crews will take to the shells while the freshmen candidates will use the heavier barges during the Autumn rowing season.

Coach Bernie Wefers of the Columbia University track team will meet all candidates, freshmen and 'Varsity, this afternoon on South Field in preparation for the first practice of the season. On Monday afternoon the cross-country season will soon be under way and Manager Walter P. Pfeiffer is now arranging for several meets.

Members of the 1914 Columbia soccer team met yesterday afternoon for a discussion of this year's prospects and to elect a new leader to succeed Herbert A. Buermeyer, who resigned because of his candidacy for the football team. H. G. Nevitt, '16, forward for the past two years, was chosen temporary Captain and the team will meet Monday for the first practice. A permanent Captain will be chosen at that time.

Outlaws in Winter League.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30.—Outlaw ballplayers will be permitted to play in the Southern California Winter League, according to an announcement today of the managers of the league.

Federal League players were barred last year from the league. Among the Federal players signed are Art Wilson, Chicago, and Packard, Cullop, and Main of the Kansas City team. "Chief" Meyers, Tesreau, and other major league players of organized ball also will play. The Winter League was organized last year.

Boxing at Ebbets Field Tonight.

The big boxing program which Manager John Weismantel will put on tonight at Ebbets Field includes three star ten-round bouts, in the main one of which Jack Dillon of Indianapolis will figure with Jim Savage of Orange. Savage will have a decided advantage in height, weight, and reach and more ring experience. He is confident that he will put a check to Dillon's winning career. The semi-windup will have Terry Mitchell of Brooklyn and Frankie Notter of New York.

Federal Stars to Tour Country.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Star players of the Federal League have arranged a tour of the country after the close of the season, it was announced today. Pitchers Brennan and Hendrix of the Chicago Club will be members of the team.

TWO NEW RECORDS IN CIRCUIT RACING

One Is for a Fifth Heat and the Other Is for a Six-Heat Pacing Event.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 30.—Nineteen heats of regular racing, in addition to six time trials, during two of which Peter Volo and Etawah equaled their trotting records of 2:02 and 2:08, respectively, were decided in events on today's Grand Circuit racing program here. Only the 2:09 pace, in which Fern Hal won two heats, was left unfinished.

In the Arch City Pacing Stake, won by Russell Boy, there were two world's records, and one was equaled. Four heats of this race were decided yesterday. In the first one today, Russell Boy just beat Hal Boy in 2:03¼, new time for a fifth heat in a pacing race. Russell Boy won the next heat with something to spare, in 2:03¼, equaling the best time for a sixth heat. As a six-heat race, this one is the best on record. The best previous event was that won last year at Detroit by R. H. Brett.

Dwight Logan of the Valentine Stable took the 2:13 pace, two heats of which he won yesterday. Today Ohmelia and Tramp-a-bit divided the first two heats. Time in the next one was slow to the three-quarters pole with Dwight Logan leading. Ohmelia then closed in, but the gelding won by going the last quarter in 30 seconds.

Single G. won the Board of Trade stake, five heats being required. Beth Clark, another Valentine pacer, created a surprise by winning the first heat in 2:03¼ and the second in 2:04¼. Single G. took the next two, equalling his record in his first winning effort. In the last quarter of the fifth mile, stepped in 29¾ seconds, Beth Clark dropped from the lead, while Single G. had to be stirred up to win from Our Colonel.

No opposition for General Todd appeared in the Horseman's Futurity Pace, and the Pittsburgh three-year-old won as he pleased, his best time being five seconds above his record.

Mirthful, a favorite, as was Single G. and General Todd, settled the 2:08 trot in straight heats. Etawah then made an effort to lower his record. He was slow in the first half, doing each quarter of the last half in 30½ seconds. Up the back stretch he had to trot against a light wind.

Peter Velo followed in a few moments. He did his second quarter in 30½ seconds and got down to 30 seconds in the third quarter. The last quarter, stepped in 30¼, brought him home in 2:02, his record, made at Cleveland in July.

For refusing to keep Queen Abbess in the Arch City Pacing Stake, Ben White of Buffalo was held to be guilty of insubordination, and judges fined him $100.

BRICKLEY DRILLS KICKERS.

Famous Half Back Assists in Developing Harvard Candidates.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 30.—If Harvard does not have a good drop-kicker and place kicker this year it will not be Charley Brickley's fault. Brickley, who is now coaching at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore, arrived at Cambridge today and spent the afternoon with eight kicking candidates turned over to his charge by Percy Haughton. Brickley worked with a will, and his pupils made a lot of progress. Whitney, who kicked two field goals yesterday, and Robinson of last year's freshmen are the best drop kickers in sight, and even with one day's work under Brickley both have improved not only in height and length of kicks, but also in speed and direction. Brickley will be here tomorrow, too, and will come to Cambridge from time to time throughout the season.

The 'Varsity lineup today was without Mahan, King, Bigelow, Watson and Cowan, Bigelow having joined the lame squad. All of these men were on the field, but were kept out of the play. They are fit to go into Saturday's game, but it usually has been Haughton's plan not to play men who have not taken part in the Thursday scrimmage.

The regulars, with Harte at end in place of Coolidge, again played against the scrubs, but found the second team substitutes harder opponents than the first scrub team was yesterday. There were several scores, the most notable of which was a touchdown made by Soucy, who ran forty yards after taking a forward pass from Boles, Whitney later taking the ball on a fumble and running fifteen yards across the scrubs' goal line.

Harris, a former full back, who was tried at centre for a time last Fall, today was back in the middle of the line. His passing, however, was erratic, and on one low pass for a kick the ball hit the goal posts and immediately afterward the scrubs forced the 'Varsity to make a safety.

CHAMPIONSHIP FOR HUEY.

Moore Defeated in Three-Cushion Match by 150 to 138.

William Huey of Chicago last night won the three-cushion billiard championship by defeating George W. Moore at the New York Theatre Building Music Hall by a total of 150 to 138 in a match that was played in blocks of fifty points beginning Tuesday. Moore led by a margin of ten points at the conclusion of the first night's play, but Huey assumed the lead Wednesday, when he defeated Moore by a score of 60 to 40. This gave the Chicago player a ten-point advantage with which to start the concluding game last night. In that he was again the victor, defeating his rival by 50 to 48 in a match that was by far more brilliant than anything that had previously been demonstrated by either of the contestants.

The next match for the championship will be played in Chicago, Alfredo De Oro being the challenger, and under the rules this will have to be played before Nov. 5.

Before the match last night it was freely predicted that Moore would easily overcome the disadvantage of ten points and retain the championship. Those who held this opinion did so because of a thorough acquaintance with Moore's ability and the remembrance of the manner in which he came from behind and defeated De Oro last Spring. Huey had given only a flash of real form in the play of the first two nights, and it was argued that he would break under the strain of a strong finish by Moore.

All of this calculation proved faulty. Moore did play better billiards than on the two previous nights, but Huey could equal even his best efforts. The Chicago player executed the most difficult carroms with precision, even though there was a certain care free manner to his play. Therein lay the secret of the defeat of Moore. Huey never appeared to show any strain, while his opponent was plainly uneasy as inning after inning went by and he could not cut down the lead of the Westerner. The score:

Yamada a Billiard Winner Again.

Koji Yamada, the Japanese billiard player, last night added the name of Harry Brown to his list of defeated opponents, when he defeated the local player in a match at Maurice Daly's Academy, Forty-ninth Street and Broadway, by the score of 250 to 48. The Oriental player, at the 14.1 style of game, completed his string of 250 points in twelve innings, making a high run of 83 points, with an average of 20 10-12. Brown's highest run was 23, and he had an average of 4 4-11. The latter played 14.2 balkline.

Buffalo Soldier Athletes at Odds.

There is another athletic storm hovering over Buffalo. The Sixty-fifth and Seventy-fourth Regiments, N. G. N. Y., are once more at daggers' points, and have openly exhibited their enmity by both applying to the Registration Committee of the A. A. U. for a sanction to hold games on New Year's night. It was this same trouble which caused the Registration Committee much concern last year. Charles Reidpath, a former great runner, who is A. A. U. Commissioner for the district, has been intrusted with the task of trying to pacify the soldiers. If he does not succeed in getting one of the regiments to accept another date, the A. A. U. will issue a sanction to each regiment. Stephen Byrne, the Trinity Club member of the Registration Committee, has placed himself on record as favoring the issuing of a sanction to the Sixty-fifth Regiment for New Year's. Three members of his committee are opposed to him.

I. R. T. Strollers Soccer Winners.

Playing against a picked eleven of Metropolitan soccer players, the I. R. T. Strollers scored a well-earned victory by 3 goals to 2, following the program of athletic games held at the new Betsy Hand Memorial Playgrounds, in Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon.

Not that we want to make light of our new Fall overcoats—there are too many cool Fall days and nights when you can't afford to be without them.

But for motoring to Cup Races you're apt to need a heavier chill-proof motor coat.

Mostly serviceable browns and grays, $35 to $45.

For ourselves, we usually find our "Scotch Mists" (registered trade-mark) quite warm enough, even for Fall motoring; of course, they have the added advantage of being rainproof.

BUSINESS AS USUAL.

From comments that have already appeared in the English press it is evident that opinion there will be divided as to whether the Anglo-French Commissioners, in arranging for a $500,000,000 loan in this country, made a bargain to be proud of. That Great Britain and France should have to pay 6 per cent. for American accommodation is thought by some critics of the transaction to be a reflection on the credit of the borrowers. But it is not. The loan is to run five years. It bears 5 per cent. interest per annum, and is placed with the underwriting syndicate at 96, so that the cost of the money to the joint borrowers will be approximately 6 per cent. flat. The syndicate, adding one-quarter of 1 per cent. to cover the bare cost of its work, will offer it at 96¼ to subscribers, that is, on a basis to yield 5.85 per cent. After the close of the subscription it will be for sale at 98, to yield 5½ per cent. Any one, even the smallest investor who wants only $100 of the loan, may participate in the subscription by applying at the nearest bank before the lists are closed, thereby gaining the advantage of the first price, namely, 96¼.

These are not onerous terms. They connote nothing in the least unfavorable to the credit of the borrowing countries. They are the "market terms," which is to say, a loan less attractive, in competition with what American borrowers are willing to pay for American capital, might not have been sure of success, and certainly its success was much more important than the rate of interest. To say, as some English commentators do, that for the sake of something other than business the people of the United States should place their credit at the command of the Allies on more favorable conditions is to take an emotional view of international finance which it will not bear, and to expect Americans to be more responsive than the English themselves have been to the needs of Great Britain. The English, out of their long financial experience, ought to know that when you borrow you have to pay the market price. They knew that well enough at home, when, on the last war loan, the rate of interest was raised to 4½ per cent., besides which buyers were guaranteed against loss in the event of subsequent domestic loans bearing a higher rate. The implication is that the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, as well as everybody else, thinks it probable that succeeding war loans at home will be issued on rising rates of interest.

It is not a matter of security or of the credit standing of the borrowers. The reason Great Britain has to pay 4½ per cent. for British money, the highest rate since the Napoleonic wars, and 6 per cent. for American credit, though nothing had ever been borrowed abroad before at all, is that she is displacing capital from other employment and converting it to the uses of war at a rate unparalleled in all experience. According to the estimate of the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, the total British debt on March 31, 1916, will be eleven billion dollars, against three and one-half billions at the beginning of the war in August, 1914. Borrowing 7½ billions for war in seventeen months does not wreck British credit. It is rather an astonishing achievement and a proof of resourcefulness beyond anything hitherto imagined. But it does raise the rate of interest in the world.

THE OLD DYCKMAN HOUSE.

To the few quaint and interesting landmarks which have escaped destruction in the growth of New York City, has been added, for permanent preservation, the ancient Dyckman farmhouse near the northern extremity of Manhattan Island. Through the generosity of Mrs. Bashford Dean and Mrs. Alexander McMillan Welch, lineal descendants of its seventeenth century builder, it has been presented to the Park Department with sufficient land to give the brick homestead with its broad gambrel roof a picturesque setting for future years on its original site.

Already are those broad acres, which, up to recent years, had lost but little of their early bucolic charm, crowded with apartment houses, and the Subway daily is carrying there a population greater than all Manhattan Island contained over two centuries ago when the first Dutch resident of the name of Dyckman, and who also was one of the patentees of Harlem, settled down to the life of a peaceful farmer on the fertile meadows popularly known as the Dyckman tract.

The house was erected at the close of the revolutionary war in 1783, the earlier home having been burned during the British occupancy of the city, in retaliation, perhaps, for the patriotic fervor of the Dyckman family. This fact doubtless has saved it from the dubious reputation of having been a Washington headquarters. It is, moreover, the last remaining type on Manhattan Island of a genuine Dutch farmhouse, a characteristic which is visibly exemplified in its architecture and in its suggestiveness of homely, simple hospitality and family comforts.

The passing years have brought new scenes and new conditions to the ancestral farm, but the old house remains unchanged. Built in the days when a house was destined to be the homestead of many generations of the same family, it is in prime condition today. When neatly renovated, with museum features in the low-ceilinged living rooms, this venerable relic will take its place beside the historic Fraunces Tavern and the Morris house, in both of which Washington was entertained, our City Hall and the old King mansion in Jamaica, as one more link recalling vividly the progressive steps in the metropolitan growth of the little settlement on the lower end of Manhattan Island.

AN INDIAN HOLIDAY.

So we are to have a new holiday. The Society of American Indians has decreed it at its session in Lawrence, Kansas. It is to be the second Saturday in May and is to be observed as American Indian Day.

Of course, every day in the year should be a holiday. There should be an Italian holiday—there is, by the way—an Irish holiday, a German holiday, and so on until, as Bill Nye used to say, "the mind grows dazed and giddy with the mighty thought." And yet it is impossible to feel the proper amount of irritation when it is the Indians who propose one. Certainly, if any class of Americans are entitled to a day of their own, it is the Indians. "The Indians," runs the declaration of their press agent, "are the only race in America with-"out a national holiday." The only race in America; and still they are the only American race. It strikes the ear oddly to hear President Coolidge's proclamation:

> In the judgment of wise and impartial men, the heroic struggle of our fathers against force which they had no means of measuring or appreciating, yet which they fought against for homes, for family, for country, and the preservation of native freedom has no parallel in history.

We are not accustomed to think of the three hundred years' war "when the white man met the red" in just that way; but it seems that there is a race pride, even a patriotism, in this crushed race. Looking at Geronimo in his Florida confinement, Ernest McGaffey dismissed him curtly as "a red Apache Tamerlane." Geronimo was not able to reply; perhaps if he had been it would not have been Tamerlane but some famous figure in the gallery of national patriots whose name would have been drawn upon for a comparison.

There is something pathetically respectable about this attempt to create a national feeling among the members of the only race which has full title to the name American, even though they have gone about it in the wrong way. We have holidays enough and too many; but perhaps the Indians are really less anxious about the creation of a new holiday than about getting publicity for this new birth of a racial pride among them. In that case, though approval will have to be withheld from the holiday idea, one can honestly wish them well in their larger purpose.

THE BURDEN OF "THE GROWLER."

For some days students of café sociology have read this warning, appropriately printed in blue letters, which saddens the "saloons" of Manhattan and Brooklyn:

> Owing to additional taxation on our business, beer, per pint, will be 15 cents, to take effect on and after Oct. 1, 1915.

This is the day, dark to the sons of thirst, when the State liquor license tax here jumps from $1,200 to $1,500. The city gains nothing in revenue. It got half of the old fee, gets 40 per cent. of the new. Indeed, a considerable loss is anticipated, as many "places" will have to go out of business, if the retail sellers are not mistaken. Manhattan has "one saloon for every 450 of population." The community would be able to bear the loss of a good many barrooms. Indeed, the wonder grows how so many of them can make a living, what with the war tax on beer and wine, the spread of total abstinence, and the cost of living. The stranger within our gates, ready to spend and indulgent to excitements which he perhaps foregoes at home, lets us lay on him a fat share of the Manhattan consumption of the cup that cheers. Brooklyn is to be defended on the ground that, as a domestic and dormitory settlement, she cleaves to domestic beer.

It is matter of common observation and remark that people drink less generally and more moderately than they did even ten years ago. Common sense, athletics, knowledge of hygiene, the passion for "efficiency," most of all, perhaps, the pinch of expensive times have made a marked effect. One wonders how so many saloon keepers survive in the business.

The 50 per cent. rise in the price of the pint of beer, carried home in the "can" or "growler," will enable the "rushers" of that humble container to decide for themselves whether beer is a necessary or a luxury. If they hold that it is the latter, they will continue to buy. The size of the pint, its marvelous capacity of foam, have long been causes of acrimonious lament on the part of the buyers, the sociologists tell us, while the sellers have insisted that they lost money on the transaction. From today we shall gain light on an economic problem which must interest multitudes, judging from the multitudes of saloons. What interests the mere observer is who supports that crowd of "cafés."

ON A REEF AND BREAKING UP.

The direct primary continues to display new and unexpected possibilities. When the Legislature hurriedly obeyed Governor Glynn's command and touched the match off under our electoral system it had no idea of the queer and unimaginable pyrotechnics that would result.

Take, as the latest example, the primary in Brooklyn. The Progressive Party, which has been shattered as an organization, nevertheless occupied the place of honor, the grand stand, the spotlight. Mere Republicans and Democrats went unsought and unnoticed; nobody even took the trouble to go and ask them for their votes; but all over that large, unwieldy borough men were piling into taxicabs night after night to collect the votes of Progressives. A stranger might have imagined that the Bull Moose Party was the largest and most important one in Brooklyn, instead of being a wreck on the shore.

The reason was simple enough. The Progressives were not strong enough to make any nominations of their own, in most districts, and consequently there ensued a fierce struggle between Republicans and Democrats to part the Bull Moose raiment among them and for its vesture to cast lots. There were virtually no Progressive candidates, only Republicans and Democrats designated by Bull Moose committees or failing of designation, and in either case struggling frantically to get the Progressive vote at the primary. There were curious results; if there was anywhere a straight Progressive candidate it was Robert H. Elder, yet he seems to have lost the Progressive primary to a Republican of the strictest sect, District Attorney Cropsey. If there are any real Progressives left, what do they think of the spectacle presented by their smashed and broken party, partitioned and dismembered by the two old parties who three years ago were supposed to represent all that was detestable in politics? The same scene was to be observed in Manhattan, but hardly on such a scale. Brooklyn has furnished the most thoroughgoing demonstration yet given of the wreck and ruin of what three years ago was a formidable movement in American politics.

AFFLICTED TORREON.

The occupation of Torreon by the soldiers of Carranza under command of Obregon is the first noteworthy achievement of the Mexican Constitutionalists since the last statement of the Pan-American Conference, which seemed to foreshadow recognition of Carranza as de facto ruler of Mexico. The occupation was effected without bloodshed. Villa has abandoned Torreon and it is believed that he intends to abandon Chihuahua also, and to confine his operations in the immediate future to Sonora. It must be admitted that Villa's recent doings measurably justify the assertion of the Carranzistas that Villa is not at present a formidable antagonist. He has certainly abandoned the field of his former operations, for the time being, but he has not been captured, he has followers, arms, and ammunition, and the Villista party refuses to admit defeat. There are agents of Villa in this country who expect to make strong representations to the Pan-American Conference at the meeting next week. They can scarcely hope to convince the mediators that Villa has established a Government worthy of recognition, but they may be able to postpone recognition of their opponents until the factions can be harmonized.

Meanwhile, General Obregon has a good opportunity in Torreon to correct the impression made, during his brief occupancy of Mexico City, of callous disregard for human suffering and a lack of constructive ability. The people in Torreon are suffering, the town needs cleaning, business has been paralyzed. General Obregon can do much to restore comfort and prosperity to the inhabitants. The cotton crop has not been harvested and the other crops of the rich laguna district have been sadly neglected. If Obregon chooses to exert himself while he is in Torreon he can greatly increase the repute of the Constitutionalists of Mexico in this country. Torreon has been a city of many miseries since the outbreak of the Madero revolution against Diaz. Orozco began there his unlucky campaign against Madero. In the war of the Constitutionalists against Huerta it was the scene of the bloodiest battle, in which the courage and skill of Villa were amply proved. It has since, until lately, been one of Villa's chief military depots, it has lost prestige as a manufacturing and trading centre, and probably its inhabitants are now hoping for the dawn of a new era.

ONE PHASE OF THE MOVIES.

The spectator at the moving pictures is often struck by the familiarity of the background of a scene on the screen. There is a building, for instance, that he seems to have seen frequently in his walks and drives abroad, but it must be a delusion, for there is a quaint old doorway he does not recognize, and a swinging sign proclaiming good entertainment for man and beast. The sign and the doorway, however, may be portable scenery and the ancient inn of the pictured romance may, indeed, be that very Elizabethan garage of a Long Island country club. Your movie man, like Lope de Vega and Moliere, helps himself to what he finds that suits his needs. Nero has courted Poppea in Rahway and Australian bushmen have been quelled by settlers in the Bronx. The Italian gardens on the suburban estates of New York citizens have been transformed, by permission, into ducal pleasure grounds, where Queens and soldiers have played deep with hearts and Princes have fought duels to the finish. The Rome of the movies may be Rome in Italy, but it is quite as likely to be a private park in Saratoga or the terrace of a country house on the Hudson. One who goes abroad much may often encounter the movies in the course of making. He may barely escape confusing himself, in his sober modern attire, with the gay Neapolitan bandit, he may be a witness of the rescue of a lady from a desperate villain, and then see the two going off together in the same motor car to the place chosen as a background for the next picture.

In a letter printed on this page yesterday a moving-picture man, anxious that the repute of his calling shall not suffer for the misdeeds of a few who have abused hospitality, uttered his protest against the ill-treatment of lawns and gardens lent to the showmen by their generous owners. He says that wealthy suburbanites are already turning the cold shoulder to the movie men, because of their bad manners and lack of gratitude. Flower beds have been trampled upon, hedges broken, sometimes houses have been invaded. The matter has not been brought to public notice often, but the respectable moving-picture men should band together to protect themselves from the disrepute the black sheep in their calling, managers and performers alike, are tending to bring upon them. If it were necessary to pay a price every time for the setting of every movie scene in the open the profits of the business would be materially decreased. The situation as it stands is very interesting, however, as it throws a bright light on one hitherto obscure phase of a new kind of business whose potentialities are as yet but faintly comprehended. One who cares to take up the study of the movies may learn something new about them every day, and at the end of a year still have much to learn.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Relation of Fiction to Truth.

Mrs. Gertrude Atherton is probably quite justified in resenting, for herself and other producers of romance, every charge or intimation that the writing of books admittedly not veracious in the way that historians try and pretend to make their chronicles true, lessens either the ability or the inclination to be accurate.

Not all novels, of course, are trustworthy portrayals of life as it is or was lived in the time and place selected for exploitation; but with rare exceptions they are so to the full extent of the author's power to make them, and the merit of a novel is almost exactly proportioned to his success or hers in the achievement of this estimable and inevitable purpose. That it is sometimes attained with a close approach to perfection, and not infrequently in no small degree, is evidenced by the insatiable demand for novels and the tireless interest in them which no small fraction of humanity has always shown.

A successful novelist has more than an excuse, therefore, for claiming confidence as one whose habit as well as business it is to observe carefully and to tell truly what has been seen. This is compatible with the exercise of imagination—perhaps is dependent on its possession, for people without imagination are notably prone to mistakes and misjudgments.

Talking, Now, Across a Continent!

So wonted have we been of late years to regularly recurring announcement by the electricians of a new achievement in the domain of what had passed for the impossible that nobody is even surprised, much less excited, by the news that telephone messages were sent on Wednesday from New York to San Francisco—the greater part of the distance, 2,500 miles—without a wire to carry the vibrations. The thing, as well as yesterday's report of talk with Honolulu, is taken the more calmly, perhaps, because for two or three years we have been hearing of minor triumphs in ethereal telephony, and this, to the uninitiate, seems merely to be doing better and over a longer distance what has already been done.

It is, however, much more than that, and how much more is realized only by those who know that new difficulties, as well as an increase in those previously encountered, had to be overcome before the miles between Arlington and the Pacific Coast and Hawaii could be bridged without the help of a wire.

In characterizing Wednesday's exploit, Colonel Reber of the Government's Aerial Service was content to say that it marked "an epoch in technical achievement and in the development policy of a great corporation." Other experts cautiously refrain from claiming more of immediate utility for what it is convenient though inaccurate to call aerial telephony than that it will be of enormous value in emergencies, created by breakdowns of the more familiar system of communication and as a substitute for them where topographical conditions make the employment of those systems impracticable or prohibitively expensive. That is, of course, the safe way to view the invention in its present state, but there is sufficient justification for fairly confident predictions that these limitations will soon be passed, and passed as far, too, as have been those which carefulness and incredulity placed on the first telephones and on wireless telegraphy when it was new.

Some of us have not forgotten that certain Wise Ones sniffed at them both as "toys," interesting, indeed, but unimportant. And now it would seem to be next to impossible to live without them!

A Doctor Criticises Journalism.

In addressing the medical students in the course of the exercises marking the opening of Columbia's new year, Dr. F. C. Wood, Director of the Crocker Cancer Research Fund, took occasion to scold the newspapers at considerable length and with no little vivacity. To their ignorance in scientific matters, and to their love of the sensational, he ascribed, among other things, the public's dangerously exaggerated estimate of radium as a curative agent and the undeserved amount of attention which the public gave for a while to the claims of Dr. Friedmann that he had conquered tuberculosis.

"If the newspapers would only publish the facts!" exclaimed Dr. Wood. Would he have an answer ready if somebody should ask him when a newspaper, and what newspaper, refused to publish "the facts"—when one of them failed to show an eager desire to get and print "the facts," in medical as in other matters—whether doctors, as well as newspapers, do not occasionally make honest and unavoidable mistakes in deciding between truth and error?

If the newspapers led their readers to expect much from radium, they had the excuse that the statements and predictions they printed were all made on the authority of reputable and distinguished members of the medical profession, and if such men are not to be trusted on such a subject, who is? Perhaps Dr. Wood will say that the newspapers have no business to discuss medical subjects at all. If so, he will not be alone in holding that opinion, but he and the others who hold it are contradicted by many of their own colleagues, and, anyhow, it is a question that has not been, and will not be, left to them for decision.

As regards Dr. Friedmann, the critic of the newspapers had for once a pretty good case. The papers were hasty, then, and they ignored warnings which they should have heeded; but even in that case there was no reluctance to print "the facts" as soon as they were available, and if the newspapers blew the Friedmann bubble, they also pricked it without hesitation as soon as the propriety of doing so was demonstrated. That's something.

ART NOTES.

At the Montross Gallery today is an opening at which are shown the latest fashions in art. And the fact that the works shown are in the new style and feeling makes them not a whit the less art. Whether you do or do not see what you like in this handsome collection of moderns, you admit that it contains much that is serious and a little that is very beautiful. There is Mr. Stella's jug of something or other beneath the bough, for example—where could one match the blithe and learned color which has bloomed on the canvas with as little trace of effort or manufacture as though a seventeenth century Fleming had put it there. Few of Mr. Speicher's Academy friends will be reconciled to his plunge into the dark waters of his new manner, which possibly derives from Cézanne and possibly from a nearer source, but which, by force of genuine talent, the artist has made his own.

Mr. Preston's "Fruit" plainly reveals his gift for composing color—"organizing color" is the way to say it now. There is lovely color, again, in Arnold Friedman's spotted surfaces. Bertram Hartman is amusing but detached in his "Madame Fashion"; she seems not to belong in this quite sincere group, although her author lacks nothing of sincerity in his particular genre. Why, also, is Guy Pené du Bois just around the corner from Kenneth Hayes Miller? His social satires are irresistible in acumen and wit, and technically they are expert, but the contrast with Mr. Miller's caveman types is almost too violent for comfort. Still, one should not complain when such a wealth of free fancy is offered. In the outer room are the sketches, with a few in the inner gallery. Among the latter are the curious "Studies" by Maurice Sterne of one model, Mabel Dodge. The bold foreshortenings and interesting poses are decidedly arresting, and give the effect of strength and vitality. They call for closer study, as do many of the other things which will receive a later notice. The exhibition will be on for three weeks.

"War—Forward March."

At the exhibition of Alfred Philippe Roll's paintings, which will open at the Knoedler Galleries on Saturday, one will attract especial attention for its historic importance and contemporary interest with all the world at war. This is the "War—Forward March," painted in 1886 and 1887, when the people of France were still agitated by the incidents which had taken place on the Franco-German border. The catalogue contains this eloquent description of the picture:

"The 'Forward March' is without doubt one of the best military pictures of our time, of which so many have been painted. Roll's soldiers are genuine troopers in action, gray with dust, perspiring, exhausted, unnerved by the pending battle, marching because it is their duty, without enthusiasm but also without recrimination. This picture is neither a panegyric nor a useless, bitter dissertation of war, dating from the time when the hostilities began. There is in it only a distressing proof of what war is, nothing else. When one's native land is in danger one must sacrifice one's self to defend it; there is no duty more sacred—this is the only thought evoked by Roll's picture. A battalion of infantry comes out in the road, where one perceives quite near, stretched and bleeding, under a mule, a soldier who has just been killed; a patrol is leaving a troop; the scouts, gun in hand, are preparing to seach a wood; down the valley they are fighting; the cannon thunder; a battery of artillery has taken position to silence a German battery; shells are exploding; the noise of the shooting is beginning to be heard; the enemy, signaled on the left, is certainly very near; the infantry is about to charge; no cries, no manifestations of any kind; duty accepted without a murmur."

ZEPPELINS AND TEA.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I send you a letter which I recently received from a friend in England. The remarks on conscription, I think, are rather illuminating, while other parts give one rather a good idea of what is going on in that section of England.

B. H. NYE.

[Inclosure.]

Buckland Hill, Maidstone,
Aug. 9, 1915.

Dear Mr. Nye: Thank you very much, too, for the two newspapers. Your papers have much more news in them than ours. The censorship is so rigid that we seem to get only the scrappiest news every morning.

For example, there have been several Zeppelin raids lately; but if no casualties are caused there is nothing said about them, and if any damage is done the name of the raided town is not given. But as we are in the southeast we hear when there have been Zeppelin visits. A neighbor's sister living at Dover had a fine fireworks sight last week when she saw a Zeppelin dropping bombs on the Admiralty pier in the full blaze of the searchlights. We ourselves were visited by a Zeppelin about two months ago. It did no bomb-dropping here at all, but it caused a rare excitement, for people were awakened by the sound of the guns firing on it.

Quick-firers are mounted on armored motor cars under the control of the Naval Air Service, and they can be telephoned for by the police when an air raider is in the neighborhood. There is also a very powerful steamer siren at the electric works, which is blown to warn the townspeople to take shelter in their cellars, and this thing going off at 12:15 (midnight) woke us with a great start. We heard the Zeppelin motors distinctly, so we flew downstairs promptly and sat in the cellars for a solid hour and a half till the siren went off again to say the danger was past. Since that event the restriction of the lights has been very rigorously enforced. No street lamps are even lighted, all shops must have their lights well shaded and the sun blinds let down, while blinds must be kept carefully down and lights shaded in people's houses. We have had a policeman after us twice for leaving our blinds up, so now we put brown paper around our lamp globes.

The town is still very full of soldiers—a new set of men comes in about every three weeks. Their work for some time past has been to dig trenches on the hills which, you no doubt remember, lie to the northeast of the town. Not only does this give them practice, but is of actual practical use in providing the third line of defense for London at a radius of about forty miles. Today has been quite exciting for the loungers in the town, for these trenches for some distance have been destroyed by bombs dropped from airships in the presence, it is said, of Lord Kitchener.

We were out this afternoon and saw a continuous procession of motors containing staff officers with the distinguishing scarlet around their caps, and naval officers, together with elegant French officers, Belgians, and Japanese.

On our return home we saw a large airship and five smaller ones appear at a fair height. They looked wonderfully pretty, with their aluminium-colored envelopes gleaming in the sun. After making sundry revolutions they were over the hills and remained there dropping bombs on the trenches, which exploded with a pretty loud bang and sent up clouds of black smoke.

The agitation for conscription is being carried on more actively than ever by The Daily Mail and its allied papers, and it is difficult to know what the National Register, which every one filled up last Sunday, means. There are many people who think it is the forerunner of conscription, and I hear that the names of all men of military age will be marked and that they will later receive a visit from the recruiting Sergeant. Of course conscription could not be introduced without a measure in Parliament, and it is to be hoped that democratic opinion will declare itself firmly against it. I think it will, for the supporters of it are the aristocratic and wealthy classes.

A few Sundays ago one vicar, who is in close touch with the military set, preached a sermon upholding the virtues of national service. In the afternoon we went to tea with some friends who are a country family—the grandfather was a peer. They were strongly in favor of it, too, and the vicar of the church in their village—the nephew of a Tory, Lord Chancellor—was practically dragooning the yokels into joining the army in his sermon that night. We thought we had had an enlightening day. The other night at the "movies" (I like the American name) there was the word 'Conscription' on the screen, and it evoked loud applause from all the bits of girls, but the men and soldiers, I noticed, showed no enthusiasm.

A Cat's Joy of Killing.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to refer to your editorial comment on the proposed investigation of the Association of Audubon Societies relative to the slaughter of birds by cats.

After a study of bird life extended over a period of forty years, it is the conclusion of the writer that the cat should find no friends among ornithologists. I dispute the allegation that the killing is done "to interest, amuse, and instruct the kittens," although at times this is undoubtedly an attendant circumstance. Within a few weeks I have observed a half-grown cat which had never known maternal joys in a constant hunt for birds. To the writer's knowledge the creature killed three robins in two days, and there was circumstantial evidence that she destroyed a brood of myrtle warblers (worth all the cats in New England) and was prevented a few days later from destroying a brood of catbirds, which doubtless she eventually consumed. The cat is cunning and persistent in her destruction of bird life, and it is high time that her temperamental kultur should be understood.

THE STORM.

The wild, kind rain is driving in my face,
As joyously I challenge winds to race.
Its warming sting doth set me all a-glow,
I leap in ecstasy as forth I go
Down, down the way so often trod before
Along the smooth, firm-beaten, much-loved shore.
Its fascinating beauty lures me on—
It is a glorious thing to think upon!

Above my head the sea-gulls circle high,
Great clouds roll o'er the gray expanse of sky—
Yea, everything is moving in a song,
Its happy spirit carries me along!
Look! There with every charm of fairy lace,
Flung wide from Father Neptune's fond embrace,
Bright heaps of coral mosses dye the beach,
The sport wind whirls them from my longing reach.

I scarce can hold my course, but needs must blow
Just where the surging wind would have me go.
The breakers madly dash about my feet,
As if their unseen sovereign Lord to meet.
Ofttimes mere ripples drop a shy curtsey
And, gurgling low, retire gracefully;
But these pound forth their souls' best energy,
In earnest homage bending low the knee.

Like them, I, too, would gladly worship there,
And add my part to Nature's mighty prayer.
At times like this my weakness full I see,
In contact with the great infinity.
I feel such joy! My thankful heart expands
With all the gifts of the Almighty Hand.
I find myself where I would long to be,
Lost in the power of God's immensity.

SENTIMENTAL ASPECT OF THE WAR LOAN.

To England We Owe Friendship; to France Gratitude for Assisting the Sublime Audacity of the American Revolution.

By JAMES M. BECK.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Every American should rejoice that the negotiations between the Anglo-French Commission and our American financiers did not fail. Such failure would have been a lasting disgrace to this country, for this loan has its sentimental as well as its purely economic significance. It is natural that the distinguished financiers, who conducted the negotiations in behalf of American business interests, could not take into account the purely sentimental aspects of the problem, for they were acting, in a sense, as the trustee for others.

The American, who sympathizes with the great cause of the Allies, and who believes that they are fighting for the basic principles of civilization and for the cause of democracy as against absolutism, may well regard the question of this loan as more moral than economic.

Many of those who have this belief—and their number is legion—have increasingly chafed at the inaction of our own Government and its unwillingness to take an active and efficient part in this great struggle, upon which in very truth the whole future of humanity depends. To these the opportunity, within the narrow limits of strict neutrality prescribed for us by the Administration of the day—to contribute moral and material support to the Allies should and doubtless will be very welcome.

There is in this connection a question of gratitude, which should not be lost sight of.

So far as England is concerned, it must not be forgotten that in the last war which this country had with a great European power Great Britain gave to us both moral and material support. Dewey's fleet left for Manila Bay with the cheers of English sailors ringing in his ears, with English coal in the bunkers of his ships, and with the good will of the British Empire. When the Central Powers, largely acting at the instigation of Potsdam, attempted to form a coalition against this country in behalf of Spain, this attempted interference—which might have led to grave and possibly disastrous consequences — was stopped by the action of England in proclaiming its moral sympathy for us.

To France, however, the debt of this country is even greater, and should be recalled at this time, when this gallant nation is truly fighting our battles for us, just as it fought for us in our war of independence.

Our Revolution began and almost prematurely ended in a struggle for powder. There was not in the United States at that time a powder mill which supplied more than purely local necessities, and so far as known there was but one small manufactory of muskets. Unless the Colonists could obtain powder and shot resistance was obviously out of the question.

Two days after Lexington the Massachusetts Committee of Safety made an accurate estimate of the existing supplies in New England for their hastily improvised army, and it revealed twelve field pieces, 21,000 firearms, 17,000 pounds of powder, and 22,000 pounds of ball. Obviously a pound of powder per soldier could not last very long and we are not surprised to learn that a few months later Washington had kegs of sand, labeled "powder," rolled into camp in order to delude his soldiers into the apparent security that there was plenty of ammunition. On the morning of Bunker Hill each man of Colonel Stark's brigade, according to a contemporary record, only "received a gill cupful of powder, fifteen balls, and one flint." It was the failure of ammunition, it will be remembered, that compelled the Colonists to retire from that glorious defeat.

By August, 1775, powder was almost gone. Washington wrote that the situation was "terrible" and he had left only thirty-two barrels of powder for his army. The poverty of powder was so evident that General Charles Lee suggested to Franklin that pikes should be manufactured, and Franklin even gravely urged the use of bows and arrows.

Shortly after the Battle of Lexington, when the fathers of the Republic were in despair as to their ability to wage war without money, credit, powder or shot, a mysterious stranger appeared in Philadelphia and requested the Continental Congress to give him an audience. Who he was is still a mystery, but he was undoubtedly a French officer, and came as a representative of the French Government. He told the Committee of Congress which was delegated to meet him that the infant colonies would not be left alone in the struggle, and that France would help them. As a result of this interview the Continental Congress appointed Dr. Franklin, Benjamin Harrison, John Dickinson, John Jay, and Robert Morris a Secret Committee of Correspondence to correspond with France and other European nations and secure this invaluable aid. This committee first sent Silas Deane, and later Franklin, as the representatives of the Colonists to the Court of France. Before the former reached France its Government, actuated partly by motives of self-interest, but largely by the enthusiasm of its people for the cause of the Colonists, had already determined to give generously and without any security the indispensable aid of the Fathers of the Republic. Had they been guided solely by calculations of policy they would have refused to do so, for apart from the fact that the Colonists had assisted in wresting from France its Canadian empire, and that the principles for which the Colonists fought were antagonistic to the French monarchy, there was the grave danger to a nation, that was even then drifting rapidly toward bankruptcy, in antagonizing the first power in the world.

France, however, did not hesitate. Without formally breaking with England, it indirectly gave to the United States 3,000,000 of livres and permitted the arsenals of France to be stripped of cannon, powder and shot for the same purpose. With these, ten cargoes of arms and ammunition, sufficient to equip an army of 25,000 men, were sent to Washington's army, and it is possible and perhaps probable that without these indispensable gifts the cause of the colonists would have suffered the same debacle as attended the Russian operations in Galicia and for the same reason, namely, the inability of men, however brave, without guns, powder, or shot, to resist the attacks of an enemy which has a full equipment of these essentials of war.

Nor did her chivalrous assistance stop with mere gifts of money or loans of credit. France sent to us the bravest of her soldiers, including the knightly Lafayette, and no one recognized more fully than Washington the inestimable debt that he and the American cause owed to the armies of Rochambeau and the fleets of De Grasse.

America has now the opportunity, without any breach of neutrality, to recognize and repay in some small measure this immeasurable debt, and this sentimental aspect of the question should not be forgotten by American investors when they consider what action each will take with respect to the present loan to France and England when it is offered to the public. No one can or should quarrel with those of our people who, sympathizing in the same sincerity of spirit with the cause of the central powers, have subscribed liberally to the German loan, and the opportunity now presents itself to that larger class of Americans, who, like the writer, deeply sympathize with the cause of the Allies, to render them some small measure of assistance.

Had the proposed loan failed, it would, as I have said, been a lasting disgrace to this country. Should the public fail to subscribe for it, it would be even a greater disgrace. In the first instance, the fault would have been that of the financiers who conducted the negotiations, but in the latter instance the fault would be that of the American people themselves.

If only prudential considerations are to guide the investor, it will be recognized that France never defaulted in a public loan but once, and that England's obligations have always been paid.

Americans should remember the one occasion when France's credit as a borrowing nation was temporarily destroyed. It was in the reign of Louis XVI., and while its underlying cause was the extravagance of the French monarchy under Louis XIV. and Louis XV., yet the last straw which broke the back of French credit and precipitated the French Revolution was the generous aid which the French monarchy and the French people gave to our country in its hour of need. But for that aid we might never have become a separate and independent nation. Partly with that aid the crowning triumph of Yorktown was achieved. It is a historical truism that no nation ever owed more to another than the United States owes to France, and this fact should not be forgotten in this hour of our unchallenged security and amazing prosperity.

Thousands of us during the last terrible twelve months have longed to be, within the limits of neutrality, of some service to the cause of the Allies other than by charitable contributions to non-combatants. The golden opportunity is now presented to us. We can show in a more striking way than merely by idle words the depth of our interest.

France and England could, if need be, do without this American loan. In its economic aspect it possibly affects the American producer and exporter more, in a practical sense, than it does the people of England and France. But this balancing of economic advantages seems to me of minor importance as compared with the greater moral question as to whether the American people will inflict upon the cause of the Allies the unquestioned moral injury by permitting this loan to be unsubscribed. We have again and again expressed our sympathy for the Allies, and the practical question now arises, how much do we sympathize? If this loan shall be largely oversubscribed it will be a manifestation of moral sympathy in this country, which will be of great value to those who are fighting the cause of democracy for us, and it follows of necessity that if there should be a niggardly response by the American public to this call, which rests so largely upon moral as well as material considerations, then the cause of the Allies will have sustained an injury for which no pecuniary advances can possibly compensate.

Let every American who remembers what France did for us in our hour of need consider it his personal duty, without respect to the economic advantages of the loan, to subscribe as liberally as possible, and thus by an immense oversubscription show where the sympathies of America truly lie in this great struggle of liberty against absolutism.

IN THE POLISH UNIFORM.

How Austrian Subjects Were Lured to the Teutonic Cause.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Though the organization that accredited Messrs. Hausner and Mlynarski to the Poles in the United States styles itself the Chief National Committee, the author of a letter in defense of Hausner and Mlynarski assumes too much for it when he asserts that it "has clustered around itself the whole of the Polish nation."

The Chief National Committee has not been recognized by Russian Poland, nor has it been recognized even by German Poland. It represents solely Austrian Poland. It may be the only authoritative body in Austrian Poland, therefore; but as Austrian Poland constitutes only one-fifth of the former Polish Republic, the Austro-Polish Chief National Committee cannot be said to represent the whole Polish nation.

The Polish legions that have been formed by this Chief National Committee are hardly fighting Poland's battle, for they are fighting against Russia for Austria and Germany. It is true that they wear a Polish uniform, but the oath they took on going to the field was to the Austrian Emperor. The only Polish thing about these misguided men is that, true to the traditions of the Polish race, as shown on innumerable battlefields in all parts of the globe, they fight with bravery.

Furnishing Polish uniforms to some thousands of Austria's Polish subjects by the Austro-Polish Chief National Committee was simply a trick to lure to the side of the Teutonic allies the Poles of Russian Poland. As these men would have had to fight for Austria, anyhow, no clear-thinking Pole was deceived by either their uniform or the name "Polish legions."

It was the knowledge of the fact that the Polish nation could expect no good from the victory of the Teutons, added to the knowledge of the fact that Teutonic victory would bury Western civilization for a long period, that kept the Poles under Russian and under Prussian rule from supporting the work of the Chief National Committee of Austrian Poland. And it was this which produced the failure of the missionaries to the United States of the Chief National Committee, Hausner and Mlynarski, to obtain the moral or the financial support of the great Polish organizations in this country. And a part of the $2,500,000 in the treasury of one of these organizations, the Polish National Alliance, would have been a handsome morsel for the Austrian war chest. But the Polish National Alliance not only denounced Hausner and Mlynarski in its official organs, but also rid its councils and its membership of the principal advocates of the Chief National Committee policy.

Whatever money the Polish National Alliance and the other leading Polish organizations send to Europe is sent for the victims of the war caused by Teutonic ambition; it will not be sent to promote the victory of the Teutonic cause.

A GAY BALLET ON SKATES

Arthur Deagon,
Nat Wills,
Orville Harrold,
Belle Storey,
Toro,
Dave Abrahams,
Charles T. Aldrich,
The Glorias,
The Amaranths,
Dippy Diers,
The Romanos,
Hale and Paterson,
Leslie Leigh.

Sousa and his band, the Miramba Guatemalan Band, the Boganny troupe of acrobats, Power's elephants, skaters and ski jumpers.

All cleaned and burnished till it was as gay and bright as a new dollar, the Hippodrome threw wide its doors last evening for the first season under its new management. The audience that packed to the doors the largest theatre in the world saw unfolded on the roomy stage a gargantuan spectacle, smarter and more sumptuous than any that stage had ever known.

The entertainment there exhibited is a handsome expression of the wisdom, enterprise and amazing energy of Charles B. Dillingham. He has done his work with his head full of ideas and his pockets full of money. He has gone deep into the possibilities of the Hippodrome and come up smiling. There are riches of experience from Burnside, there are marches from Sousa, and new devices from Berlin. The characteristic music is by Raymond Hubbell, but the characteristic prodigality is by Mr. Dillingham, whom we have to thank for "Hip Hip Hooray." The same to him and many of them.

A very army of entertainers is here at work. They range all the way from a grand opera singer to the smallest of the tots that romped all last season in the gayeties of "Chin-Chin," from a tramp out of vaudeville to a clown out of Germany. Orrville Harrold sings with might and main, to say nothing of a look of mild surprise at thus finding himself a mere vocal interlude between successive scenic splendors.

The magic Dillingham success at the Globe has sent over its contingent. There are not merely the children, bewitchingly headed by that delightful actress, Miss Agnes McCarthy, but there is Belle Storey, whose flute notes would scorn even more difficult acoustics than those of the Hippodrome, and there is Charles T. Aldrich, that marvelous Englishman who can change from a gladiator into a chorus girl with a gesture or so. His instantaneous transformations baffle now as always, and as a crowning trick he cruelly penetrates the Peking Mysteries by producing great urns of water from under a bit of tapestry and then showing how he does it.

But, after all, no individual in sight of the audience really counts at the Hippodrome. What counts is the scenic endeavor, the color, the splendor, and the novelty. Here we have the same old thing done handsomely—spectacle, interspersed with dashes of circus, musical comedy and vaudeville, with the emphasis on the spectacle. This is Director Burnside's business, and when he attended to it he was feeling ingenious.

Most of us think of our bright rejoinders when it is too late to make them, and must solace ourselves alone with what Mr. Wells calls neat but belated repartée. Doubtless soon after Mr. Burnside packed up and moved out of the Hippodrome some seasons ago he began to think of things he wished he had thought of when he was still at work on its mammoth stage. It is now as if he had made idle mental notes of all those ideas and found them suddenly useful on his return.

Quite the handsomest scene as well as the gayest novelty is the ice ballet which winds up the entertainment. During the long Summer, when the sounds of mighty preparations issued from behind the locked doors of the big playhouse in Sixth Avenue, there was circulated a base rumor that the management would have none of the famous tank where once the good ship Pinafore rode at anchor on a miniature Portsmouth tide.

The rumor was baseless. The tank is still there, but now it is ice-bound and its cool surface, with the snows banked high beyond, invites you to St. Moritz. On this pretty rink a skating ballet from Berlin disports itself with lovely grace and striking skill. They are led by one Charlotte, a golden-haired vision in white whose skating is a marvel. It all ends with ski-jumping of the sort that takes your breath away and a final appearance of a lantern chorus on the ice at night.

Then there is Mr. Sousa and his band; Sousa at the Panama Exposition with the Tower of Jewels rising behind him and himself obliged to wave his baton over a limitless sea of chorus girls. It is the pageant of the States, each Commonwealth represented by a group in costumes cleverly designed by Robert McQuinn, and all tripping along to the "March of the States."

This is a new Sousa composition, wherein he takes snatches from a gazetteer of melodies that includes such strains as "Cheyenne," "Louisiana Lou," "Maryland, My Maryland," that listens to Cohan for the musical voice of New York and that winds up with his own "Stars and Stripes Forever." It is all very fine and will make geography temporarily pleasant for every schoolboy in the country.

There might be mention, too, of the elaborate representation of the Cascades at the Biltmore, an excuse for the dancing of which there is a bit too much, and of a rather sleazy trip to Chinatown with an exhibition by the agile Boggany troupe, which winds up with an offensively unpleasant exhibition that will doubtless be dropped before long. There certainly must be mention of the opening scene on the roof-tops downtown, a good view of the Brooklyn Bridge and the river at night, with its novelty of a scrambling dance by myriad cats.

The whole enterprise has been undertaken on a gigantic scale. "Hip-Hip-Hooray" is drawn to scale, and imagination swoons at an estimate of the dressmaker's bill alone. The show was received with acclaim by the big and decidedly impressive audience which attended the première, and which included Mayor Mitchel, who, from his box draped with the flag of the city, smiled down on an entertainment whose almost imperceptible book included one irreverent reference to himself as a possible understudy for Vernon Castle.

REICHER TALKS ON DRAMA.

Unfolds Its Development to the German Society of Art.

Emanuel Reicher, head of The Modern Stage and the People's Theatre, delivered an address on "The Development of the Modern Drama" before the German Society of Art and Sciences at the Hotel Majestic last night. More than 200 persons heard Mr. Reicher's address and applauded his review of the history of the stage through its successive periods of development, classic, romantic, and modern, epecially in reference to Germany.

Mr. Reicher analyzed the significant aspects of the modern drama as developed by M. Antoine in Paris and Max Reinhardt in Germany. He declared the trend of the dramatist today was entirely away from the hackneyed situations and characters which still prevail on the ordinary stage. He said the drama was becoming a greater work of art, with a higher appreciation of effects of atmosphere and with a firmer emphasis on the truth and reality of characters.

Short Movie Farce in Triangle Bill.

A new plan of program arrangement will be introduced at the Knickerbocker Sunday, when the second Triangle bill is given for the first time. A short motion-picture farce will be given at 1:50 in the afternoon and at 7:50 at night, to amuse the early arrivals at the theatre. The second bill will be made up of Hale Hamilton in "Her Painted Hero," Dorothy Gish in "Old Heidelberg," Eddie Foy and his large family in "A Favorite Fool," and Frank Keenan in "The Coward."

MARTHA WASHINGTON'S WILL WAS JUST SAVED

Statement by Miss Thomson, Whose Father Rescued It in the Virginia Court House.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Sept. 30.—The will of Martha Washington now reposes in the safety vault in the private office of Governor Henry C. Stuart of Virginia, having been handed to him by Justice James Keith, President of the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, to whom J. Pierpont Morgan, through Fairfax Harrison, President of the Southern Railway, delivered the will.

Mr. Morgan decided to surrender the will following a friendly exchange of compliments with Governor Stuart and General Eppa Hunton, acting as his legal counsel and intermediary. The history of the Martha Washington will, subsequent to the time it was taken from the old Court House at Fairfax, Va., is told by Mr. Morgan in the following communication to Justice Keith:

"The facts in regard to the history of this paper are as follows, according to the statement of Miss Mary Espy Thomson, from whom it was purchased by my father in the year 1903. Miss Thomson's statement is:

"Lieut. Col. David Thomson, commanding the Eighty-second Regiment, Ohio Vounteer Infantry, was during the Spring or Autumn of 1862 stationed at Fairfax Court House, Va. His headquarters were in the Court House building. The safes had previously to this been broken open by the Blenkers, a command of men noted for reckless vandalism. The papers were on the floor and had been destroyed in large quantities, used to kindle fires. My father, going into the office, found his men shoveling the material from the floor for this use, called them to stop and, looking over them, found the document in question. Just prior to his death in 1892 he gave the document to me, to be done with as I thought proper.

"MARY ESPY THOMSON.
"2655 Irving Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minn."

"The facts in the case have been submitted to eminent counsel, and I am advised that the title of my father's estate to the paper is, on well recognized legal principles, perfect and unassailable. An answer to the suit in the Supreme Court of the United States, brought by the Commonwealth of Virginia, has been prepared and is ready to be filed. Should the case ever come to trial, issues will be raised as to the late war and the status of participants therein, which it seems to be better should not be raised in view of the fifty years of peace and unity which have elapsed since the termination of the war. I do not wish that, through any act of mine, differences long settled should be recalled. Rather than revive the memories of ancient strife, long since consigned to oblivion by the good sense and good feeling and patriotism of the people of the United States, I greatly prefer to waive such personal rights as I believe I have in this matter.

"Moreover, I have the highest regard for the people of Virginia and the pride of all Americans in their splendid traditions and lofty spirit.

"In view of the foregoing, and of your eminent position as Presiding Justice of the Supreme Court of Virginia, and of the confidence and esteem in which you are justly held by that Commonwealth, I hand you herewith the original will of Martha Washington, with a request that it be disposed of by you in such way as will best meet the approval and gratify the sentiment of Governor Stuart and the people of Virginia.

"With great respect, I am, yours sincerely, J. P. MORGAN."

Mr. Morgan suggests the placing of the document in the care of the Mount Vernon Association.

RECEIVER FOR MANHATTAN.

Court Appoints S. B. Preston to Collect Rents—Shuberts Codefendants.

Justice Pendleton in the Supreme Court yesterday appointed Stuart B. Preston receiver of rents for the Manhattan Opera House, which was built by Oscar Hammerstein, and in which he gave opera. The receiver was appointed on the application of the Maximilian Fleischmann Company, holders of a $300,000 first mortgage on the property.

The company sets forth in an affidavit that $300,000 on three mortgages became due Sept. 15, and that no part of it has been paid. The Maple Realty Company, holders of a second mortgage, and the Shubert Theatrical Company, lessees of the property, are made codefendants with the Hammerstein Opera Company. The Maple Realty Company recently filed a suit against the Shubert Company for $15,000 rent, alleged to be due for the last quarter.

Russian Baritone Here from War.

George Baklanoff, the Russian baritone, who was here before with the Boston Opera Company, arrived yesterday on the French liner Espagne to sing in Pavlowa's company under the direction of Max Rabinoff. He said he took part in the war, serving with the 112th Regiment of Kiev, and was injured by the concussion of a big shell in Galicia, which rendered him deaf for a time. He still suffers a little from its effects, he said.

MUSIC NOTES.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink will give her first recital of the season here at Carnegie Hall on the afternoon of Nov. 2. Some other November recital dates are the following: Emilio de Gogorza, baritone, Aeolian Hall, afternoon of Nov. 8; Henriette Bach, violinist, Aeolian Hall, evening of Nov. 8; Mme. Marcella Sembrich, Carnegie Hall, afternoon of Nov. 13; Evan Williams, tenor, Aeolian Hall, afternoon of Nov. 14; Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler, pianist, Carnegie Hall, afternoon of Nov. 16; Herbert Witherspoon, bass, Carnegie Hall, afternoon of Nov. 23, and Mme. Louise Homer, Carnegie Hall, afternoon of Nov. 30.

The Music League of America has arranged for the use of the Princess Theatre this season wherein to hold recitals for artists under its management. New activities of the organization this season will be five lectures by Walter Damrosch, three instruction recitals by Paul Reimers, and four lectures by Georgianna Roberts.

The Kneisel Quartet will give the first concert of its annual subscription series at Aeolian Hall on Tuesday evening, Nov. 9, the remaining dates for the season being Dec. 7, Jan. 11, Feb. 8, March 7, and March 21. The quartet's season opens on Oct. 16, when it will give its annual concert under the direction of the People's Symphony Concerts.

Dr. Karl Muck, conductor of the Boston Symphony Society, will play this year John Alden Carpenter's suite, "Adventures in a Perambulator," which received its first presentation last season by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

The first New York recital this season of Leopold Godowsky, pianist, will be given at Aeolian Hall on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 17.

The Young Men's Symphony Orchestra, under Arnold Volpe, will begin its season of rehearsals on Sunday morning, Oct. 17, at Terrace Garden. Enrollment and examinations will occur at the same place next Sunday morning and the following Sunday.

The Society of the Friends of Music will give the following concerts during the season in the ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton: Sunday, Nov. 14, under direction of Leopold Stojowski, first performance here of Schoenberg's Kamersinfonie; Sunday, Nov. 21, the Barrere Ensemble and Harold Bauer in a classic program; Jan. 17, program of American music under direction of Franz Kneisel. At the February concert Granados, the Spanish composer, will give his first recital of his own works here.

WILL OF DR. FLINT DIVIDES $500,000

NAMESAKE THE CHIEF HEIR

Inducements to Keep Descendants in the Medical Profession—Gifts to Friends.

The will of Dr. Austin Flint, the alienist, disposing of his estate, estimated to be more than $500,000, was filed for probate yesterday. The instrument omits any mention of Mrs. Elizabeth McMaster Flint of 48 West Fifty-ninth Street, widow of the physician, and also fails to make any provision for his daughter, Miss Annie Flint, whose address is given as 60 East Thirty-fourth Street.

In explanation of these omissions Dr. Austin Flint of 51 West Fifty-second Street, son and chief beneficiary under the will, said that nearly all his father's estate had been transferred several years ago to the widow and the daughter.

The residuary estate, according to the will, is to be divided two-fifths each to the sons, Dr. Austin Flint and Sherman Flint, and one-fifth to George Elliot Flint. Upon the death of the beneficiaries, their interests go to their heirs in equal shares.

The son Austin gets, in addition, all family portraits, all silver, including the gifts of the Faculty of Bellevue Medical College; all gifts of the Cornell Medical School, and all books concerning the genealogy of the Flint family. He also receives, among other things, a certain painting in the dining room at 118 East Nineteenth Street, which was painted and signed for the testator by Sir William C. Van Horne. Austin receives also a gold pocket matchbox and all wines and liquors in the residence in Nineteenth Street.

Inducement for Physician.

The instrument further provides that most of the alienist's books on medical subjects go to Austin and the remainder to Sherman. There is another provision that most of these articles go in equal shares to any child that Austin may adopt and who shall receive a physician's certificate and to Austin J. Flint, son of Sherman Flint, if the grandson shall receive a physician's certificate to practice. Sherman also receives additional shares in the library and some personal effects of his father.

Beverly Chew, a friend, receives a chronometer, while another friend, Paul Fuller, receives a bust of Salome, with the pedestal.

The wish is expressed in the will that the grandson, Edwin Dean Flint, shall not have his name changed to Austin Flint without the consent in writing of the boy's uncle.

Picks Burial Place.

The testator says he prefers to be buried beside his father and mother in the family plot at the Forest Hills Cemetery in Boston.

The friends, Chew and Fuller, and the son, Austin, are named as executors and trustees under the will.

William Richard Denham Makes Asylum Fund Residuary Legatee.

William Richard Denham, who for fifty years was Treasurer of the Masonic Board of Relief, bequeaths in his will, filed for probate yesterday, all his residuary estate, the value of which is not given, to the Masonic Hall and Asylum Fund of Utica, N. Y.

There are bequests of $10,000 each to the following nephews and nieces: John D., William C., James R., Robin F., and Mary L. Merrill.

Frederick Heckner, an employe of the testator in the metallic goods business, receives $5,000, while a brother of the decedent, John C. Denham, receives only $300. There are minor bequests to friends and relatives.

WILSON TO PRUNE BUDGETS.

Will Attempt Economies to Offset Shrinkage in Revenue.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—President Wilson today began a study of the departmental estimates with a view to economy. He already has instructed his department chiefs to make the estimates as low as possible, because of the falling revenues. Before they are submitted formally to Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury, on Oct. 15, the President probably will go over them with Mr. McAdoo and in each case with the Cabinet officer concerned, suggesting modifications.

The estimate of the Department of Justice have been laid before the President. Today he discussed them with Mr. Gregory, the Attorney General.

Stewart H. Jones to Marry Again.

Stewart Hill Jones, the President of the Canadian Bronze Works, and Miss Sallie Cobb Johnson are to be married on Wednesday next in Atlanta, Ga., where Miss Johnson lives. She is a sister of Ashley Johnson of New York.

Mr. Jones sued his first wife, who was Miss Eleanor Thompson, a daughter of John D. Thompson of Buffalo, for a divorce, which was granted him in 1912. He had married her in 1897. He and his son, Stewart O. H. Jones, live in Alwyn Court, Fifty-eighth Street and Seventh Avenue, and his offices are at 2 Rector Street. The wedding will be a quiet one and none except relatives and a few intimate friends have been invited.

Burnap-Bottomley Wedding Plans.

Plans have been completed for the wedding of Miss Anna T. Bottomley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bottomley, and Clement Foster Burnap, which is to take place on Thursday, Oct. 7, in St. Andrew's Dune Church, Southampton, L. I.

Miss Susanne M. Bottomley is to be her sister's maid of honor, and Robert L. Burnap, elder brother of the bridegroom, will be best man. The ushers selected include Graham Youngs, Frederick B. Wright, George W. Hubbell, Jr., and Benjamin S. Young.

Subscription Dances at Sherry's.

Arrangements have been completed for the series of subscription dances to be given at Sherry's on Wednesday evenings, beginning Nov. 10, under the direction of Mrs. Lindsley Tappin and Mrs. G. Knight B. Wade. The patronesses include Mrs. Donn Barber, Mrs. Adams Batcheller, Mrs. Frederick Carey, Mrs. Noel Carpender, Mrs. Frederick Edey, Mrs. Ralph Johnson, Mrs. John Prentice Kellogg, Mrs. James Parrish Lee, Mrs. Harry W. McVickar, Mrs. Huntington Norton, Mrs. Richard Peabody, Mrs. Reeve Schley, Mrs. S. Oakley Van der Poel, Mrs. Waldron Williams, Mrs. Tappin, and Mrs. Wade. The dances will continue until Easter.

BALTIMORE BANKER WEDS HIS SECRETARY

Samuel Rosenthal, a merchant and banker of Baltimore, and Miss Gertrude Leimbach, who for fourteen years was his secretary, were married last night in this city by the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman, rabbi of the Temple Emanu-El, at his residence, 45 East Seventy-fifth Street.

According to advices from the Oriole City Mr. Rosenthal is about threescore and his bride is half his age. Both are well known socially in Baltimore.

Mr. Rosenthal is a member of the firm of Strouse & Bros., wholesale clothing dealers of Baltimore, and is also a Director of the Drovers and Mechanics' National Bank. He has been President of the Phoenix and Suburban Clubs. Mr. Rosenthal has two grown sons, Stanley and Calvert Rosenthal. His bride is a capable business woman, for she conducted a woman's apparel store in Baltimore and acted also as secretary and notary public for Mr. Rosenthal.

The wedding was arranged in this city because the contracting parties were well acquainted with the Rev. Dr. Silverman and also because they did not wish to have an elaborate function in their own city.

After the ceremony a dinner, at which a few relatives and friends were present, was given at the Hotel Biltmore.

MISS SCOFIELD A BRIDE.

Weds L. D. Bonnet in St. James's Church—A Trip Around World.

Miss Grace Scofield of Tuxedo Park and Leon D. Bonnet of New York and Philadelphia were married yesterday afternoon in St. James's Church, Seventy-first Street and Madison Avenue, the Rev. Dr. Frederick Courtney officiating. It was a quiet wedding, and after the ceremony the couple received their relatives and a few intimate friends at the Lorraine, 2 West Forty-fifth Street, where the bride has an apartment.

The young niece of the bride, Helen S. Stone, and her nephew were her only attendants. Gordon Russell Thayer, her brother-in-law, was best man.

The couple plan to make a trip around the world. The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ebenezer Scofield, and is prominent socially at Tuxedo, where she owns a fine estate.

GEO. S. VIERECK MARRIES.

Editor of The Fatherland Weds Miss Edith Hein at the Plaza.

George Sylvester Viereck, editor of The Fatherland, and Miss Edith Hein, daughter of Max R. Hein of 202 Riverside Drive, were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the State Room at the Hotel Plaza. The Rev. Dr. Merle St. Croix Wright officiated.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, trimmed with Valenciennes lace, and a veil of net and lace, which fell almost to the end of her court train. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and myrtle.

Mrs. Philip Lewisohn was the matron of honor, and the Misses Amelia Desvernine and Rhoda Machol were the bridesmaids. Young Robert Hein acted as page, and little Anna Hein was the flower girl.

Alfred Rau was best man for Mr. Viereck, and the ushers were Ford E. Tarpley and Henry E. Hein.

A reception followed the ceremony and was largely attended. The punch served was made of wine as old as the bride, who is 19. Mr. Viereck is 31 years old.

After a honeymoon trip in the South the couple will reside at 230 Riverside Drive.

WEDS FORMER SHOW GIRL.

Wm. Stackpole, New York Broker, Marries Miss Williams.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 30.—Announcement was made today of the marriage last Friday in Trinity Church of Miss Florence Helen Williams, who sang for four years as a chorus girl and played small parts with Montgomery and Stone, to William Stackpole, member of the New York Stock Exchange and well known in society.

Mr. Stackpole, who was graduated from Harvard in 1898, makes his headquarters with Hayden, Stone & Co. of 25 Broad Street, New York. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stackpole of Cambridge, Boston and Nahant, and a member of several Boston and New York clubs. Mr. Stackpole has been a member of the New York Stock Exchange since 1908. He lives at 22 East Fifty-fifth Street. The romance dates from the time several years ago when Miss Williams was singing in "The Lady of the Slipper."

REDINGTON-MILLER WEDDING.

Attendants for the Ceremony in Baltimore on Oct. 26.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Allison Janney Miller, daughter of S. Bevan Miller of Baltimore, Md., to George O. Redington of this city, which will be celebrated on Tuesday, Oct. 26, at 1 o'clock in the chapel of the Emanuel Protestant Episcopal Church, Baltimore. The Rev. Dr. Hugh Birckhead, rector of the church, will officiate.

Miss Miller will have as her only attendant her sister, Mrs. Henry Fairfax Ayres of this city, who will act as matron of honor. Edward J. Redington will be his brother's best man, and the ushers chosen are George W. Carpenter, Hunter S. Marston, Albert W. Putnam, William R. Maloney, and John Harper Mallory, all of this city, and Howard K. Brown of Syracuse, N. Y.

After the ceremony a small reception will be held at The Stafford. The engagement of the couple was announced last April.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Francis B. Thorne, who is to marry Miss Evelyn Brown, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, next Wednesday afternoon in St. Thomas's Church, will give his farewell bachelor dinner tomorrow night at the Yale Club.

Mrs. French Vanderbilt came from Tuxedo Park yesterday, and is at the Ritz-Carlton for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Chapman of 555 Park Avenue will remain at The Maples, Greenwich, Conn., through October.

Dr. and Mrs. Walter Lester Carr have returned from Provincetown, Mass., to their home, 68 West Fifty-first Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick O. Bezner have returned from Europe after two years' absence abroad, and are at the Hotel Gotham for the Winter.

The wedding of Miss Marion Hazel Vermilye, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hoagland Vermilye, and Walter Bryant Harvey, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, at Holy Trinity Church.

Miss Freda Frost, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frost, and Stephen Payne Nash Rhoades, a son of Mrs. Lyman Rhoades, were married on Thursday at Summit, N. J. Their engagement was announced on July 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus Town Kirby, who are at their Summer home at Bedford Hills, will be at 7 East Ninth Street this Winter and will occupy their town house on Oct. 12. They formerly resided at 43 Fifth Avenue.

WILLIAM WATSON, SCIENTIST, IS DEAD

Secretary of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences for 31 Years.

ONCE HARVARD INSTRUCTOR

Noted Authority on Technical Education Was a Member of Many Learned Societies.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—William Watson, Secretary of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences since 1884 and a noted authority on technical education, died today at his home, 107 Marlborough Street, in his 82d year.

He was born in Nantucket, Mass., and entered Harvard University at an early age. Mr. Watson received the degree of S. B. from the Engineering Department, and also won the Boyden prize in mathematics. He then became a member of the Harvard Faculty as instructor in mathematics, and in 1858 became instructor in differential and integral calculus at the Scientific School, where he remained until 1859.

Mr. Watson then went abroad to study, and in 1862 received the degree of Ph. D., from the University of Jena. After this he took a partial course at the Ecole Nationale des Ponts et Chasseurs, and then rejoined the Harvard Faculty. From 1865 to 1873 he was Professor of Mechanical Engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, after which he devoted his time to special work.

In 1873 he was United States Commissioner to the Vienna Exposition; five years later he was a member of the International Jury at the Paris Exposition, and Honorary President of the Paris Congress of Architects. In addition to this, he was Vice President of the International Congress of Hygiene in the same year. Mr. Watson was Honorary President of the engineering section of the French Association for the Advancement of Science in 1878, 1881-3-9, and in 1889 was also Vice President of the International Congress of Construction. In 1893 he was Secretary of the World's Columbian Water Commerce Congress.

Mr. Watson was a member of the French National Academy, the Cherbourg French Society of Civil Engineers, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and many others. He was a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Among the other organizations to which he belonged were the Colonial Society of Massachusetts and the St. Botolph, Athletic, Round Table, Mathematical, and Physical Clubs of Boston. He was the author of many mathematical text-books.

Mr. Watson married Miss Margaret Fiske of Boston in 1873.

LOWELL M. PALMER DEAD.

Prominent Brooklyn Business Man and Philanthropist Was 70.

Lowell M. Palmer, a prominent Brooklyn business man, philanthropist, and art connoisseur, died from heart disease yesterday morning at his Summer home at Stamford, Conn. Mr. Palmer was in his seventy-first year, and lived at 206 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn. He was born in Chester, Ohio, and when the civil war began he enlisted and served throughout the struggle. He then came to New York and began a career that made him a notable figure in the business life of the city, especially of Brooklyn.

Mr. Palmer was the founder and for many years President of the Palmer Dock Company, in the Eastern District, and he also organized and was President of the Brooklyn Cooperage Company. This company made the barrels used by the American Sugar Refining Company, of which Mr. Palmer was also a Director. He was one of the founders of the Brooklyn Academy of Music and for a number of years was a Director of that institution.

Mr. Palmer was President of the firm of E. R. Squibb & Sons of Manhattan, Vice President of the Palmer Lime and Cement Company, and was interested in the following institutions, either as a Director or Trustee: Franklin Trust Company of Brooklyn, the Manhattan Life Insurance Company of Manhattan, the United States Lloyds ship insurance concern, the Market and Fulton National Bank in Manhattan, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, Colonial Safe Deposit Company, Colonial Trust Company, New Jersey and New York Zinc Company, and the Union Ferry Company.

He was a Trustee of the First Presbyterian Church, in Henry Street, and a member of the Society of Colonial Wars, the Ohio Society of New York, and of the Loyal Legion. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Grace Humphrey Foote; two sons, Lowell M., Jr., and Carleton H., and four daughters, Mrs. Florence E. Weicker, Mrs. Grace M. Johnston, Mrs. Lillian C. McIlvain, and Miss Ethel J. Palmer.

ABRAHAM VAN WINKLE DIES.

Chemical Manufacturer Owned an Island Like Robinson Crusoe's.

Abraham Van Winkle, President of the Hanson & Van Winkle Company, manufacturers of chemicals, of Newark, N. J., died yesterday at his home, 35 Lincoln Park. He was 77 years old and was stricken on Sunday with apoplexy.

Mr. Van Winkle for many years was the leader in the electro-plating industry. He was a descendant of an old Holland family. His wife, Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, is one of the most prominent suffragists in New Jersey, being President of the Women's Political Union

Mr. Van Winkle was the owner of an island three miles long in the Bahama group, where he spent the Winters for the last twenty years. Fascinated in his boyhood by the story of Robinson Crusoe, Mr. Van Winkle resolved he would own an island as nearly like the one of the Defoe tale as possible. The island is called Salt Cay and over the door of Mr. Van Winkle's island bungalow is the stanza of Cowper's poem beginning, "I am monarch of all I survey." Mr. Van Winkle was born in Pompton, N. J., Oct. 7, 1838.

Robert N. Wood.

Robert N. Wood of 202 East Ninety-ninth Street, a member of the Democratic State Committee, a lifelong member of Tammany Hall, and for many years active in politics here, died yesterday morning at St. Vincent's Hospital, in his fifty-second year. Mr. Wood was for fourteen years an inspector of the Bureau of Highways. He organized the first negro regiment of the National Guard in this State.

ROCKEFELLER FUND GROWS.

Foundation Expenditures Less Than Half of the Income.

That part of the annual report of the Rockefeller Foundation dealing with its finances and made public yesterday shows that $2,571,902.81 was expended between May 29, 1913, fifteen days after the charter of the foundation, and last Jan. 1. It shows also, however, that these expenditures have amounted to approximately less than half of the income earned by the foundation in the same period. Despite its expenditures, therefore, the foundation was approximately $3,000,000 richer on last Jan. 1 than on March 6, 1914, when the last of John D. Rockefeller's endowments brought the foundation to the $100,000,000 mark.

The first of these endowments, amounting to $3,200,000, came into possession of the foundation on May 29, 1913, having previously been held as a trust fund by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Starr J. Murphy, Edward L. Ballard, and Jerome D. Greene. The approximate interest on this sum to Jan. 1 last at 5 per cent. would be $253,331.

On June 4, 1913, Mr. Rockefeller gave the foundation $21,052,028.54 in securities and accrued income. On this the approximate income would be $1,700,351. On the following June Mr. Rockefeller added $10,178,402 in securities and accrued income, and on this the approximate income would be $763,380. Mr. Rockefeller's last gift, on March 6, 1914, was $65,569,569.46. And on this the approximate income would be $2,732,064, or, in all, approximately $5,449,126; roughly $3,000,000 more than expenditures.

The direct expenditures made by the foundation comprised $142,467 to the International Health Commission, $5,292 for the investigation of industrial conditions; $39,269 for the China Medical Commission and Board; $224,886 for the Louisiana Bird Refuge purchase, $10,000 for research in government problems, and $994,513 for war relief.

Appropriations totaling $282,519 were made to assist various societies to continue or increase work in various branches, and requisitions by Mr. Rockefeller caused the expenditure of $858,940.

YALE OPEN FOR 215TH YEAR.

Gifts and Bequests to University in Last Year Totaled $965,791.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 30.—Yale opened today for the two hundred and fifteenth academic year. While no figures could be obtained of the student registration from the university authorities, it is believed that the entering classes in both the college and the Sheffield Scientific School will be larger than those of last year.

Gifts and bequests to the university during the fiscal year ending June 30 amounted to $965,791.51, according to the annual report of the Treasurer, which was made public today. The total funds of the university are $16,152,835.40, which represents an increase of 119 per cent. in the last ten years.

AWAIT WORD OF MACMILLAN.

Explorer's Friends Expect Relief Expedition to Report Soon.

FREEPORT, Me., Sept. 30. — Word concerning the return of the relief expedition which left New York in July for Greenland to search for Professor Donald B. MacMillan of Freeport, who went north two years ago to find and chart Crocker Land, is expected here as soon as the party can establish communication through a wireless station on the Labrador or Newfoundland coast. Unless it was necessary to prolong the search for another month, it was said here today that the auxiliary schooner John B. Cluett, carrying the relief party, might send a report of her voyage homeward almost any day.

MRS. FRANK LAUDS HUSBAND

Denies She Did Not Stand By Him When He Was Arrested.

Special to The New York Times.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Leo M. Frank, from her Atlanta home, writes to the editor of The Augusta Chronicle, denying the charges of Thomas E. Watson in his publications that she did not go to her husband as soon as she knew he was arrested on suspicion of murdering Mary Phagan. Watson has stated that Mrs. Frank did not go near her husband for some time and then only at the urgent solicitation, almost compulsion, of relatives and of Frank's attorneys.

She expresses her appreciation of a statement appearing in The Chronicle that her husband's manner toward her was a manly one. "He was a gentleman, kind, thoughtful, and considerate, clean in person, mind, and heart," she says.

REV. R. R. WILLIAMS DEAD.

The Rev. Richard R. Williams, editor of The Iron Age for nearly thirty years and widely known in the steel and iron trade, died yesterday at his home, 252 Ridgewood Avenue, Glen Ridge, N. J., in his seventy-third year.

He was born in Waterford, Ireland, and came to this country with his parents in 1851. In 1863 he came to this city with the other members of his family, when his father decided to locate here the offices of The Iron Age, which he had founded years before. Dr. Williams was in business for a time. Later he entered the Union Theological Seminary and was ordained a minister in 1870, becoming pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church of Canajoharie, N. Y., where he remained for fourteen years. In 1883 he gave up the ministry and came here to join the staff of The Iron Age.

Dr. Williams was one of the organizers of the Hardware Club and was twice its President. He was also a member of the Irish Texts Society and a former Vice President of the Brooklyn Chess Club. His wife, a daughter, and two sons survive him.

Capt. Tse of Chinese Navy Dies.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 30.—Officials of the New London Ship and Engine Company received word today of the death at Washington, D. C., last night of Captain Tse of the Chinese Navy, one of the group of Chinese naval officers studying submarine construction at the submarine plant in Groton. Captain Tse was taken ill here two weeks ago, and a week ago removed from the Lawrence Hospital to a Washington hospital so he might receive the care of members of the Chinese Embassy.

Captain Tse, up to the time of the outbreak of the European war, was classed as a foreign naval attaché of the British Navy.

SHOOTS GEM CLERK; MISSES RICH JEWELS

POLICEMAN FIRES IN CROWD

Robber, Thinking Himself Hit by Bullet, Drops His Pistol and Surrenders.

Out of the hurrying crowd in Twenty-third Street at 11:30 yesterday morning stepped a small, white-faced man and entered the jewelry store of Robert W. Hurd, at 125, just west of Sixth Avenue. Many were pausing in front of the store to look in at the jewelry displayed in the window, which included a heart-shaped diamond brooch marked $850, a pearl necklace marked $800, a gold mesh bag set with diamonds and rubies marked $650, and several other articles priced at more than $500.

"I want to have a seed pearl set in this ring," the man who entered the store said to Edward A. Krauss, the clerk on duty. Krauss took the ring and told him to come back in two days.

"While I'm here I want you to regulate this watch for me," the man said, all the while looking nervously into the street, only ten feet away. The clerk set the watch and handed it back to the stranger, who paid for the regulating, but still lingered.

"Say, let me see those opera glasses," the customer said. Krauss bent to get them, and as he straightened up the man hit him over the heat with a piece of lead pipe. Krauss fell, but was up again in a moment pointing an empty revolver at his assailant. The stranger then drew a revolver and shot the clerk.

Persons outside heard the report and saw the man run from the shop, west to Seventh Avenue, and turn downtown. At Twenty-second Street Patrolman Frederick Dietrich called to him to halt. The fugitive turned his revolver toward the policeman and called that he would kill him if he gave chase.

Half a block down from Twenty-second Street Patrolman Dietrich fired into the air, but the man only ran faster. Then he fired at the fugitive, who dropped his revolver and cried out, "I'm shot."

He was taken to the West Twentieth Street Station, where he said he was Joseph Riley, 26, a salesman, of 353 West Fiftieth Street. Later, however, when Detective Daley confronted him, he admitted that he was Edward Hill, well known as a burglar.

Inspector Faurot, Assistant District Attorneys Deacon, Murphy, and T. N. Pfeiffer went to the West Twentieth Street Station and questioned him. He admitted to them that he had served terms for burglary in Elmira and Dannemora, from which he was released about fifteen months ago.

Hill said that for several months he had been trying to make an honest living selling fountain pens, but that the attraction of the old life was too great. He had seen the jewelry in the Hurd window and decided to go after it.

Krauss was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where it was said last night that he was not seriously wounded. The shot took effect in his right side.

TAKE UP PROBLEMS OF RAILROAD VALUES

Commerce Board Hears Argument to Fix Fundamental Principles to be Followed.

WILL COVER MANY POINTS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today began an important hearing on the regulations in regard to the valuation by the Government of the physical properties of the railroads of the country. The hearing is held in response to the request of the conference committee of the railroad Presidents of the United States, and is designed to afford opportunity for discussing the fundamental principles to govern the determination of the value of railroad properties.

The Government was represented before the Commission today by ex-Commissioner Prouty, now Director of the Valuation Service, and the Railroad Commissioners of various States participated in the discussion from time to time. The chief arguments today were made by George Stuart Patterson, General Counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad, representing the Eastern group of roads; Pierce Butler, representing the Western group, and ex-Representative W. G. Brantley of Georgia, representing the Southern group. A brief was filed by the Conference Committee of Railroad Presidents. The argument will continue for several days and has been arranged to cover the following points:

The reasons for the enactment of the Valuation act of March 1, 1913; cost of reproduction new; the determination of unit prices; appreciation and depreciation; land; the meaning of the phrase "owned or used for the purposes of a common carrier"; the valuation of all property, the cost of which was charged to expenses or surplus; the other values and elements of value, and the form of the valuation reports.

Commissioner McChord, the Chairman, announced that the Commission welcomed the discussion as an aid to the ultimate determination of various questions of method that might arise, but that no formal set of regulations would be attempted by the Commission as a result of the hearing. It was the purpose, he said, to decide all questions of method from time to time as the various questions might be presented and demand a determination.

In behalf of the State Railroad Commissioners, it was announced that the association embracing the commissions of all the States would hold its annual convention in the coming month at San Francisco. It is planned to authorize and prepare at the convention a brief on the questions presented by the Commission of Railroad Presidents, which will be filed with the Commission at the proper time.

The magnitude of the task of valuing the railroads of the country was set forth in the brief filed by the Conference Committee, which showed that of the 250,000 miles of lines in the United States, or 376,000 miles when sidings, yards and double tracks are included, the Committee of Presidents represents 214,704 miles of roads, approximately 86 per cent. of the total. The capital securities of these companies outstanding in the hands of the public on June 30, 1913, approximated $15,330,000,000, divided into about 60 per cent. of bonds or other forms of indebtedness and 40 per cent. of stock, the latter owned by more than 620,000 stockholders. More than 10 per cent. of these securities, it was said, were held by insurance companies and savings banks.

In the year ending June 30, 1914, the operating revenues of the railroads exceeded $3,125,000,000; their expenses of operation exceeded $2,000,000,000, and their net operating income exceeded $800,000,000. The number of employes for the year ending June 30, 1913, was 1,815,239, and their compensation aggregated $1,373,000,000. The carriers represented at the hearing paid in taxes for the same period more than $120,000,000.

Mr. Patterson in his argument urged co-operation between the roads and the Government in a task of such huge proportions. He asked the Commission to avail itself of the records of the carriers in the ascertainment of values. Many of the roads had set in progress valuation systems of their own in order to arrive at results in co-operation with the Government, he said, and this data should afford valuable assistance.

Any method of valuation, he added, must depend sooner or later on the interpretation of fundamental and substantive principles of law as laid down in the Valuation act of 1913. It was realized, he said, that the time was approaching when the commission should enunciate some, at least, of the principles necessary for the guidance of the field parties of the Government in ascertaining basic elements of value.

"The cost of reproduction new"—to use the language of the act—the appraisement of laid, the estimate of depreciation, and similar items involved in the undertaking, Mr. Patterson argued, should, as soon as possible, be made clear.

Mr. Butler set forth the necessity of taking into account non-existent elements of value, such as the organization, promotion and exploitation cost attendant on building a railroad.

Mr. Brantley discussed at length the problems of depreciation, and for the first time brought before the Commission actual figures ascertained in railroad valuation. He cited the Texas Midland Road, which was the first, and, thus far the only, carrier, he said, to complete a valuation on its own account of its physical properties. He said that the average depreciation of this whole property was 28 per cent. That is, he explained, there had been a depreciation from 100 per cent., as a standard, to 72 per cent.

In the matter of bridges, he said, the depreciation had gone from 100 per cent. to 85; in ties, from 100 to 57; in rails, from 100 to 68; in locomotives, from 100 to 50, in freight cars, from 100 to 55. In the case of another road, the name of which he did not give, the depreciation had been down to 83 per cent. of first cost.

Mr. Brantley said that much confusion existed in regard to deterioration and depreciation, and that repairs and maintenance should keep a property up to a fair operating value, not subject to writing off for depreciation.

Judge Prouty challenged this principle and presented illustrations to show the peculiar problems that confront the commission in trying to carry out the law.

RESERVE BANK ELECTION.

Group 3 Banks to Choose Two New Directors Next Month.

Pierre Jay, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank, notified the member banks yesterday that an election would be held on Nov. 16 to choose successors to two Directors whose terms expire at the end of the year. These are Franklin D. Locke of Buffalo and Leslie R. Palmer of Croton-on-Hudson. Mr. Locke is a Class A or banking director, and Mr. Palmer a Class B or business director. Both represent the banks in Group 3, composed of the smaller institutions, so only banks in this group are eligible to vote for their successors, who will serve full terms of three years.

Each bank in the group may nominate one candidate for each of the two places and is to choose an elector to cast its vote in the election. They have until Oct. 29 to do so, and on Nov. 1 a list of all nominees will be sent out by Mr. Jay. On Nov. 15 ballots will be sent to electors and they will have fifteen days within which to cast their votes by mail. The result will be declared about Dec. 1.

WHEAT GOES UP TO $1.15¼.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—An advance of 11⅝ cents was made in September wheat, mostly in the last fifteen minutes of trading, on the Board of Trade today. The price was carried to $1.15¼ at the close, the highest since the first week in June.

It was a case of belated shorts, among whom were local traders, foreigners, New Yorkers, and the Northwest, overstaying their market, and of light offers. Had it not been for the sales of 400,000 bushels by Norris & Co., an export house which was long, and large sales by the Armour Grain Company, it was said, prices might have been forced materially higher by the frantic shorts, who in an effort to cover their trades bid prices up 1 cent at a time from $1.07½ to $1.15¼. Corn advanced 3¼ cents.

There were more than 2,000,000 bushels of wheat bought in the last hour today. The gossip on the Exchange was that W. B. Lanyon, the St. Louis trader, had made some handsome profits in the day's trading.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

Covering by shorts sent the September position in the Chicago wheat market up 11⅝c during yesterday's operations, and that month closed firm at the top. Other positions were more or less irregular throughout the day, and final quotations were net unchanged to ⅝c higher. In the local cash market No. 2 red and No. 2 hard Winter wheat were quoted at $1.22½ c. i. f. New York; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.03¼, and No. 1 Northern Manitoba, 97c c. i. f. Buffalo.

CORN.

September shorts were active buyers in the corn market, and the September position closed firm at an advance of 3¼c, while later months were ¼c to ⅝c higher. Exporters are showing a little interest in the new crop, and sales were reported of 300,000 bushels for forward shipment. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at 76¾c, prompt shipment.

OATS.

Price changes in the oats market were comparatively narrow, but the undertone was steady in sympathy with wheat and corn, and final prices were ⅛c to ⅜c net higher. The local cash market was quiet; No. 3 white quoted at 39½c to 40½c; No. 4 white, 38c to 39c; ordinary to fancy clipped, 40c to 42c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market in the West was moderately active and irregular, but the tendency was downward, and at the close of the day values were weak. Local hog slaughterers were very much at sea over the local situation, as the State of Pennsylvania has declared an embargo against all shipments of live stock through that State on account of the existence of foot and mouth disease in a number of counties in Illinois. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 16,000; estimate for Friday, 11,000; Kansas City received 6,000, and Omaha 6,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Trading in the market for cottonseed oil was active, total sales amounting to 45,800 barrels, but orders were apparently evenly distributed, and price changes were not particularly wide. BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 6,122 packages. Stock is arriving very irregularly, and a good deal of the butter due here early in the week is still back. The receipts are being absorbed quite promptly and the market has a fairly good tone, with no quotable change. Creamery, extras, (92 score,) 27½c; higher scoring, 28@28½c; firsts, 25@27c; seconds, 23@24½c; thirds, 22@22½c; State dairy, finest, 26½@27c; good to prime, 24½@26c; common to fair, 21@24c; renovated, extras, 24@24½c; firsts, 23@23½c; lower grades, 21@22½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 22½@23c; ladles, current make, firsts, 22c; seconds, 21c; lower grades, 19@20c; packing stock, June make, fine, 20½@21c; current make, fine, 20½c; No. 2, 20c; lower grade, 17@19½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 13,909 cases. Market generally unchanged. High grades of new-laid quality continue very scarce. Any lots showing a good to large proportion of such sell promptly at firm prices. The lower qualities of fresh gathered continue dull, in competition with storage eggs, and values show an extremely wide range. Storage eggs firm, with a fair movement; further lots are going for export this week. Near-by white eggs in small supply, and there is a very small proportion of fancy new-laid qualities, for which the demand is rather more than equal to the supply. Undergrades irregular. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 32@33c; extra firsts, 30@31½c; firsts, 26½@28½c; seconds, 23½@25½c; thirds and poorer, 20@23c; dirties, No. 1, 21½@22½c; No. 2 and poorer, 18@21c; checks, good to choice, dry, 20@21c; culls and inferior, 15@19c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, 25½@26c; firsts, 24½@25c; seconds, 22½@24c; thirds or poorer, 19@22c; State, Pennsylvania, and near by, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 44@46c; ordinary to good, 35@43c; gathered whites, as to size and quality, 33@43c; Western, gathered whites, 30@36c; State, Pennsylvania, and near by, hennery browns, 34@36c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 27@33c.

ROCKEFELLER PLAN TO BANISH STRIKES

DENVER, Sept. 30.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has settled upon an industrial plan which he believes will make strikes unnecessary and impossible.

This industrial scheme is new, and Mr. Rockefeller and his associates have great hopes for its success. Some of the details are still to be worked out, but in general the plan has been determined on. The plan will be submitted to employes and officers of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company at a meeting to be held at Pueblo on Saturday. The grievance men of the various camps will represent the employes.

Mr. Rockefeller tonight declined to make known any of the details of his industrial scheme. He, however, denied that it was an attack upon union labor. In answer to questions he said:

"At the outset of the strike in 1913 the company took the position that every man was entitled to work on his own terms and conditions; that he should be free to join a union or not. That position, when stated by me before the Congressional Strike Investigation Committee in 1914, was misconstrued in some quarters as a statement that we were fighting organized labor.

"What my statement meant and what the position of the company's officers meant was that we did not think those of our employes who did not care to join a union should be forced to do so, as would have been the case if we had signed the contract tendered by the United Mine Workers of America. This is the position which I always have maintained."

"Do you mean that you will never in the future be willing to grant recognition to the United Mine Workers?" Mr. Rockefeller was asked.

"I never have said that I will not recognize the union in the future," was the reply. "If the time ever should come when that course should seem to be the best for the common good of employers and employes, the door is not locked against its adoption."

"Unionism," continued Mr. Rockefeller, "benefits only one class of workmen—those who belong to the union. Our plan takes in all men, irrespective of whether they join a union or not. Unionism benefits one group, not all the workingmen. Our thought has been to devise something absolutely democratic—something that will take in all workmen whether they belong to the union or not."

It is believed here that in a large measure the new plan will be an outgrowth of the system now being tried in Southern Colorado. It is understood that under the modified and enlarged arrangement every question that has to do with wages, hours of work, living conditions, and the employe's welfare will be settled by discussion among the men directly interested. A constitution and by-laws for an organization yet to be named are being drafted. The employes of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company will hold meetings at regular intervals and will elect by ballot two of their number who will constitute a grievance committee empowered to deal with any official of the company. No official or salaried representative of the company will be permitted to attend or participate in these meetings.

Thus far the plan would be patterned exactly after the plan now in effect. Under the present plan, failure to adjust any grievance results in an appeal to the General Manager of the company. If the matter is not satisfactorily adjusted, the case goes to the Mediator.

David Griffiths is the present Mediator. He worked for years as a miner, and finally became Superintendent of a mine. He has also been a State Inspector of Coal Mines.

Mr. Griffiths, under the present arrangement, considers the grievances of the men when the General Manager cannot adjust them, and he then carries the case himself to the President of the company if he is unable to arrange a satisfactory settlement. If Mr. Griffiths cannot get what he wants from President Welborn, he writes to Mr. Rockefeller in New York.

It is asserted by company officials that thus far this plan has worked to perfection, and that every grievance has been adjusted quickly. It is the success of the present plan which leads to the belief that it will be the foundation of the perfected scheme to be announced by Mr. Rockefeller on Saturday.

HELD UP GLUCOSE DIVIDENDS

Corn Products Secretary Tells of Former Trade War.

Frederick T. Fisher, Secretary and Treasurer of the Corn Products Refining Company, continued his testimony yesterday in the suit the Government has brought against the concern to determine if it is a monopoly. He explained the affairs of the subsidiary companies just before they were taken over by the defendant company. Regarding the New York Glucose Company, one of the subsidiary companies, the witness admitted there had been a trade war between this concern and the Corn Products Company, which held 49 per cent. of its stock. The New York Glucose Company issued a dividend of 11 per cent. in 1904, before the trade war began, and paid no more until it had been entirely taken over by the Corn Products Refining Company. Then, in 1906 and 1907, it issued a dividend amounting to 120 per cent.

"Were the dividends held up because of the trade war?" asked Van Sinderen Lindsley of counsel to the Government.

"Why," he replied, "it wasn't thought good business to aid a competitor, and besides, the New York Glucose Company needed a working capital of more than $1,000,000."

The witness said that 51 per cent. of the stock of the concern was held by the General Trading Company, a holding company.

"That company was made up of William G. Rockefeller, E. T. Bedford, Charles M. Pratt, and other Standard Oil people, was it not?" asked Mr. Lindsley.

"There were some in it not connected with the Standard Oil Company," replied the witness.

Frank Halpen, member of the wholesale grocery firm of Halpen, Green & Co. of Philadelphia, testified that he could always buy glucose five points cheaper than the Corn Products Refining Company sells it. The hearing will be continued today.

TO FIT SHIPS TO BURN OIL.

Finland and Kroonland to Have New Refrigerating Apparatus, Too.

Judge Charles M. Hough in the Federal District Court yesterday made an order authorizing P. A. S. Franklin, receiver for the International Mercantile Marine Company, of 9 Broadway, to convert the two American steamers, Finland and Kroonland, into oil burners, at a cost of about $47,000 each. The vessels are in the New York-San Francisco trade via the Panama Canal, and the change is expected to save wages and fuel.

The receiver will also spend $12,000 on each steamer for refrigerating machines to fit them for tropical trade. Mr. Franklin said the ships would save $9,000 in fuel and $3,500 in wages and board of firemen on each voyage. The saving in bunker space and firemen's quarters will enable the ships to carry 1,500 additional tons of cargo at a profit of $25,000 per voyage.

Wool Sales to Close Today.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The offerings at the wool auction sales today amounted to 7,700 bales. It was a moderate selection, and the demand was quiet at unchanged prices. The tone was perhaps a shade steadier. The auctions will close tomorrow.

Demand Fair for Sheepskins.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A sale of sheepskins was held here today. There were 6,200 bales offered, and the demand was fair. Full woolen merinos ranged from unchanged to ¼d dearer, while crossbreds and short and shorn skins declined ¼d.

Duty Allowance to be Made.

With a view to liberalizing Custom House practice, Assistant Secretary Peters of the Treasury Department has issued an order directing that when merchandise, not perishable, is found by the appraising officers to be entirely without commercial value by reason of damage and is so reported by the collector, an allowance in duties on such merchandise should be made in the liquidation of the entry.

A Full-Dress Collar.

A new wing collar to be worn with full dress has just been brought out by a leading house. The wing is cut square with the line of the tie, but is small. The collar comes together at the top very closely. The button tab has been made narrower than usual, with the result that the tie can be made to set more snugly and with better effect. Buyers who have looked at it have been very favorably impressed with the design.

Commerce Bureau Kept Busy.

September transactions in the local office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce were the heaviest in any single month since its establishment, according to E. C. Porter, Commercial Agent in charge of the branch. Visitors calling at the office last month totaled 1,648, while 4,768 letters were received from many sections of the country making inquiry regarding matters connected with export trade. The callers at the bureau included manufacturers, exporters, and other merchants, as well as buyers from foreign countries. Ten representatives of foreign firms made use of its facilities. Seven countries were represented by these buyers.

Sport Shirts Popularly Priced.

From present indications the demand for sport shirts next Spring and Summer will be for the popularly priced lines. In fact, the manufacturers who have watched the growth of this novelty with interest do not expect to do business on anything in this line which is high priced. One of the leading factors in the trade, however, is bringing out a sport shirt of a conservative type for which large sales are predicted. This is the ordinary shirt with soft collar attached. The facing below the front button is so arranged, however, that the inside effect is the same as that outside; that is, of the same material. This gives a tidy appearance to the neck of the shirt when opened.

It Was a Failure.

That secret meeting of manufacturers of gray goods in Fall River and of Treasurers of big mills making these goods, which was told of in this column on Wednesday, was a failure. This much is definitely known, but the purpose of the meeting, somehow or other, has not yet been divulged by those present. If it was held for the purpose of securing an agreement not to buy cotton, it was doubly a failure, for the manufacturers were said to be buying that staple most vigorously on Wednesday, taking all the advantage they could of the break that resulted from profit taking. Many an "I told you so" was heard in the market yesterday morning following the break from the lips of men who maintained that the advance could not be sustained, but as the day progressed and prices moved upward again there was not much said on the subject.

Raw Silk Prices Are Advancing.

The Yokohama raw silk market has taken a sharp upward turn, and prices have advanced 40 yen per picul over the quotations of a week ago. The advance brought them to the highest point touched since August, 1914, with double extra Japan filatures quoted at 940 yen. Sales for the week there amounted to 4,200 bales, with stocks left at 10,000 bales. Canton remains very firm at prohibitive prices, and business is handicapped by the lack of stocks. The Shanghai market has further advanced on steam filatures, and reelers have little silk to offer, excepting for the far-off deliveries. Tsatlees are 10 per cent. higher than at the beginning of the month, and tussahs are firm at the recent advance. Cables received by H. L. Gwalter & Co. of this city say that the Milan market is unchanged and prices are very firm. Local business is very good, all grades of silk being in demand at full prices.

Are Registering Their Marks.

According to a local international patent attorney, the way that American business firms are registering their trademarks in Latin America shows that they are going hot-foot after the business down that way that is not being done now by the English and Germans, particularly the latter. In practically all of these countries, if not all, priority of registration determines the ownership of a mark, and it not infrequently happens that some well-known American firm prepares to do business in them, only to find that its mark has already been registered. This requires that it abandon the mark so far as the country in which it is registered is concerned, or that they buy it back from the person who registered it at whatever price is asked. This practice is quite general, Argentina being about the only South American country to frown upon it in an official way.

Say Wall Street Helps.

The improved business in Wall Street is certainly helping retail business in the Maiden Lane jewelry district these days, particularly that of the big silverware makers. Reports from them indicate that things are much better now than they were a year ago, and that they are getting better all the time. The approach of the October wedding season is also helping this branch of the business, flat ware being especially in demand. The wholesale departments also report improved business. Good mail orders are told of, and the travelers are doing better than last year. While the number of out-of-town buyers here this season is probably not much larger than last year's, the amount of business placed shows general improvement. This is said to be particularly true of the business given by Southern and Far Western buyers. Makers of gold jewelry also report an improvement in the demand.

Gray Goods Mills Withdrawing.

Prices continued firm in the local gray goods market yesterday under the stimulating effect of the recovery in cotton, but business was not as active as it was on Wednesday. This was due chiefly, however, to the fact that the mills are withdrawing their goods from the market because the present prices are not commensurate with the cost of cotton. Sales were made, in a fairly sizable way, on practically all of the staple constructions in printcloths, sheetings, and drills, but it was said to be much easier to get orders than to get goods. This was especially true of cloths wanted for the later deliveries. Fancies and specialty goods, especially those used by the clothing trade, were in good demand and firmly held. Spot prices on staple printcloths were:

39-inch,	68-72s	5⅛c	38½-inch,	60-48s	*4¼c
39-inch,	56-44s	3⅞c	27-inch,	64-60s	3⅛c
38½-inch,	64-60s	4½c	27-inch,	56-52s	2⅞c

Some Improvement in Diamonds.

While reports coming from local diamond dealers at the present time are not altogether optimistic, it is said that some improvement in demand has taken place in the last few weeks. This is truer, however, of the business that is done by dealers who sell direct to the retailers than by those who confine their sales to the jobbing trade and to the manufacturers. The explanation of this seems to lie in the fact that it is the larger retailers who are getting better business from the consumers, and that these retailers are generally more apt to buy their goods from the dealer who sells direct to them than from the jobber. While there is very little merchandise coming from Belgium now, and not much from anywhere, there is no great possibility of a diamond shortage here for some time to come. Current stocks are sufficient at the present rate of demand to last for some time. There is not a great deal of feature to the present business in other precious stones, either.

Offers Novel Statement Blank.

In order to expedite and cheapen the prosecution of merchants who send false financial or property statements through the mails, thereby obtaining merchandise to which their real standing does not entitle them, the National Association of Credit Men is distributing a novel blank form of statement. It is manufactured by a Chicago concern, and is sent to the prospective debtor with the name of the creditor firm already imprinted on it. It is an unusual form of return envelope, which, when it is folded together, does not look unlike an ordinary one. On the sides that come inside when it is folded, however, are blanks in which answers to various questions relating to property, finances, references, &c., are filled out. Use of the form naturally does away with the difficulty frequently encountered in the courts of proving that an improper statement came through the mails, even when the envelope which contained it is retained. The form was adopted by the association's committee on credit department methods, and was recommended to that body at the recent convention in Salt Lake City.

GOOD DEMAND FOR SILKS.

This Is Considered as a Sign of General Improvement.

The semi-annual report of the Silk Association of America, in reviewing the situation in the silk trade, reports the return of more satisfactory conditions. "It cannot be said," the report reads, "that the improvement in the silk industry has been in any way brought about by war orders, as the amount of silk used in warfare is negligible; so that when conditions in such an industry show improvement it is significant of business in general. Because silks are luxuries, people do not buy them unless the business outlook is encouraging."

The report goes on to say that the industry has been a loser by the war through the lack of dyestuffs and demoralized fashions. While the condition of the trade through the scarcity of dyes is admitted to be more serious than some manufacturers realize, hope is held forth that American chemists will eventually accomplish the desired results and supply the deficiency.

Fashions were not affected to the extent it was at first anticipated.

"It was noticeable at the Paris openings," the report says, "that silk fabrics were more in evidence than woolens and cottons, a condition that has come about through the great woolen mills in the North of France being in territory occupied by the Germans; while the silk mills, which are located in the Southeast of France, are still in operation."

The yardage demand by the great flare of the skirts has proved a boon to the silk manufacturers after the narrow skirts of the previous season. In respect to ribbons, the new models shown in Paris give reason to hope that ribbons for dress trimmings will be in demand, and it is said that millinery styles will favor them.

DUTY ON AGATE BUTTONS.

Government Not Satisfied with Decision for a Low Rate.

The Treasury Department has decided to ignore a recent ruling of the Board of General Appraisers relating to the classification under the tariff of agate buttons. The board held that buttons of this kind which had been assessed for duty at 40 per cent. ad valorem under the provisions for "all collar and cuff buttons and studs composed wholly of bone, mother-of-pearl, ivory, or agate" were properly dutiable at only 15 per cent. under the provision for "agate buttons."

While the phraseology of the two classes appears to be rather conflicting, the department has decided to continue the litigation despite the board's finding in favor of the importers. Owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the record of the case won by the importing interests, the Government will not take this particular case to the Customs Court.

Assistant Attorney General Hanson, who has been looking into the matter, has advised the Treasury officials at Washington that other cases raising the same issue are pending before the board, in which evidence can be secured more favorable to the Government. Assistant Secretary Peters has accordingly issued an order to collectors and other officials of the customs directing that, pending a final decision, the higher rate is to be imposed. The importation of agate buttons of all varieties has assumed very large proportions, it was said yesterday, with the result that the Government has no desire to see the duty cut 25 per cent., as would be the case were the board's original decision to be accepted as final.

Decisions Made on Imports of Metal, Paper, and Textiles.

The Board of General Appraisers yesterday took adverse action on protests by Benjamin Selling, Portland, Ore., dealing with the rate of duty on raincoats composed of wool, cotton and rubber. The Collector returned the apparel as of wool chief value, and took duty at 44 cents a pound and 60 per cent. ad valorem under the tariff act of 1909. The coats were claimed to be properly dutiable at 25 per cent. as in principal value of rubber. Analyses made by the Government chemist at New York showed that wool predominated. The Collector was affirmed.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company was partly sustained in protests against the Collector's assessment on aluminium spoons, forks, ladies, whips, cake turners and tea strainers. They were returned for duty at 25 per cent. ad valorem, under the provision for kitchen or hollowware, while the importer claimed 20 per cent. as manufactures of metal not specially provided for. The board sustained the protests to the extent of holding that the spoons, ladles and cake turners were dutiable as claimed. The remaining articles were held properly assessed.

Charles D. Stone & Co., Chicago, lost in protests relating to merchandise invoiced as manifold paper. Duty was taken at the rate of 35 per cent. ad valorem under the provision for imitation parchment paper, while the claim was for entry at 25 per cent. as typewriter or imitation onionskin paper. According to Judge Fischer, the proof offered was wholly insufficient to substantiate the claim.

As it was shown to the satisfaction of the board that hobgrinding machines imported by Schuchardt & Schutte were metal-cutting, power-driven mechanisms, the board ordered their admittance at 15 per cent. ad valorem, as "machine tools." The Collector was reversed in returning them at 20 per cent.

It was decided that F. B. Vandegrift & Co. had no ground for protest against the return made by the Collector at Philadelphia on band iron in coils. It was classified as band iron and duty levied at 10 per cent. ad valorem. The claim was for entry at 5 per cent. as bar iron.

Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, were sustained in the contention for lower duty on women's woolen dress goods returned for duty at 35 per cent. ad valorem under the woolen dress goods provision of the law.

TELLS OF ADVANCES IN IRON.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 30.—Various speakers recounted the advances made in malleable iron practice in the last five years at the annual convention today of the American Foundrymen's Association. They also told of efforts to produce a superior article to prevent further inroads of cast steel into the malleable iron field. It was said that by some malleable iron manufacturers articles are being made which in many respects are better than cast steel for railroad and implement work.

James H. Gray of the United States Steel Corporation discussed electricity as a source of heat in connection with the manufacture of steel in recent years. As a competitor of coal and gas, he said, it has proved expensive, but the use of the electric steel furnace has grown rapidly because it produces a heat free from oxidizing elements and chemical reactions and metallurgical operations are made possible which could not be attained by older methods.

R. A. Bull of Granite City, Ill., was re-elected President. Other officers chosen were Senior Vice President, J. P. Pero, East St. Louis; Vice Presidents, Henry A. Carpenter, Providence, R. I.; S. B. RAILROAD REPORTS SHOW BETTER TRADE

N. Y. CENTRAL GAINS $896,618

Great improvement over last year is indicated in the statements for the month of August of revenues, expenses, and operating incomes of the New York Central lines and the Pennsylvania system. Both statements were issued yesterday.

The Pennsylvania reports an increase in net earnings over those of August, 1914, of $1,245,729. The New York Central reports a net increase of $896,618, excluding the Boston & Albany Railroad.

Including its lines East and West, the Pennsylvania reports total operating revenue for the month of $34,769,896, an increase of $966,078 over August, 1914. It reports total operating expenses of $23,912,508 for the month, a decrease of $279,650.

The New York Central reports operating revenues of $14,458,039, an increase of $583,072, and operating expenses of $8,966,340, a decrease of $379,684. The net earnings reported by the Pennsylvania, minus total operating expenses, including tax accruals, are $10,857,387 for the month, and those of the New York Central, minus all deductions, $4,775,555. The net earnings for the Pennsylvania's lines east were $7,395,643, an increase over the previous August of $782,637. The total operating expenses for the month, for the lines East, were $16,221,310, a decrease of $177,179.

Most of the roads connected with the two systems reported increased incomes and decreased expenses. The Pennsylvania reports increased expenses for only three of its twelve lines, the West Jersey & Seashore Railroad, $18,729 increase; the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad, $40,621 increase, and the Maryland, Delaware & Virginia Railroad, $1,056 increase. The New York Central reports increased expenses on the Michigan Central, $100,666; Cincinnati Northern, $5,679; New York, Chicago & St. Louis, $24,092; Lake Erie & Western, $39,695. The Lake Erie & Western is the only one of its lines for which the New York Central reports increased operating expenses for the eight months ended Aug. 31, giving an increase of $14,811. The Pennsylvania reports increased operating expenses for the same eight months for the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk, $34,282, and for the West Jersey & Seashore, $123,876.

For the first eight months of the year ended Aug. 31 the Pennsylvania reports total operating revenue, $232,746,620, total operating expenses $183,342,740, and net income $49,403,880. This total revenue was $3,754,043 less than that for the same eight months of 1914, but a decrease of $9,006,898 in the total operating expense for the eight months of this year brought the net income up to an increase of $5,252,855 over the same months last year.

For the same eight months the New York Central reports total operating revenues of $103,873,493, an increase of $3,816,726 over 1914 and net income of $27,482,539, an increase of $8,872,959.

CUTS RAILROAD'S DEFICIT.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—In his annual report, issued today, President James H. Hustis of the Boston & Maine Railroad Company cheers the stockholders of the property by announcing a saving of $1,710,279.88 as the result of a year's economical management. He expresses in conservative terms the belief that the company's situation fundamentally is sound.

Mr. Hustis shows that the reduction of operating and other expenses has cut a deficit that on June 30, 1914, stood at $2,044,742.01 for a year, to $334,462.13 for the fiscal year ended June 30 last. Co-operation of noteholders, he says, has enabled the company to carry its burden of $24,310,000 short-term notes after their maturity. Express business, under a new contract, he says, shows an increase of 5.58 per cent. in revenue, and with normal business conditions will show more.

The report shows that the company spent on additions and betterments in the fiscal year $1,316,042.89. Equipment and property retired and land sold, amounted to $882,288.06, leaving a net amount of $433,754.83. Improvements to equipment made to comply with Federal laws cost $138,662.49. Steel underframes in 1,715 freight cars cost $205,727.07.

Mr. Hustis says that the valuation work of the Boston & Maine system has been continued during the year at a cost to the company of $135,538.56. This is included in operating expenses. The total expenditure incurred by the Boston & Maine system, on account of this work, to June 30, 1915, was $183,430.74. The work will probably be completed in 1916. The Boston & Maine will therefore be one of the first, if not the first, of the large systems to arrive at a valuation.

NEW MOTOR CAR COMBINE.

Chevrolet Company's $20,000,000 Stock Sold in a Few Hours.

The Chevrolet Motor Car Company has been formed, through the coalition of two concerns of the same name, one incorporated in New York and the other in Indiana, with capital stock of $20,000,000. The banking firm of Hornblower & Weeks offered the stock for private subscription at 85 yesterday, and the entire issue was sold in a few hours.

The combined capital of the constituent companies was $1,900,000, all of which was held by interests identified with the General Motors Company. W. C. Durant, a Director of the General Motors Company, is the moving spirit in Chevrolet affairs. It was learned yesterday that owners of the old Chevrolet stock had taken up $13,500,000 of the new shares, while the balance of $6,500,000 was disposed of to large investors. A statement issued by Hornblower & Weeks said the company's product would be low-priced passenger cars.

"The company is controlled by interests identified with the General Motors Company," the statement said. "and the management will be in the hands of those identified with the management of the General Motors Company. Constituent companies show earnings in the twelve and one-half months ended Aug. 14 of $965,000, equivalent to 4.8 per cent. on the total stock outstanding. Current earnings are at the rate of $2,000,000, or 10 per cent. on the stock. The purpose of the financing is to provide extensions which will enable the company to increase its output from 100 cars a day, its present rate, to 300 cars per day, according to present plans, and ultimately to a much higher figure."

The company has no bonds, and the stock is all of one class.

E. H. GARY ON STEEL TRADE.

Reports Mills Working at Capacity and Most Prices Good.

E. H. Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, said yesterday that the corporation's business was satisfactory, and that there was nothing in the price situation to complain about.

"Since I left the city June 30 on my vacation," he said in a statement, "I have given no interview or statement to any newspaper or representative concerning business matters, present, past, or prospective. In remarks before the Commercial Club in San Francisco early in July I referred to general business prospects as being improved, and gave the reasons. However, I am pleased to say at this time I find on my return to the office that the steel business at present is satisfactory. Our bookings and shipments are about equal to our capacity, and the prices received, while not in some respects sufficiently and reasonably remunerative, are on the whole good and therefore will result in substantial profits."

The corporation's manufacturing capacity is estimated at 45,000 tons of semi-finished and finished products a day, exclusive of the Minnesota Steel Company, a subsidiary which will soon be in operation. If this pace were continued for a full year the total output would be in the neighborhood of 6,200,000 tons of steel, a figure nearly 4,000,000 tons greater than in any past year of the corporation's history.

SEPTEMBER TRANSACTIONS.

Transactions in stocks on the New York Stock Exchange for the month of September aggregated 18,497,797 shares, a decrease of 1,920,589 shares, as compared with the previous month, but an increase of 10,814,831 shares, as compared with the same month in 1913, the Stock Exchange remaining closed during the corresponding month last year. There were five days on which the dealings exceeded a million shares, with the trading on the 28th the largest. The total on the latter date was 1,663,917 shares, the heaviest amount of dealings since Sept. 27, 1911, when the total was 1,683,729 shares. The smallest full day's total was 348,671 shares on the 13th. For the Saturday half-holiday the maximum total was 571,611 shares on the 25th and the minimum 169,163 shares on the 4th.

The following table gives the total transactions in stocks for September and the nine months of this year, as compared with the corresponding periods in each year back to 1889:

STOCKS IN A SHORT FLURRY.

Temporary Drop on News of Submarine Attack on American Ship.

The stock market paused shortly before noon yesterday, then broke violently from 2 to 6 points, and shortly renewed its advance in as headlong a fashion as ever this week. Early dispatches from London regarding the damage done the American vessel Vincent started a rumor that a German submarine had sunk the ship. The violent advance of the last few days had left prices in a position to reflect bad news by dropping rapidly, and for a time there was tremendous selling. Later news that the vessel had struck a mine soon brought about a recovery, which was continued in the afternoon.

Transactions aggregated close to 1,500,000 shares. Except for gains of 12 and 11 points each in General Motors and Continental Can, the market was orderly, save in the quarter hour after stocks began to recover from the shock. Copper shares and those of certain companies which have received war orders were features, Tennessee Copper gaining nearly 6 points, and Railway Steel Spring the same. Baldwin was active, but showed a net gain of only a fraction.

The influence of the Anglo-French loan was again evident in the business of commission houses. The rampant bulls said there was no question that the loan would be a great success and that it could not but help stocks.

Five Year Notes, which mature October 1, 1915, the full amount necessary to pay all of said notes, principal and interest, the undersigned Voting Trustees hereby give notice to all holders of stock trust certificates issued under the agreement dated October 1, 1910, and representing stock of General Motors Company, that on presentation and surrender thereof on or after October 1, 1915, at the office of Central Trust Company of New York, 54 Wall Street, City of New York, such holders will receive stock certificates of General Motors Company for the number of shares, and of the class, preferred or common, represented by their stock trust certificates surrendered. No delivery of stock certificates, however, can be made for stock trust certificates presented to said Trust Company after the close of business on October 26, 1915, when General Motors Company will close its stock transfer books, until November 17, 1915, the day following the annual meeting of the Company, when its stock transfer books will be reopened. Temporary receipts may be delivered for the surrendered stock trust certificates, entitling the holder to receive stock certificates as soon as prepared.

All stock trust certificates so surrendered must be endorsed in blank or be accompanied by proper instruments of assignment in blank.

Dated New York, October 1, 1915.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Another Active Day, with Wide Price Changes and Large Gains.

Yesterday's stock market was similar in many respects to those on the earlier days of the week. That is to say, it was very active, with total dealings close to 1,500,000 shares; it was very irregular, with, however, large gains and very small losses; and it was extremely sensitive to rumors.

An opportunity to test the truth of the oft-made saying that the advance had carried prices so far that it needed only a small shock to overturn the whole structure came yesterday morning in a report that an American ship had been submarined. The effect of the news, which later lost its unfavorable significance, was an almost instantaneous drop in prices all the way across the board. This reaction carried the highly speculative war issues, which had added from two to fifty points to their prices of a week ago, back several points without any difficulty. On the lower level such a volume of support appeared as to indicate very clearly that however close to the top the movement in some of the war order stocks may have gone, the public interest is nevertheless so great that it needs only a moderate resumption to bring in a veritable flood of buying orders.

Spectacular gains were again in evidence in a few issues. Continental Can almost duplicated its performance of the previous day by selling up eleven points more. Goodrich Rubber sold up 4⅞. Inspiration Copper, which has been lagging for a number of weeks despite the most optimistic reports from its sponsors, resumed the advance begun on Wednesday and closed 5¼ points higher. Railway Steel Spring was another issue which made good the prediction of its friends by selling up six points before the close. Tennessee Copper, after swinging over a range of more than seven points, closed with a net gain of 5¾.

Much of the steam seemed to have gone out of the Baldwin movement before the opening yesterday and, as compared to its recent antics, that issue behaved in staid fashion. On dealings of less than 30,000 shares it closed at 131¾, at which point it showed a net advance of one-half point.

The most favorable comment in the financial district yesterday had to do with the really surprising response made by the country to the preliminary offering of the Anglo-French bonds. It looked last night very much as though bona fide subscriptions from those desirous of participating in the syndicate had already come into sight for the full amount available.

LONDON MARKET CHEERFUL.

Money in Good Demand and Discount Rates Steady.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Money was in good demand and discount rates were steady today. American exchange opened firmer, at $4.72¼, and later reacted to $4.72.

While the tone of the stock market continues good, the demand exists principally for short-term issues and the war loan. A few home rails and Russian bonds hardened today, and Kaffirs continued in demand for Africa.

American securities were quieter, but the scarcity of stocks keeps the market comparatively steady. A few gold bonds were marked in the late trading.

British Bank Statement.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes:

Circulation increased	1,177,000
Bullion decreased	891,000
Other securities decreased	3,362,000
Other deposits decreased	3,956,000
Public deposits increased	12,956,000
Notes reserve decreased	7,478,000
Government securities decreased	1,899,000
	26,000

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability this week is 24.79 per cent.; last week it was 25.06 per cent. Rate of discount, 5 per cent.

Prices Irregular on Bourse.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—Prices were irregular on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 66 francs 50 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 25½ centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Peace in Rock Island.

There was a happy get-together meeting in the offices of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company, 14 Wall Street, yesterday afternoon. N. L. Amster, it is understood, said he would quit the warpath, and his old opponents shook hands with him. Charles Hayden, who had not been on speaking terms with the Amster contingency in the Rock Island, joined in the expressions of peace. Hereafter there will be a united Board of Directors, it appears, and a united course of action for the reorganization of the Rock Island. Incidentally, now that the war is over, it is quite clear that Mr. Amster, instead of losing force in his fight against the Reid-Moore interests, steadily gained in strength. He had his way when he elected himself to the board; he smote the Reid-Moore interests until they resigned one after the other; he brought a $7,500,000 suit against the Reid-Moore Directors that has now been sustained by a Federal Judge and by the Receiver of the Rock Island, and his persistent criticism caused the President of the Rock Island to resign as one of the receivers, thereby leaving the railway in control of Colonel J. M. Dickinson, against whom no criticism has been directed by either of the factions. With all the turmoil Rock Island stock held its own, and yesterday sold at $25 a share, the highest point reached in several months. At yesterday's meeting the Directors of the railway company agreed to instruct the officials of the road to instruct stockholders sending proxies to cast their votes at the annual meeting on Oct. 14 for the seven men named by the Hayden-Amster committees. This practically assures the election of the compromise candidates.

Mercantile Marine Surprise.

The announcement of the Wallace Committee, representing preferred stockholders of the International Mercantile Marine Company, that the earnings of this company for July, inclusive of the Leyland Line, were more than $3,500,000 caused new surprises on the Curb and the preferred stock quickly sold 10 points up. Such earnings would be at the rate of $42,000,000 a year. This is $6,000,000 more than the most liberal previous estimate. The financial district was interested primarily in the probable effect of the Wallace Committee's charges that the receivership of the marine company could and should have been avoided and that there was more than $8,000,000 in the bank when interest was defaulted on the company's bonds. If no compromise reorganization plan can be brought out in the near future, it is believed the courts will be asked to settle some disputed points. A perplexing question among the speculators pertains to the probable value of the marine company's shares. They realize that the company is making money, but they believe the stock will be scaled down, and they have no assurance as to the ratio of exchange. Moreover, they realize that the company faces a British war tax, and this tax has not yet been specified.

Floor Traders Give First Aid.

In the opinion of conservative brokers on the Exchange floor the professional traders yesterday rendered an important service to holders of long stock generally. This occurred in the break which followed the first news that an American vessel had been sunk off Archangel. Initial dispatches were meagre, and timid speculators immediately thought more trouble over submarine warfare might be near, an impression which was at once reflected in heavy selling orders. As the movement gathered force and prices melted, the brokers said, professional began to buy. There was no philanthropic sentiment animating them. They had short lines which offered a profit if covered properly, and, as they absorbed a substantial part of offerings for many stocks that were weakest, prices were not long in reflecting their activities. Soon after the market began to display stability, further cables from London stated that a mine had damaged the vessel, and the market proceeded to grow wilder than ever on the bullish side.

A Change of Opinion.

Since the Anglo-French loan was definitely closed a change of sentiment has become evident in a number of investment houses. While the brokers would not previously state they were opposed to the bonds to be issued under the loan as a desirable investment, they intimated that customers would have recommended to them first-class railroad securities in preference to the new loan. They have now changed their position, and discuss the new bonds as investments of the first order. Perhaps the high yield offered has had something to do with this. It seems more probable, though, that mature consideration of the loan has dissipated an opinion held in early stages of the loan negotiations that security additional to the pledge of the two great nations should be put behind the bonds.

Copper Stock Influences.

All the copper issues were strong, Inspiration and Tennessee Copper shares showing exceptional vigor. In a normal market an advance of even half the gain scored yesterday would have brought out much serious talk among the fortunate owners of stock about the improved state of the copper industry, but this was not heard except as expressed in general terms. Instead, Tennessee was going up because of new contracts for sulphuric acid, Inspiration was helped by the fact that its output would be running on a high scale shortly, while strong pools were assisting some of the others. Outside of market circles, however, gossip had to do with the copper market and was to the effect that buying around the 18-cent level was satisfactory to the refiners.

New Motor Stock Rises.

The eagerness of traders for motor company shares was shown in the case of the new Chevrolet stock on the Curb yesterday. The subscription price was 85, and yet the offering was not more than twelve hours old before 97 was bid in the open-air market. No transactions at that figure were reported. A reason for the sharp rise apparently was that little if any of the stock was available, as most of the $20,000,000 shares went into the hands of insiders.

Exchange Seat for $62,000.

A seat on the New York Stock Exchange was sold yesterday for $62,000. This is an increase of $2,000 over the last previous price. Since the previous seat was sold a new bull movement got under way, and the increased activity is reflected in the higher price for Exchange seats.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

A committee has been formed by the New York Trust Company for the general mortgage 4½ per cent. sinking fund gold bonds of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway Company. The committee consists of Otto T. Bannard, James N. Jarvis, J. R. Nutt, Andrew J. Miller, and Henry Sanderson. The New York Trust Company will receive deposits beginning Oct. 8.

The stockholders of the Delaware & Hudson Company yesterday authorized the issue of $14,451,000 5 per cent. twenty-year bonds, convertible after ten years into stock at 150.

COTTON, IRREGULAR, CLOSES 18 POINTS UP

BAD CROP REPORT EXPECTED

Private Investigations All Show Deterioration Since August Announcements.

Cotton made a fair recovery yesterday from the break of Wednesday afternoon, and at one time prices showed a gain of nearly 50 points. There was considerable irregularity throughout the session, however, with several up-and-down movements of 15 to 20 points. There was no especial weakness except when rumors were circulated that another American ship had been torpedoed. When the falsity of this report had been proved the market recovered as rapidly as it had broken, and closed at a net gain of 13 to 18 points in the more active options.

Liverpool showed no disposition to follow the extreme break of Wednesday in the New York market. Moreover, it was believed that damage resulting from the Gulf hurricane might be more severe than was at first reported. Considerable cotton was said to have been destroyed in Alabama.

In addition to this the technical position of the market reflects surprising strength, and indications point to a large number of sold out bulls who are waiting to buy on a moderate further decline.

The Government report tomorrow is expected to be unfavorable. The report of the Watkins Bureau published by H. F. Bachman & Co., placed the condition at 62.5 compared with 69.7 at the end of August. The average of the four private reports thus far issued is 61.9. The Giles report will be issued at 10:30 this morning, and on account of the interest taken in the condition of the crop it is expected to have even more weight than usual.

The special reports of the Journal of Commerce indicate considerable deterioration in the two Carolinas, Georgia, and Tennessee. Heavy damage has resulted from shedding caused by heat and drouth.

Southern spot markets as officially reported were quiet, 13 to 25 points decline. The local market for spot cotton was quiet, 10 points advance, 12c for middling. Sales, 500 bales. Futures closed barely steady.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Strength marked the closing dealings on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. There was a pronounced rebound from a spell of acute weakness around midday, when the whole list was carried down for a time under general selling precipitated by a report that another American vessel had been blown up. The recovery started when it was stated that the disaster to the ship had been due to a mine and not a German submarine.

SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION.

SAVE AND BE SAFE

The old reliable Franklin Society for Home Building and Savings operates under New York's revised Banking Law, which provides the strictest known system of supervision. Thrifty thousands have found the Society a help and a blessing during more than a quarter of a century. On sums of $10 or over (up to $5,000) the Society has always paid dividends as large, and usually larger, than are paid by the best savings banks. The usual rate has been 4½% per annum. Payments made before Nov. 1st earn from that date.

REORGANIZATION

International Mercantile Marine Company

(International Navigation Company)

Notice that plan of Reorganization has been declared operative, of change in plan and extending the time for the further deposit of securities thereunder to Oct. 1, 1915.

The Plan of Reorganization of the International Mercantile Marine Company dated August 3, 1915, has been declared operative by the Reorganization Committee.

The continuing large earnings of the properties of the International Mercantile Marine Company now indicate that the assured cash resources of the New Company make it unnecessary to require Holders of Stock and Stock Trust Certificates to subscribe to bonds of the New Company at the rate of $2.50 per share, and the Plan has accordingly been changed so that holders of Stock and Stock Trust Certificates may at their election deposit their Certificates of Stock and Stock Trust Certificates without the payment of the subscription.

Holders of Certificates of Deposit for Stock and Stock Trust Certificates already deposited may, if they so desire, obtain a refund of the amounts paid by them upon surrender of their Certificates of Deposit to the Depositary or its Agents, on or before October 1, 1915, in exchange for new Certificates.

Certificates of Stock, Stock Trust Certificates, and Bonds must be deposited under the Plan on or before October 1, 1915, after which date no deposits will be accepted except in the entire discretion of the Committee and subject to such penalties and conditions as the Committee may see fit to impose.

Copies of this notice have been filed with the Depositaries and their Agents.

General Mortgage Four and One-Half Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

In view of the appointment of a Receiver of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway Company, the undersigned at the request of the holders and representatives of the holders of a substantial amount of the General Mortgage Four and One-half Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds of said Company have agreed to act as a Committee for the protection of the interests of the holders of said bonds.

A Deposit Agreement is now in the course of preparation under and subject to which bondholders are requested to deposit their bonds with THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, 26 Broad Street, New York City, the Depositary of the Committee. The Deposit Agreement will be completed and the Depositary will be prepared to receive deposits of Bonds on and after October 8, 1915, when copies of the Deposit Agreement may be obtained from the Depositary or the Secretary of the Committee.

All bonds deposited must bear all unmatured coupons. Certificates of Deposit will be issued for Deposited Bonds, application for the listing of which, on the New York Stock Exchange, will be made.

AMERICAN TUBE AND STAMPING.

In our opinion, the intrinsic worth of Am. Tube & Stamping stock is much greater than prevailing prices. We believe a material advance in this issue is to be expected.

INTERNATIONAL MERCANTILE MARINE COMPANY

To Holders of Preferred Stock:

The Committee, as a result of the examination being made on its behalf of International Mercantile Marine Company, is now in a position to make the following announcement:

It appears from the records of the Marine Company that during the month of March, 1915, it was in a position to pay all interest then in default upon its bonds, and that by order of its board of directors the Chairman of the Reorganization Committee, who is President of the New York Trust Company, the Trustee under the mortgage, was notified of this fact. Such a default cannot be made the basis for declaring the principal of the bonds due, and the Committee is advised that the pending foreclosure suit can be successfully defended; that the present receivership was unnecessary and that it could have been avoided by the board of directors of the Marine Company.

The preliminary report of Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, the accountants for the Committee, states:

(1) Exclusive of depreciation and new war tax, and also exclusive of undivided earnings of the Thompson & Co., Limited, Shaw Savill and Albion Co., Limited, Holland-America Line, but after deducting all current interest charges, including bond interest (amounting to $2,232,776), the earnings of the Marine Company for the seven months which ended July 31, 1915, were over $11,000,000; in addition the Marine Company's share of the earnings of the Leyland Line for said period were over $7,000,000; for the month of July, 1915, (the latest figures available,) such earnings of the Marine Company, including the Leyland Line, were over $3,500,000.

(2) The Marine Company was at all times during the month of March, 1915, and thereafter in a position to pay all back interest and current interest on its bonded indebtedness. On March 31, 1915, the last day to cure the six months default in the payment of interest on the 4½% bonds, there was on deposit in cash to the credit of the Marine Company, and subsidiary companies, $8,538,394.

(3) Many of the assets and particularly investments in other steamship companies are carried on the books of certain of the Marine Company's subsidiary companies at values far below their real worth.

(4) The property and assets of the Marine Company, including ships, securities and cash, but excluding good will, trade routes and the like, are, excluding inter-company accounts, obviously of a value largely exceeding the bonded debt and other indebtedness of the Marine Company and its subsidiary companies.

The Committee does not intend to permit this valuable property to pass under the present reorganization plan which presents to the bondholders the entire property, with its present enormous earnings, except the insignificant portion of the equity left to the stock. The examination of the affairs of the Marine Company is proceeding, and arrangements are being made for the defense of the pending foreclosure suit.

Holders of preferred stock who desire to protect their rights from sacrifice, and who do not intend to surrender their property at the invitation of the bondholders so that they (the bondholders) may reap substantially all the benefit of the earnings, are urged to immediately deposit their preferred stock and thereby aid the Committee in its efforts. Deposits should be made with CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, at its office, 54 Wall Street, New York City. Certificates of deposit will be issued for all deposits made. Copies of the Deposit Agreement may be obtained from the Secretary of the Committee. A substantial amount of preferred stock has already been deposited.

Dated, September 29, 1915.

EDUCATION NOTES.

Plans for the new Manhattan Trade School for Girls have been approved.

Maternity leaves of absence of two years granted to Mrs. Florence E. Morse of P. S. 26, the Bronx, and Mrs. Marion C. Wickes of P. S. 146, Brooklyn, have been terminated.

John R. Cave has been assigned as substitute supervisor of trade equipment in evening high and trade schools.

Trimble Foster has been assigned as Chief of the furniture division in the Bureau of School Buildings.

Annexes will be established to the East Side Evening High School in P. S. 91, Manhattan, and to the South Brooklyn Evening High School for Men in P. S. 2, Brooklyn.

There will be a meeting of the Interborough Association of Women Teachers in the Metropolitan Life Building at 8 P. M. today.

Temporary licenses as teacher in training in high schools have been granted to the following: Cooking—Marjorie C. Barbine and Jean S. Barrick; Economics—Owen Reilly.

A class in embroidery is being formed in Evening School 157, on St. Nicholas Av., between 126th and 127th Streets. Registration is now being held in the evening at the school. Class sessions open at 7:45 P. M. on Oct. 4.

Representatives of the Education Department next week will confer with Mayor Mitchel upon the proposal of Supt. Wirt to extend his work, play, and study plan to all schools without waiting for the result of the experiment in the twelve Bronx schools.

The Board of Education has asked the Board of Estimate for $25,000 to conduct an industrial survey. The United States Bureau of Labor and the State Department of Labor will be requested to co-operate.

The examination for license for promotion was taken by 501 teachers.

City.

Applications for actuarial clerk, grade 3, will be received until 4 P. M., on Oct. 18. The subjects and weights are: Duties, 4; mathematics, 4; experience, 2. The duties are assisting in the adjustment of crude mortality rates prepared from tabulations in the computing department; constructing commutation columns; preparing annuity values and present values of pension benefits and working tables. The minimum age is 20 years. There is one vacancy in the Commission on Pensions. The salary is $1,050 a year.

United States.

The commission announces for Oct. 20 at the New York Custom House an examination for junior mechanical engineer, Grades I. and II., for men only, to fill vacancies as they may occur in the Interstate Commerce Commission under the act providing for the valuation of the property of common carriers. The following positions established under the above act will be filled from the register resulting from this examination: Junior mechanical engineer, Grade I., $1,200 to $1,680 a year. Junior mechanical engineer, Grade II., $720 to $1,080 a year. In addition to the above salaries necessary expenses will be allowed when absent from headquarters in the discharge of official duties. Applicants for examination and appointment to either of the above positions are not debarred from taking any other examinations that may be offered. Persons employed in any of these positions are eligible for promotion to the next higher grade upon recommendation of their superiors and by passing an appropriate noncompetitive examination to meet the requirements of such higher grade. Appointments to these positions will be principally for field service. Competitors will be examined in: Theory and practice of mechanical engineering as applied to railway rolling stock and other machinery, and the mathematics used in this branch of engineering, including algebra, geometry, and trigonometry, but not including calculus; education, training, and experience. Applicants must have reached their twenty-first but not their thirty-sixth birthday on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The tropical storm has continued to move in a north-northeast direction, and Thursday night its centre was over Tennessee, while the pressure has risen decidedly and the violent winds have subsided in the region of its centre, yet this disturbance has caused general and heavy rains in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, Tennessee, and the lower Ohio Valley. Storm warnings have been lowered at Southern ports.

Moderate temperature continues throughout the country.

The weather will become overcast in New England Friday, and will be followed by rains Friday night and Saturday. In the Middle and South Atlantic States and the Ohio Valley, rains Friday will be followed by clearing weather Saturday. In the region of the great lakes the weather will be overcast Friday and Saturday, with rain over southern portions. In the Gulf States generally fair weather will prevail Friday and Saturday.

Temperatures will not change materially over the eastern half of the country within the next forty-eight hours.

FORECASTS—TO-DAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York, Southern New England, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Friday and Saturday.

Western New York—Rain Friday and probably Saturday.

A CITY BY THE SEA
The Traymore, of itself, is a city by the sea. In the full tide of the season, it has a population of more than 2000, including guests and household staff. In addition 2000 more have been entertained of a night in the Restaurant, the Submarine Grill, the Belvedere, and the Rose Hall. It supplies its own water from artesian wells. It makes its own light, heat, and ice. It has printing and laundry establishments. Supplies are drawn, like all cities, from selected markets outside; but in practically all other respects it is sufficient unto itself. Traymore City might figure on the map, and travelers sailing from New York to Savannah would distinguish it by the emerald rays, flashing from its twin towers, high above Absecon Lighthouse. For it is the most conspicuous object on the Atlantic Coast south of the Statue of Liberty.

Marlborough-Blenheim
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
THE LEADING RESORT HOUSE OF THE WORLD
Capacity 1100 American and European Plans
The great essential of a resort hotel, as distinguished from a city hotel, is ample public space devoted to the use of its guests, in the form of bright and airy Exchanges, Lobbies, Parlors, Galleries and Solariums, affording pleasing vistas and beautiful promenades, the whole combining into an harmonious vision of grandeur and beauty, which, while replete with the cozy group seclusions of home, afford full view of the pleasing panorama of the resort life. In this essential the Marlborough-Blenheim stands without an equal in Atlantic City or elsewhere.
Its "Ownership Management," while accounting for its unique reputation, is a guaranty of the high character of its patronage and the unexcelled quality of its service and cuisine. It employs only white service in both its American and a la carte dining rooms.
It makes a specialty of its high-class music every evening throughout the year, with special Sunday night solo features, which, this year, with such artists as Romani, Manolito, Rose and Glanville, have been most successful.
Atlantic City, with its only real competitor (Europe) this year impossible, is offering unusual attractions and entertainments. Two flying boats are daily sources of interest. Two golf courses, the Yacht Club, the fishing fleet and the wonderful bathing beach attract their respective devotees, while the pier amusements, the theatres, the Boardwalk, the fine motor roads and the splendid hotels and restaurants, afford enjoyment to all. There is only one Atlantic City, and this year it is particularly attractive. Write for illustrated booklet and rates.

Riverside Drive Purchase Near 152d Street—Edwin Gould Buys West Thirty-fifth Street Hotel—Bronx Apartment Sale—H. P. Whitney Leases Shore Front for Hydroplane Hangar.

The City Real Estate Company, evidently representing a builder or investor who contemplates an apartment house on upper Riverside Drive, purchased yesterday a large frontage on the easterly side of the Drive, between 152d and 153d Streets. The thoroughfare curves sharply toward the northwest from the former street and the property acquired begins 30 feet north of the 152d Street corner, fronting 137.7 feet on the Drive by 175 deep on the easterly line, running through to 153d Street, with a frontage of 100 feet there, and having a westerly line of about 81 feet.

The property was bought from the estate of C. R. Maltby and Miss Elizabeth R. Wellington, the latter being the daughter of Aaron H. Wellington, who formerly owned a large tract there. The 153d Street portion faces Trinity Cemetery, and the block below is improved with two six-story houses.

The deal was closed by David Stewart in conjunction with Bernard London.

Deal on West Thirty-fifth Street.

The Five Boroughs Realty Company, of which Edwin Gould is President, has added to its midtown realty holdings by the purchase of the six-story hotel at 147 to 151 West Thirty-fifth Street. The structure, which occupies a plot 66.8 by 100 by irregular, was sold by the Innovation Realty Company, M. S. Manness, President.

Harlem Tenement Sale.

G. Tuoti & Co. have sold for cash to a Staten Island investor for Isidor Brand the five-story tenement known as 229 East 107th Street, on a plot 25 by 100.11, between Second and Third Avenues.

Fifth Avenue Apartment House Loan Increased $100,000.

An additional loan of $100,000, at 6 per cent., to run until June, 1918, has been secured by the 907 Fifth Avenue Company from the M. S. C. Holding Corporation on the south corner of Fifth Avenue and Seventy-second Street, where a twelve-story apartment house is in process of erection on the former Cornelius Vanderbilt-James A. Burden properties.

They already carry two mortgages for $1,825,000, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company having supplied $1,400,000 of this sum.

A Recent Buyer.

1916 Tax Rolls Open Today.

The tax rolls, showing the valuations placed on real estate for the purpose of the 1916 tax levy, will be opened for inspection this morning. Application for reductions in assessments must be made to the Tax Commissioner before Nov. 1.

Bronx Apartment Deal.

Daniel H. Jackson of the D. H. Jackson Company has bought from William F. Gorman the five-story new law apartment house at 1,020 to 1,028 Simpson Street, about 200 feet from Westchester Avenue and the Simpson Street subway station, on plot 40x100. Ogden & Clarkson were the brokers.

This is the fourth apartment house that Mr. Jackson has purchased in that block within the past four weeks, among them being the Sinbar Court, at 906 to 914 Simpson Street, 150 by 105, and since resold to the Bronx Industrial Estates, a corporation formed by William Sussman and Edward Gibbs, to which title was passed yesterday.

Brooklyn.

The Jerome Property Corporation of Brooklyn sold 389 Fourth Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, a four-story single apartment house on a lot 28 by 100, for J. Stoerger to Mrs. E. Walker, who owns the adjoining property.

Louis Gold has sold the two-story and store brick building at the northeast corner of Flatbush and Parkside Avenues to Frederick Platt for investment.

Tutino & Cerny have sold for Henry Kettelhodt and others to the March Realty Corporation, a plot 160 by 100 on the southeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street for immediate improvement with three-story brick stores and dwellings.

The Realty Association has sold a plot 200.6 by 131 on the north side of President Street, 100 feet west of Bedford Avenue, to Charles A. Chase, who will erect twelve one-family dwellings on the property. Mr. Chase recently purchased a similar plot adjoining on Union Street, which he has improved with high-class private houses, several of which have been sold.

The Realty Association also sold No. 1204 Union Street, between Rogers and Nostrand Avenue, a two-story brownstone dwelling, on lot 20 by 127.9, to Robert W. Belcher; No. 1,208 Union Street, between Rogers and Nostrand Avenues, a two-story brownstone, 20 by 127.9, to Rebecca E. Theiss, and No. 330 Chester Street, near Dumont Avenue, a three-story single frame, on lot 20 by 100, to Hyman Krieger.

Meister Builders, Inc., have sold the one-family two-story stucco and hollow tile house, 1,135 Seventy-fifth Street, to a client for occupancy.

Long Island.

At North Richmond Hill, in the New Gardens section, Fire Commissioner Robert Adamson sold twenty-four lots to the Brooklyn Heights Land and Mortgage Company, which resold to Joseph and John Campbell and Loretta C. Cahill. The property fronts on Green and Gould Streets, Long Island Railroad, and Hillside Avenue.

In the Fourth Ward, Borough of Queens, the New York Suburban Land Company sold a plot 60 by 100 on Park Avenue to C. Betterley, and a plot 40 by 125 on Sterling Street to A. C. Young.

A client of Frederick Zittel & Sons has purchased from the Thompson Land and Water Company, 120 Fourteenth Street, Murray Hill, Flushing, a three-story dwelling and garage on a plot 75 by 200.

Whitney Lease for Hydroplane Hangar.

Cocks & Willets leased to H. P. Whitney five acres of land on Cow Bay, L. I., upon which he will erect a hangar for his new motor hydroplane. This property is near the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club and is admirably adapted for a hydroplane, having a marine railway running down to the water.

Bronxville Sale.

Fish & Marvin have sold for D. B. Lawrence the Stratford House at Lawrence Park West, Bronxville, to C. L. Reierson, formerly of St. Louis. It fronts on Sunny Brook and adjoins the Lawrence Park Country Club. The plot contains one large dwelling. It was held at $27,000.

Staten Island.

Cornelius G. Kolff has sold for the Narrows Improvement Company, Inc., to W. Washington, the dwelling house, with lot 40 by 162, at Harbor View, Clifton, Staten Island.

New Jersey.

At Garwood, N. J., the New York Suburban Land Company has sold a plot 40 by 150 on Third Avenue to G. & A. Matarazzo and a plot 40 by 153 on North Washington Street to S. Rocca.

Sales in the Tuxedo Park tract, South Orange, have been made by the Crawley-O'Brien Company to Harry W. Barclay, Margaret C. Gray, Joseph I. Conlan and Anthony J. Mueller, who have acquired plots for residence improvement, and a new dwelling there has been bought by Robert W. Brown.

Famous Players Co. Lease Old Riding Academy.

As a moving-picture studio the Famous Players Film Company has leased the old Dickel Riding Academy building, 100 by 200, at 124 and 126 West Fifty-sixth Street, running through to 131 and 133 West Fifty-fifth Street. Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company negotiated the lease for William S. Mason, the owner of the property.

Commercial Leases.

Rice & Hill have leased for the Willard S. Burrows Company, as agents, to the Harry Blum Cigar Company the southerly store in the building at 1,204 to 1,210 Broadway for ten years.

M. & L. Hess, Inc., have leased for a term of years the store and basement at 24 and 26 West Twenty-fifth Street to the firm of Atlas & Bluhm, formerly of 103 Fifth Avenues, for the storage and sale of cotton goods.

Ogden & Clarkson have leased for the estate of David Frankenberg the entire building at 157 West Thirteenth Street, and for the Cross & Brown Company the store and basement at 1,875 Broadway to Senior Bros.

Private Dwellings Leased.

Worthington Whitehouse, Inc., has leased 37 East Fiftieth Street, a five-story dwelling, for S. A. Reed to Augustus Van Cortlandt; also the dwelling at 130 East Thirty-seventh Street for Grace T. Cumnock to Ross McPherson.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. have leased for the Hanover Mortgage Company 124 East Thirtieth Street, a three-story house, to Mrs. G. Herring and Miss T. Saxon.

Pease & Elliman have rented for Mrs. E. L. Norton to Fernando Tanara the three-story residence at 256 West Seventy-fourth Street, and for Mrs. E. R. Osborne the four-story residence on the south corner of Riverside Drive and Eighty-third Street to Charles C. Deming.

Richmond Borough Wants a Subway.

The Staten Island Subway Conference, composed of the various civic organizations in the Borough of Richmond, has completed arrangements for a mass meeting in the interests of a subway to Staten Island to be held at Huguenot Park, Staten Island, on Thursday, Oct. 14.

Percival G. Ullman, Jr., a member of the Executive Committee of the conference, said yesterday: "The movement for a subway is rapidly engaging the public of this borough and outside people who have realty interest here. It has been rumored that private interests have inspected Staten Island and its connections with New Jersey for subway connections to and through the borough. I am also informed that banners in all towns throughout the borough will shortly be raised and that mass meetings are being formed for the purpose of presenting the subway matter to the people."

Real Estate Notes.

Shampan & Shampan have prepared plans for a high-class apartment house to be erected on the southwest corner of Avenue I and East Fourteenth Street, Flatbush, for Bernard Kempner, a Manhattan operator, who has entered the Brooklyn field with Jacob S. Glaser, under the name of the Rangeley Construction Company.

INSTRUCTION.

THE CARPENTER SCHOOL For BOYS and YOUNG MEN
310-312 WEST END AVE. Tel. Columbus 4390
Established at This Address for Fifteen Years and Accommodates 72 Boys 7 to 18 Years of Age.

In the education of its pupils, this school takes into account—business opportunity, social environment, home atmosphere and training, antecedents, capacity and ideals; cultivates initiative and develops as an asset distinctive personality.

The usual school course is offered, but that is only the beginning of the work. During the past year pupils were sent to 35 exhibitions, theatres, lectures, warehouses, parks, markets, schools, and factories (both in and out of town), all in addition to the usual school routine, afternoon outdoor exercise, and study after 4 P. M. under masters only. Manual training shop with machinery.

The personal nature of the work, the giving or withholding of aid, encouragement or coercion, requires personal knowledge of each boy, the parents' conception of education, and a thorough co-operation with the home. Results are positive, and the endorsement of eminent business and professional men is offered in evidence.

H. MANNING CARPENTER, Head Master.

BROKER A SUICIDE ON WOMAN'S GRAVE

MOURNED MRS. SIMMONDS

Several men who were working in Mount Hope Cemetery, just outside of Hastings on Hudson, heard a revolver shot at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The sound came from the direction of the monument erected to the memory of Confederate soldiers. Near the base of the monument, in what is known as the Caskin burial plot, they found a tall, well-dressed man lying dead across a grave, with an automatic revolver in his hand. Beside him on the grave lay a bunch of white carnations and a note. It read:

"I am Maximilian Schmitz, Swiss citizen, born in Havre, France, July 21, 1887. Notify William S. Moore, 56 Beaver Street, New York City. Telephone 6240 Broad."

The body was lying across the grave of Mrs. Lucy A. Simmonds, which is beside the graves of her parents, Theodore Clark Caskin and Lida Pickett Caskin.

In the man's coat pocket was found a memorandum book in which were many notations written in a fine hand. Some of these were written in French, others in Spanish, and others in English. In the middle of the book was found the following memorandum written in English:

The date of the memorandum on the next page was Jan. 15, 1915, indicating that the death memorandum had been written early in January. A search of Superintendent Haskell's cemetery record showed that Mrs. Simmonds, aged 27 years, died on Jan. 13, 1915, in Polyclinic Hospital, Room 656.

News of the suicide was telephoned to Mr. Moore at the telephone number given in the note. Mr. Moore said that he would go to Hastings as soon as possible. The telephone number was at the office of Robert Moore & Co., 56 Beaver Street. Mr. Moore is an employe there. Later it was learned from Henry Shanz of Robert Moore & Co. that Schmitz was a member of the New York Cotton Exchange and had had desk room in the Moore office for about a year. Mr. Shanz said that Schmitz was what is known as a "floor member," and that, while his dealings were never large, he was considered successful for a young man, and that he had impressed other members as being unusually clever.

When Mr. Moore arrived at the cemetery he said Schmitz had a brother living in Norfolk, Va., with his mother, and that he would notify them to take charge of the body. He would give no further information. It was learned that Mrs. Simmonds had a sister, Mrs. J. O. Williams, living at 9 Highland Avenue, Madison, N. J.

Mrs. Williams was amazed when she heard of Schmitz's suicide late last night.

"I am at a loss to understand it," she said. "I knew that Mr. Schmitz was very fond of my sister before she died, but we always regarded him merely as a dear friend. He came to this country about six years ago and met my sister when she was Lucy Caskin of Virginia. She married G. Watson Simmonds, who is in the insurance business in Manhattan, and Schmitz went abroad for about two years. She was married about four years ago. She was ill a long while before her death, and was very ill when Schmitz returned to America. We knew that he was greatly grieved when she died."

J. O. Williams said that he knew Schmitz well. Schmitz was the son of Paul Schmitz, one of the largest cotton factors of Bremen, Germany, he said, and the young man received an excellent education abroad before coming to this country. On returning to America the second time he became interested in the cotton business himself.

A thorough search of the suicide's clothing was made last night by Coroner Dunn. Some money was found in his pockets and a check book on the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York. The stubs represented checks for several thousands of dollars.

On the last page of the memorandum book were found a few lines scrawled in pencil. It is believed that he wrote these last lines while beside Mrs. Simmonds's grave. As the authorities can find no clear meaning in the lines they believe that he was slightly deranged when he committed suicide.

Several persons in Hastings recalled having seen Schmitz on Wednesday night and yesterday morning. They had taken particular notice of him, they said, because of his distinguished appearance and excellent clothing. He was tall, clean-cut and light haired. Schmitz went to Hastings on Wednesday and engaged a room at Doner's Hotel for the night. He sent down to the office for writing materials, and when he left the hotel yesterday morning he mailed several letters he had written. It was noticed that he carried a large bundle with him when he went to the hotel, and it is believed that this contained the carnations which he left on Mrs. Simmonds's grave.

Word was received in Hastings last night from Pierre Schmitz, the brother, who is in the spot cotton business in Norfolk, that he probably would arrive tonight to take charge of the body. The suicide, is was learned, had made his home at the Hotel Earle, at 103 Waverly Place, Manhattan, until about nine months ago, when he moved and left the mailing address 154 West Seventy-second Street. During the Summer he made his home at Sewaren, N. J.

Theodore Clarke Caskin, father of Mrs. Lucy A. Simmonds, was born in South Carolina, and was for a long time a member of the Palmetto Guards, the crack military organization of Charleston. He was a Confederate veteran.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Caskin were members of distinguished Southern families. Superintendent Haskell recalled last night that Mr. Caskin died in 1911 and Mrs. Caskin in 1909, and that Mrs. Simmonds often went to Mount Hope Cemetery to decorate their graves before she died. She was an unusually handsome woman, he said.

G. Watson Simmonds, husband of the late Mrs. Lucy A. Simmonds, is a member of the insurance firm of Simmonds, Flowers & Smith.

Passaic Keeps Pro-German Papers.

PASSAIC, N. J., Sept. 30.—Following a meeting at the City Hall last night at which 150 or more citizens of German and Irish extraction vehemently protested against the removal of the Fatherland and the Gaelic-American from the files of the library, the trustees today unanimously voted to put them back on the files. About two weeks ago the trustees passed a resolution to exclude from the libraries of the city all "controversial literature," with the result that the Librarian, Miss Elizabeth White, took from the files all copies of the Fatherland and the Gaelic-American. Immediately there was a storm of protest from German and Irish Americans.

Best Play in New York

"Two years ago it would have seemed impossible that leaders of society would flock to the opening of motion picture plays as they would to a 'premiere' at the opera. Yet that is just what did take place Thursday night.

"The piece de resistance was an exciting and romantic play of adventure called 'The Lamb.' THE FIGHTS BETWEEN THE YAQUIS AND THE LAMB AND THE RESCUE BY THE UNITED STATES CAVALRY WERE QUITE AS THRILLING AS THE BEST EPISODES IN 'THE BIRTH OF A NATION!'"

Humor and Pathos.

The war pictures in The Mid-Week Pictorial of The New York Times give both the serious and humorous aspects of the war. On one page we have a cartoon picturing Austria complaining to Uncle Sam about the sale of war munitions to the Allies, and on another a picture of the capture of an Austrian spy and sniper in his hut by Italian Bersaglieri, with the little daughter of the prisoner weeping in terror at the fate in store for her father. Filled with pictures of great and little happenings of the war. Every issue is a treasure in itself. Mid-Week Pictorial, 10c. a copy. On all news stands. Bound volume, containing ten early numbers, $1; postpaid. Times Square, New York.—Advt.
